CHANCELLOR TO VISIT MEDFORD

Fred M. Hunter, chancellor of higher education, will be in southern Oregon tomorrow morning to inspect the work being done by Prof. F. C. Reimer at the experimental station near Talent in eliminating tomato blight. The chancellor will be accompanied by George Peavy, president of Oregon State College, C. V. Boyer, president of the University of Oregon, B. B. Barker, vice-president, Walter Redford, president of Ashland Normal school, and C. A. Brand, member of the state board of higher education. The educators will also inspect the normal school at Ashland where lunch will be served.

ABBY K. THOMAS DIES IN ASHLAND

Mrs. Abby K. Thomas of 718 West Main street, died at 9:30 this morning at the home of her nephew, Wilmer Foley, in Ashland. She was 68 years old, the widow of the late T. W. Thomas. Mrs. Thomas suffered from a lingering illness for the past year. Long a resident of Medford, she went to Ashland last week to visit Mr. Foley. Mrs. Thomas is survived by her sister, Mrs. Bonnie Andrews of Ashland; a step-son, Joe A. Thomas, and a grandson, W. E. Thomas, both of Medford, and several nieces and nephews, including Mr. Foley, George Andrews of Ashland, Mrs. Clara Hartley of Talent, Miss Rita Andrews of Santa Cruz, Cal., and Mrs. Minnie Frost of Redding, Cal.

W. S. CHAPMAN IS TAKEN BY DEATH

William S. Chapman, a resident of the Rogue River Valley since 1891, and a resident of Lake Creek since 1908, died at a local hospital late last evening after a lingering illness. He is survived by six sisters and two brothers: Mrs. N. S. Bennett, Medford; Mrs. Noa S. Cornutt, Ridge; Mrs. George Gurnea, North Bend; Mrs. Fred Roper, Hayward, Cal.; Mrs. James R. Bean, Portland; Mrs. G. E. Hill, Seattle; Samuel T. Chapman, Colorado Springs, Colo.; and Charles Chapman, Talent. The body is at the Conger funeral parlors where funeral services are being arranged and from where services will be announced.

Rialto's Star

Nancy Carroll and George Murphy are starred in "After the Dance," playing today and Thursday at the Rialto theater. Telling the story of a night club entertainer, made the poet for a manslaughter charge, "After the Dance" presents Murphy in the type of part he made famous on Broadway, a fast-stepping, hot-footing dancer, and the wonder of it is that this is his first chance to show his dancing wares on the screen, even though it was his dancing that first took him into pictures. As the entertainer sent to prison, escaping and finding a refuge with Nancy Carroll, Murphy is said to do a fine piece of work. The two team together to become a sensational success in night clubs, only to have his past rip him out in the person of the Thelma Todd. Jack Larue is also featured in this melodic, tuneful and dramatic romance.

Coming Sunday

"Top Hat," starring America's foremost dancing stars, Ginger Rogers and Fred Astaire, comes to the Craterian theater Sunday for a three-day run. Combining delightful comedy with love interest, "Top Hat" unfolds against the colorful backgrounds of London and the Lido. Dances said to be the most intriguing and spectacular ever introduced by Astaire and Miss Rogers, are climaxed by the featured "Piccolino," which is done in a brilliant Venetian setting. The cast includes the comedy favorites, Edward Everett Horton, Helen Broderick, Erik Rhodes and Eric Blore. Music and lyrics by Irving Berlin.

Joe E. Brown Coming To Craterian

Joe E. Brown, the funnel-mouthed comedian, comes to the Craterian theater tomorrow in what is said to be his most uproarious comedy romance. In addition to Joe's laugh-provoking stunts, there are four lively songs for the picture is one of backstage life and the singing comes in naturally. Joe E. himself sings and dances and does acrobatic stunts with the famous Mavellos. Scores of pretty chorus and dancing girls appear in the theatrical sequences, but "Bright Lights" is neither a musical or a farce, but a stirring romantic comedy. The cast includes William Gaegan, Joseph Cawthorn, Henry O'Neill, Arthur Treacher, Gordon Westcott, Joseph Crehan and William Demarest. As a special added attraction on the stage for tomorrow night only, the Craterian will have the annual Adrienne's Fall Fashion Revue, showing the latest models in fall styles.
