At Craterian
Sir Guy Standing and Richard Cromwell, whose portrayals of father and son in "Lives of a Bengal Lancer" were outstanding features of that film, are united again in leading roles of "Annapolis Farewell," the screen feature on the Craterian theater program starting today for a three day run. On the stage are the Kentucky Coon Hunters, who will appear for all shows, matinee and evening, for the three-day engagement.

Sir Guy appears as the retired commodore who, having given the best part of his life to his country, returns to Annapolis, there to spend his remaining days, while Cromwell appears as a midshipman friend of the aged officer. Others in the cast include Tom Brown, John Howard, Rosalind Keith, John Darrow and Louise Beavers, the popular colored player.

The film, actually made at the Naval Academy, with high ranking officials there to see that it measured up to the high standard of the service, follows the life of the cadets, through the hectic days of plebeism to final graduation, with many exciting adventures interspersed between times.

Clever Comedy Team Coming to Rialto

The "Red Book Magazine" story, "Leander Clicks," which caused so much comment among the reading public when it was published in 1928, affords the basis of "Hot Tip," which returns to the screen Zasu Pitts and James Gleason as a new and refreshing comedy team, coming to the Rialto theater tomorrow.

From the pen of William Slavens McNutt, who for the past two decades has provided the world with a goodly amount of popular literature, "Hot Tip" is one of his best stories.

Each a comedy star in previous pictures, Zasu Pitts and James Gleason pool their talents for their roles of Jimmy and Belle McGill. In the romantic leads are Margaret Callahan, Hollywood's latest recruit from the legitimate stage, and Russell Gleason, James' own son and veteran of many productions.

EXCLUSIVE COMMUNITY BALKS IMPROVEMENTS
GARDEN CITY, N. Y., Oct. 17.—(UP)—The Nassau county board of supervisors has $2,300,000 of WPA money to build a new courthouse, but can't get consent of citizens to build the structure. Residents who fear that a courthouse with its concomitant atmosphere of judicial activity would destroy the community's valued exclusiveness dug up an ancient building ordinance to block the project.
