

CAPONE GOING IN FOR WRITING AND MUSIC IN PRISON

Former Gang King Spends Spare Time Strumming Banjo, Writing On Typewriter—Leisure Limited.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 15.—(P)—Quoting an unidentified "informant," the Examiner says that the man who once ruled Chicago's gangland has turned both musical and literary under the influence of Alcatraz Island penitentiary.

Al Capone, the paper said, spends most of his spare time strumming a banjo in the prison orchestra and pounding a typewriter in the library. The time for banjo-playing is limited, however, as only half an hour daily is allowed for orchestra practice, the paper added.

Pen Life Secret. Official secrecy has surrounded life at the rockbound prison since it was taken over by the federal government for confinement of its most dangerous criminals.

George "Machine Gun" Kelly and Albert "Snatcher" Bates, serving life terms for the Urschel kidnaping, work in the laundry and repair furniture, the paper said it was informed.

The Examiner said the prison routine is rigid. At 6 a. m. the convicts are up. Breakfast is at 6:15. They work from 6:45 to 11 a. m. After an hour lunch period they work from noon to 4 p. m. Prisoners are allowed to talk with each other only from 4 to 4:30 p. m. when they mingle in the yard. Dinner is served at 4:30. The convicts are locked up at 5. Lights are put out at 9.

Eat Cafeteria Style. Prisoners are fed cafeteria style, and may eat as much as they wish, but any man who leaves food on his plate doesn't get his next meal. The men are counted at 6 a. m., at noon and at the night lock-up. Checks are also made by guards every 30 minutes during the day. Cells are searched frequently, sometimes during the night. Several knives and blackjacks have been found, but no firearms.

MEDFORD ARTISTS ARE HONORED BY NEW YORK GROUP

Alice English and James Stevens have been accorded national recognition by the Society of Arts and Sciences in its list of nominations for its 1935-36 program. It was disclosed in an announcement today from the society's New York office.

Mr. Stevens, the announcement said, "is not only a vocalist but a teacher in the field of music and one who has been contributing his services toward forming and leading glee clubs for the Chamber of Commerce and social service clubs of the city and community."

The society bulletin stated that Mrs. English "is doing exceptionally fine work in the field of art." She has done a considerable amount of painting here, including murals at the Jackson school. A few months ago she did some scenic work for a traveling light opera company.

The society stated that Mr. Stevens and Mrs. English were "outstanding in their community" and were "not only rendering a real public service but making in his or her own sphere a laudable contribution to the arts."

Mrs. English was to leave this evening for San Francisco, where she has a number of painting contracts to fill. She said she plans on making her permanent home there.
