New Star in Rialto Drama

Peter Lorre, amazing new personality to the American screen, and credited by Charles Chaplin as being the greatest living character actor in the world, brings something new to motion pictures in the way of creepy mystery thrills in "Mad Love," coming Sunday to the Rialto theater. Playing the role of a mad surgeon in Paris, Lorre brings a bold, outstanding characterization that for fantastic and gripping excitement is said to top all past "horror" films. Eerie thrills, weird surgical experiments, a glimpse of the Grand Guignol horror theater, the guillotine and other equally nerve-shocking diversions surround the gripping drama. Appearing in the supporting cast are Frances Drake, Colin Clive, Henry Kolker, Ted Healy, Ed Brophy, Isabel Jewell, Sarah Haden and many other well-known players.

Wall St. Report

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—(AP)—With the exception of softness among rails, the stock market made modest progress toward higher level today. The main body of active shares worked 1 to 2 points higher but yielded a portion of the advance during the final

Rainier
Special Export

The best buy in beer! Now in the "BIG BOY" bottle—Rainier's famous "Special Export"—the MALT beer like the Original Pilsener. Full 32 oz. quart.

"Special Export" has the unequalled flavor of the better beers of old, because it's made like the original Pilsener, from barley-malt and choice hops.

Better Beer With New Malt System
A new improvement, the Swedish vacuum-drying process, makes this finer beer possible. With this new process more enzymes are preserved than ever before. An enzyme's job is to ripen and mellow beer, so more enzymes means a better beer.

World's Largest Ageing Vats
Rainier's "controlled-malting" guarantees you a beer of uniformly high quality. Every drop is thoroughly and carefully aged in immense ageing vats, the largest in the world. You'll notice the difference in "Special Export." It's mellow, uniform in flavor and deliciousness. Try Rainier "Special Export," the Pilsener-type MALT beer. Today.
