ESTES, SCHROEDER WIN MAIN EVENTS ON ARMORY CARD

Toots Estes, giving away 17 pounds to handsome Jack London, brother of Jim London, the former heavyweight wrestling champion, last night took London two out of three falls for one of the most popular victories in months. London, a giant of a man, tossed and worried the clever little Hawaiian champion, and took the middle fall, but Estes stuck valiantly with him, time and again emerging from impossible holds to toss London out of the ring several times, taking the final fall after the Greek Adonis had missed a terrific Sommerberg and hurled into the ringside chairs.

Estes got the first fall after he was chucked out of the ring. He came back over the top of the ropes with his famous flying slingshot, bowling London over. Quick as a cat, he bounded to his feet and dropped-kicked his bewildered opponent twice, taking the fall with a body press.

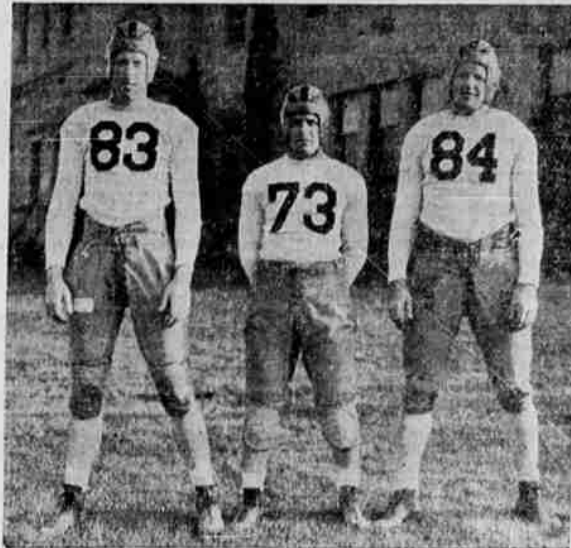

Weight told in the middle frame when London bogged the clever Estes down by the simple expedient of sitting on him. He took the fall with a body press after Estes had missed a wild try at a dropkick and struck his head on the canvas.

Two of the giants of ring warfare put on a battering exhibition in the other half of the main event, with Hans Schroeder, huge German grunting, taking two out of three falls against Andrew Adore, Adore, French Canadian, exhibited lightninglike footwork and squeezed out of several of the punishing Teuton's holds, but lost the first fall when Schroeder spun him twice in airplane spins, whacking him resoundingly on the sacrum.

The airplane spin seeming a good idea, Adore retaliated in kind in the middle frame, spinning the big German and then pinning him with a body press. He tried it again in the last canto but fell over backwards. The German landed on top of him, turned over and pinned him with a body press. The bout was clean, with Curly Woods refereeing in place of Ray Frisbie. The two big men proved popular with the crowd, particularly the sad panned Adore, who refused to change expression under the most grueling of Schroeder's holds. And Schroeder was grueling. When he clamped on a painful hold, he made it as painful as possible.

In the curtain raiser, the "mad marine" from Gold Hill, Bob Kennaston, failed to exhibit his usual fighting tactics, with Jack London serving as referee. The anxious way in which he broke clean after clamping a steady looking hold on Babet Estes was very amusing. He took the match with his punishing reverse headlock, a sort of home-made Boston crab. In 14 minutes after Estes had missed a second dropkick. The first dropkick was good but the Hawaiian twin was too anxious and allowed himself to fall into the bear-like embrace of the Gold Hill man.

Trio of SONS Mainstays

ON THE FOOTBALL FRONT

EUGENE, Ore., Oct. 8.—(AP)—After a day of rest, the University of Oregon varsity settled down to hard work again today to prepare for Saturday's game in Portland against the great University of California team.

"California has a good team, but they can be beaten next Saturday," reported Gene Shields, Oregon line coach who scouted them. In their crushing 10 to 0 upset victory over St. Mary's last Saturday.

CORVALLIS, Ore., Oct. 8.—Goal line punch in the running attack was sought today as the Oregon State college football team prepared for its game here Friday night against Gonzaga.

The phenomenal passing of Joe Gray was the brightest spot in the conference opener against University of California at Los Angeles Saturday. Every effort is being made to further perfect the passing attack along with improving the running attack.

SEATTLE, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Coach James Phelan had his eyes on the reserves of the University of Washington Huskies today with the intention of devoting most of this week in toughening them for the Washington State College game at Pullman October 19.

BERKELEY, Cal., Oct. 8.—(AP)—Big George Smith, University of California grizzer who is equally at home in the backfield as in the line, may get even more acquainted with the bench this season.

Coach "Stub" Allison, who moved him from center to quarterback because of his kicking ability, has decided to shift him back to the pivot post.

