WHO TO FIGHT FOR 30 HR. WEEK

News Behind The News

By PAUL MALLAN
(Copyright, 1935, by Paul Mallan)
WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—What is puzzling the smartest banking men within the new deal in that the financial situation is getting so good. It's bad. They are not losing any sleep over it yet, but are lingering the gold importation figures daily with something less than enthusiasm.

Their statistics indicate that more than $900,000,000 of gold came in within the last six weeks. Their inside data lead them to believe that the end of this flood stream is nowhere in sight.

That is what was behind the recent warning against initial stock prices by President Gay of the stock exchange; also the reply of Chairman Landis that his SEC could not do much about it.

To an outsider, the new counter gold stream may appear to be a fruitful one and which will transform Uncle Sam into the Midas of all creation. It probably will, but you may recall what happened to Midas.

The fact is all this incoming gold merely increases the unsatisfactory condition of excess reserves in American banks. That condition was bad enough when our own natural excess of stagnant bank money swelled to about two and a half billions before European importations started. Last week it was $2,720,000,000, an increase of $106,000,000 during that week.

All that the authorities here see in it, for the present, is that the banks, already dripping in excess reserves, are having more water poured over them. It may not make much difference to a drowned banker whether the water is ten feet deep or 15, but the difference will be noticed when resuscitation work starts.

Also, when the gold goes back to where it came from, the effect will be directly opposite that of a boom.

There is one happy overlooked circumstance which has not yet been advertised. The government has learned that the recent increase in stock prices already has brought most of the stocks into a higher margin class. That is, 50 to 60 per cent of the stocks formerly purchasable on a 25 per cent margin are now purchasable on a 10 per cent margin.

Economic Strength And Influence In Congress To Be Used—Nothing Will Stop Us Shouts President

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Oct. 14.—(AP)—The American Federation of Labor convention voted unanimously today to fight for a 30-hour work week through American business and industry.

"We're going out of here and fight for this as we have never fought before," shouted William Green, federation president, just before the convention approved the shorter work week committee's report that the federation should use both its economic strength and its influence in congress to reduce working hours.

Tolerate No Slackers
"If there's anyone who opposes this, let him get out of the way because Uncle Sam will not tolerate a slacker," this last remark followed a question from the floor by W. R. Trotter, delegate from International Typographical union, as to whether the advocates of the 30-hour week could depend on "at least neutrally from

HIGH COURT REFUSES RECONSIDERATION OF FRAZIER LEMKE BILL

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—(AP)—A plea that the framers of the constitution had no intention of "putting hobble-skirts on congress and hindering progress" failed today in obtaining supreme court reconsideration of its unanimous decision last term holding invalid the Frazier-Lemke five-year farm mortgage moratorium act.

The court's action today did not affect the three-year moratorium act passed by congress late last session after the five-year legislation had been declared unconstitutional on the ground it deprived creditors of property without due process of law.

Reconsideration was sought by Attorney General P. O. Balthus of North Dakota, Representative Lemke of that state and Edwin A. Krauthoff, counsel for William W. Bradford, a Christian county, Kentucky, farmer, whose mortgage precipitated the constitutional question.

JAP PROVOCATION CAUSE OF CLASH CLAIM RUSSIANS

Emphatic Protest To Tokyo Unanswered — Incident Most Serious In Series Of Border Friction Is Word.

By JOHN LLOYD
(Associated Press Foreign Staff.)
MOSCOW, Oct. 14.—(AP)—Informed Russian sources asserted today that Saturday's clash on the Russo-Manchoukuan border was a product of provocative tactics of Japanese military officials.

Acting on orders from Moscow, the Soviet ambassador to Japan delivered an emphatic protest to Tokyo, but no answer was immediately forthcoming.

The official Soviet press refrained from commenting on the incident, but a brief communique setting forth some details of the clash but not giving the number of casualties.

Promoting Friction
The incident was treated in Moscow circles as admittedly the most serious in a series of border clashes extending over a period of six months, but not as a threat of general warfare.

As in previous instances, they said a Japanese military clique was promoting friction with the Soviet union to justify keeping large armed forces in the Japanese-sponsored state of Manchoukuo, bordering on the Soviet province of Siberia.

They placed the responsibility on the shoulders of the Tokyo government, but on the grounds of giving the Manchukuan army too great leeway, not on grounds of deliberate official instigation.

No attempt was made to conceal the fact that the repeated border incidents were viewed with concern. It was pointed out in previous notes that incursions in Soviet territory "may bring very serious consequences to the course of peace in the Far East."

The planing department is now operating on slow-bell, but is expected soon to start full force.
