

ACTION EXPECTED ACT AS BALM IN THREATENED RIFT

between Mussolini and his general staff in Ethiopia." General Emilio de Bono is the commander-in-chief of the Italian colonial troops. His station is in Ethiopia.

"Mussolini is most displeased with the stagnation of military operations around Addis Ababa, seriously affecting the prestige of the Ethiopian army," the emperor continued.

A general discussion of the Afro-European crisis was held in the state department in Washington by Secretary Cordell Hull, Andre de Laboulaye, the French ambassador, and other state officials.

It was purely a general discussion, the ambassador said.

In the midst of the re-arrangement among the powers, a report of British casualties resulting from the Italian invasion of Ethiopia, tended to complicate the international situation further.

Claim British Attacked

Officials at Zella, the seaport metropolis of British Somaliland, were informed by tribesmen the 17th British camel corps of native troops suffered casualties in the advance of General Rudolfo Graziani's army, penetrating Ethiopia from Italian Somaliland.

The camel corps was on border patrol duty.

The colonial office in London had no knowledge of the clash.

The report was flatly denied in Rome.

One unconfirmed report was that the camel corps had been gassed with bombs from Italian airplanes. Details were lacking.

The events in Geneva and in the capitals of Europe were overshadowing in importance the Italian drive into the interior of Ethiopia.

The British were striving with all energy to hasten the "buy nothing from Italy" program through the League of Nations sanctions committee. For the second day, however, the committee adjourned without a decision. The economic worries of some smaller nations were proving to be stumbling stones.

Some League powers felt it might be necessary to effect some means of compensating smaller nations for their losses in cooperating with boycotts and embargoes on Italy. Inasmuch as the losses suffered by some small European nations would be proportionately greater than the loss of large powers.

Italians Lose Optimism

The firm hand of Britain in the entire situation was finding the early optimism in Italy being replaced with pessimism as the dominant mood.

Well-informed observers in Rome frankly expressed the fear the tension between Italy and Britain would crystallize to the breaking point with unforeseen rapidity.

The worst is expected.

Virginio Gayda, editor, who frequently foretells government action and thought, wrote that sanctions were "slipping toward the extreme eventuality."

On every hand, attention was being given to the domestic need as well as to the task of supplying the armies invading the empire of Haile Selassie.

Officials of the ministries of corporation, agriculture, finance, communications and merchant marine went into detailed plans for facing any food distribution crisis.

Call Home Defense

Air force and non-commissioned officers of the class of 1906 were called into service in connection with the home defense plans.

One of the newest scenes of activity became the Egyptian metropolis of Alexandria.

Military authorities there agreed the vast base of the British Royal Air Force, 10 miles east of Alexandria, would be the main British defense base in the event sanctions lead to war between Italy and England.

This air base is the greatest in the near east. Officials estimated more than 1,200 B. A. P. airplanes were quartered there already.

In Ethiopia, both the Italians and Haile Selassie's warriors were preparing generally for the major battle that seemed certain to come shortly.

The emperor dispatched more cavalry and infantry to the support of both the armies in the north and south. Reports into Addis Ababa said between 200,000 and 300,000 tribesmen were deploying south of Makale, prepared to defend the way to Dessale and Addis Ababa.

Haile Selassie's main defense army was still said to be massed near Dessale.

TO GIVE TALK ON CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

A free lecture on Christian Science will be given by Bicknell Young of Chicago at the Holy theater at 8 p. m. next Monday. The public is invited.

The subject of Mr. Young's lecture is "Christian Science—Not a Mere Name, but Absolute Science."

The lecturer is a member of the board of lecturership of the Mother Church, the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston.

CAMP FIRE BAN COMES TO END

The order extending the period in which permits were needed for camp fires has been terminated by Regional Forester C. J. Buck, according to word received here by the U. S. forest service. The recent rains, it was explained, have reduced the fire hazard so materially that permits are no longer required as a safety measure. All but two of the 50 lookouts and firemen of the Rogue River national forest have been taken off duty. Two lookouts are being kept on duty in the Applegate as that section is low and dries out more quickly after a rain than other areas, it was stated.

The Patrol Daughters of Nils will hold a Rummage Sale Saturday, Oct. 19th, in the Sparta Bldg., Main and Riverside.

FORUM METHOD TO BE USED IN P. T. A. CONFAB

Proceeding under the theme "Building for Permanent Values," the program for the P. T. A. state convention to be held here next week will be conducted through the Forum method, which has never been used before by the Oregon congress of P. T. A. The general plan of the convention is that business shall be taken care of in the morning sessions, Forums will occupy the afternoon sessions, and speakers of general interest featured in the evenings.

First of the Forums, on the subject, "Oregon's Need in Higher Education," will be held by C. A. Howard, superintendent of public instruction. Fred Peterson, superintendent of Klamath county schools, will discuss "Larger Units of School Administration." Mr. Peterson's success in the county unit plan in Klamath county makes his remarks of general interest.

Forum 2 will deal with Child Health, with Saida Orr Dunbar, executive secretary of the Oregon Tuberculosis association acting as leader.

The third Forum, dealing with Leisure activities, will be in charge of Kate Johnson, of Oregon State college, who will use this occasion to present the findings of a year's study of 2000 cases of activities of children between the ages of 14 and 18 years. Following the presentation, discussion will show how P. T. units in communities can plan to meet the needs of youth in this field.

Forum 4, using the subject Home Life, will be presided over by Ava B. Milan, dean of the school of Home economics at Oregon State college. Mrs. Sara Case, chairman of the parent education committee of the Oregon congress, will present views from the parent education standpoint.

The fifth Forum will deal with Safety, and will be conducted by Al Schaefer, of the American Red Cross in San Francisco, who will be assisted by Ray Conway, executive secretary of the Oregon Motor association and safety chairman of the Oregon Congress of Parents and Teachers. Mr. Schaefer has been asked to lead this Forum because the national congress has adopted as a part of its safety program the Red Cross Home and Rural safety program, due to the startling statistics on home as well as traffic accidents.

Of particular interest is the announcement that among noted speakers before the convention will be Frederick Frederick Steiner and Dr. Frederick Hunter, new chancellor of higher education.

THE LADIES of Zion English Lutheran church will hold a rummage sale Saturday, Oct. 19th, at old Campbell Clothing Store, East Main.

OLIVE REBEKAH LODGE will hold a Rummage and cooked food sale at the Sparta Bldg., Oct. 25 and 26.

It's a HIGHBALL Whiskey

LET THIS HIGHBALL test CONVINCING YOU, too

The only way to test a whiskey's quality and flavor is either in a highball or straight. Cocktails conceal a whiskey's true worth. That's why many whiskeys that "get by" in cocktails fail in the highball test.

Hiram Walker's TEN HIGH is a highball whiskey—a straight whiskey that needs no "dressing up" with other ingredients.

And you'll find that the way to make a perfect cocktail is to use a good highball whiskey. TEN HIGH!