California meets Oregon at Portland next Saturday.

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Cal., Oct. 8.—(AP)—Stanford's Indians are buckling down to their most serious practice of the current season for their first conference clash Saturday with the University of California at Los Angeles Bruins.

Bobby Grayson, "Bones" Hamilton and Woody Adams all will be in shape to start the game.

SPOKANE, Wash., Oct. 8.—(AP)—Barring injuries in practice, Coach Mike Pecarovich predicted today his Gonzaga football team will be at top strength Friday against Oregon State.

of fisheries and U. S. forest service. Long stretches of shallow riffles will be eliminated by construction of dams and pools and natural feeding places will be built up.

Words of this nature, although extensively proven on eastern streams, is an innovation for the west. Projects will be carried out on Mt. Hood, Siskiyou and Fremont national forest streams.

THATCHER, Ariz.—(UP)—Without uniforms, with only four grid candidates of a squad of 30 who ever played football and with one applicant who never even saw a game, Coach John Riggs is seeking to put Gila college back on the football map.

For three years, the school had no team.

Uniforms ordered for this year's squad went astray somewhere, so the boys appeared for early practices in shorts.

Ten games were scheduled for the season, including Phoenix junior college, University of Arizona freshman, and three nearby high schools.

CCC CHAMPIONS BATTLE AT ELKS TEMPLE TONIGHT

The pick of the Medford district's 3-C fighters will be seen in action tonight when the Elks open their winter CCC fight series for Elks only at their temple at 8:30 o'clock.

Captain William C. Ryan, district athletic officer, was busy today brushing prize fighters out of his hair. Almost every camp in the district has several battlers who have been training hard during the summer for the opening of the winter season, all of them begging for a chance to appear on tonight's card.

Only about a fourth of the district's crack battlers will be seen tonight, but Captain Ryan promises to put together some of the best hours yet seen here. Stan "Shik" Stocking, 135-pound scrapper and district lightweight champion, will be unable to appear on the card because of a leg injury received in a recent auto crash. Savicky has come up to 140 pounds during the summer, and will appear on tonight's card.

Ernest L. Scott, secretary of the Elks lodge, has stated that a huge crowd will assemble at the temple for the battling, with a fine feed promised following the fights. The Elks band will add to the evening's entertainment, Elks from all of southern Oregon are expected, and the popularity of the smokers featuring the 3-C fighters having spread remarkably.

The lineup, as announced earlier in the week, will be:

Don Houston, 165, Diamond Lake vs. Al Daigneau, 170, Upper Rogue.

Joe Cavelli, 147, Headquarters detachment vs. Joe Lichee, 145, Annie Springs.

Raymond Stevens, 160, Diamond Lake vs. Charles Knight, 160, Upper Rogue.

John Jakubowski, 153, Coos Head vs. Charles Burroughs, 150, Annie Springs.

Johnny Bergiel, 135, Coos Head vs. Jess Savicky, 132, South Fork.

On Friday night, under lights at Roseburg, the Medford high school football team meets the Roseburg squad in the first conference game for either team. Roseburg has already played two games, winning both. They defeated Reedsport, 23 to 0, and Springfield, 28 to 0, neither one a conference game. But the two victories indicate that Roseburg has something on the ball, although Hod Turner, Indian mentor, says: "I am not bragging on either victory, however."

Very little is known about the comparative strength of Roseburg's two early season opponents. And there is much more about Roseburg itself. Right lettermen will be back for the season, but 12 on the squad have never played football. The squad averages 154 pounds, with Faucette, 181-pound tackle, the heaviest man. Fletcher, Indian right half, scales only 126 pounds.

"We do, however, hope to make up in fight what we lack in size and we hope to make it an interesting game, although the odds will greatly favor Medford," said Turner.

The game will be a gala affair at Roseburg, with the school dedicating its new covered grandstand. The dedication ceremonies will start at 7:30, with the kickoff coming 15 minutes later. Many from Medford are planning to make the trip to see the Medford team in its first regular game. Bowerman has not yet announced the men he will take on the trip, but there will be about 22 going.

On Saturday, the day following the Medford-Roseburg game, the SONS of Ashland will meet the University of Oregon freshmen at Van Scoyoc field here. Coming as it does on an open date, the first regular game of the season for the city, a record crowd should be on hand. The odds greatly favor the Frosh to win, and by a lopsided score, but the odds are never to be trusted.

It will be interesting to see Oregon's impressive array of freshman material. They are supposed to have the cream of the west coast crop, with high school stars from Washington, Oregon, Idaho, California, Nevada and Texas. Bob Hinman, star end on the Medford team last year and now with the Frosh, has been kept from the starting assignment for over a week, but will undoubtedly be sufficiently recovered from a painful shoulder injury to start the game Saturday.

