Ye Smudge Pot. By Arthur Perry.

Ethiopian tribal chieftains have deserted the cause of Emperor Haile Selassie to swear allegiance to Mussolini and fight for Italy.

Astronomers looking through the world's largest telescope at Mt. Wilson, Calif., into starry space, have discovered "there is not one sign of a void in any direction."

Very likely some Mahoney oratory will be turned loose in what is already known as the Windy City.

Hunters who have successfully hidden their resemblance to a deer, should not forget it is now dangerous to look like a Chinese pheasant.

Snow in the Crater Lake region has halted road construction work, and the Prospect team playing ball.

The new Blue Book has cuts of the members of the legislature and the new bridges as they will appear when finished.

A lady late to a bridge game skeddaddled up East Main street yesterday pm, as fast as the oldest Roosevelt boy, is alleged to have done in Connecticut.

Indians are in attendance on federal court once more. Economic conditions have improved to the point, where there is no sentiment to have another Indian war to make the Indians take the country back.

JOURNALISM'S WEEK IN SUN (Red Bluff, Cal., News). This is Newspaper Week.

Nothing particular is required of the public that it hasn't been doing. It will be a painless week for all of you.

Older girls protest, that new fall fashions reveal too much of the head, but there is nothing they can do about it.

WHILE THE GROOM'S SHAKE (Palo Alto, Calif., Times). An engaged girl who had planned a picturesque and ceremonial wedding, changed her plans.

The first lady of the land reports she has found a way to avoid the stares of crowds, viz: look over their heads.

WAR WHOOPS TO BE HEARD AT LUNCHON.—(Hollis Portland Oregonian). Cause and effect, and what have you.

Grandma's fancy bulbs have vanished. As there are no grapes in sight, the vandalism is blamed on a premature outburst of the Halloween spirit.

The 30 Hour Week

AS a measure to decrease unemployment the 30 hour week is probably desirable.

And as most experts agree there will be millions of men out of work, for many years, now is undoubtedly the proper time to institute the shorter week.

But where agitation for the 30-hour week, is really nothing but an effort to increase wages, on one hand; and provide more leisure for the workers on the other, we regard the movement as neither good sense nor good policy.

We don't care whether the individual labors with his head or his hands, five hours of work out of the 24 is not enough. This country never grew great on such a schedule and never will maintain its greatness on it either.

This country has been developed by men and women who had their eyes on something but the time clock and the pay check.

In fact practically all the things worth while have been done by those who concentrated upon accomplishment—getting things done—and paid little or no attention to the time required to do them.

As a temporary measure to cover an economic emergency the 30 hour week is all right; as a permanent program and particularly as a symbol of the American SPIRIT of accomplishment and endeavor, it is all wrong.

The Football Pendulum

NOTHING succeeds like success. This is true in all walks of life including football.

When U. S. C. was carrying everything before them, Howard Jones was regarded as the greatest football coach in the country. His word was the law and the gospel.

Last season was a dismal one for the Trojans. This season promises to be little if any better.

For some time we have been expecting the cry for Howard Jones' scalp to rise from the environs of Los Angeles county, and have been surprised at the absence of any agitation toward that end, since U. S. C. started down the toboggan.

It took last Saturday's defeat at the hands of Illinois, apparently, to start the ball rolling.

NONE other than Charley Paddock, former world champion sprinter, distinguished Southern California graduate and present business manager of the Long Beach Sun, rises to demand the head of his former pal Howard Jones, because he is getting nothing out of his fine material at U. S. C.

Unless something happens soon,—presumably against Oregon State this Saturday—the well sharpened axe "will come tumbling over rarin' for action."

SO it goes. The plain truth is Southern California HASN'T the material. Three or four years ago, a "build-up" for U. C. L. A. was started by certain powerful business interests in Los Angeles.

But results are what count. Unless Jones can snatch a row of victories to smother his defeats, the man who was once "the greatest football coach in the country" will no doubt find it desirable to move elsewhere.