An old statement is the authority for saying, "As the freshmen go, so goes the varsity." With a great freshman team coming up, it looks like a promising year in 1936 for Coach Callison.

The wrestling card at the Armory last night was exceptionally good, being exceptionally clean. Ray Frisbie, the usual referee, failed to arrive for the bouts, so Curly Woods did the job for him. Taking into consideration the lightness of the third man in the ring, the giants broke clean on most occasions, and most of the rough stuff was forgotten.

Frisbie is now living in Klamath, and may start training soon to take on Bob Kennaston, challenging ma-

Who Won The War? Asks Italian As Detroiters Cheer

DETROIT, Oct. 8.—(AP)—At least one of 500,000 Detroiters who took part in the jubilant celebration of the Tigers' world series victory didn't know what it was all about.

Patrolman Benjamin Ruston said the man, apparently an Italian, approached him at the information desk in police headquarters as torpedoes popped, automobiles backfired and crowds cheered outside.

"Who won the war? Italy?" he inquired.

Two weeks ago, in a scrape between Kennaston and Frisbie while the latter was refereeing a match, Kennaston knocked the big ex-wrestler down. The fireman bounded to his feet, avung a terrific haymaker, and mot-d down four of the challenger's biceps. A bout between the two should be a natural. The marine is better than he looks, but someone is going to have to lick him.

SONS DRILL HARD FOR BATTLE HERE WITH U. O. FROSH

ASHLAND, Oct. 8.—(Sp1)—With two unsatisfactory but experience-giving games behind them, Coach Jean Eberhart's Southern Oregon Normal school SONS will undergo the most strenuous practice week this year in preparation for their third battle against the University of Oregon freshmen at Medford next Saturday.

It will be the lone appearance of the SONS in Medford this season. Smartering from the 30-0 licking inflicted by the Oregon State Rooks last Friday night, which followed a 6-0 beating at the hands of Pacific University the week before, Eberhart will send his green charges through a furious week of drill with stress being laid upon the development of some sort of scoring attack.

So far the SONS, who to the man are playing their first season at Southern Oregon Normal, have showed little in the way of offense. Against Pacific they were in scoring territory not once and against the Rooks were able to penetrate into enemy danger zone only once.

In Max Gillinsky, former Medford high star; Virgil Horne, southpaw passer; John Shumway, hard hitting fullback from Redmond, and Johnny Chipley, last year's SONS yell leader, Eberhart has a light but fast-stepping backfield that if once shaken loose would run up the first downs.

There is no straight ahead power in that light backfield, and with that in mind, the new SONS coach will concentrate on forward and lateral passing to get some of those speed merchants, especially Gillinsky, into the open.

MARSHAL BRINGS PRISONERS FROM KLAMATH FALLS

Deputy U. S. Marshal Leo McLain was back in Medford today after a trip yesterday to Klamath Falls where he went to arrest O. T. Anderson, 65, of Beatty, on a bench warrant.

Beatty was charged with stealing cattle, a branded bull, from an Indian. He was arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Bert C. Thomas and released on $2,000 bail. He may be tried at the session of the federal court opening here October 15, Mr. McLain said.

Marshal McLain brought back Walter J. Kerrigan, 31, of Ashland, who was arrested at Chillicothe on a charge of selling liquor to an Indian. He was placed in Jackson county jail pending removal to Portland where his case will be presented to the grand jury, Mr. McLain said.

Last Thursday Marshal McLain brought over from Klamath Falls three other men charged with selling liquor to Indians. They were Ray J. Moore, 38, of Klamath Falls, and James Ross, 62, and William H. Stone-man, 37, both of Sprague River. They were held for the grand jury in Portland and are now lodged in the county jail here awaiting transportation.

Marshal McLain is now serving subpoenas upon witnesses who are to testify at the trials to be heard in federal court here.

The ladies of the Rogue Valley Golf club meet tomorrow for their regular weekly luncheon and golf tournament with a blind hole tournament to be featured. Mrs. W. S. Thurlow took last week's regular tournament.

Hostesses for the luncheon will be Mrs. Gordon Green and Mrs. J. H. Fletcher.

M'SHAIN COOLED BY OKLAHOMA GRAPPLER

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 8.—(AP)—Danny McShain, the hot-headed Irishman from Hollywood, was cooled off by Otis Clingman, Oklahoma sailor, in their middleweight wrestling match here last night.

After each had gained a fall in a furious match Clingman upended the rough Irishman and crashed him head first to the mat. They carried him away.

Bulldog Jackson met a new opponent, Art Kalkey, and won two straight falls.

Ernie Piluso of Portland gained two of three falls from Paddy Nolan, in another middleweight bout.
