

SOCIAL SECURITY LAWS PLANNED BY COUNTY COURTS

At a meeting of the legislation committee of the Association of Oregon County Judges and Commissioners, held in Portland this week, County Judge Earl B. Day was elected chairman and instructed to arrange plans for the necessary legislation concerning social security problems.

County Judge Day appointed County Judge Phillips of Wasco county and Guy W. Gordon of Douglas county to act with him as a sub-committee to meet with other committees on this matter.

The attending members of the county judge committee recommended that legislation be framed to place the old age pension obligation wholly on the state and that the state join equally with the counties in bearing the relief and indigent burdens, if the financial problem can be solved as hoped, from excess of state receipts over anticipations.

If the recommendation is followed it will not affect budgets now prepared or being prepared, due to the fact that no federal funds have yet been appropriated for old age pension purposes.

The counties, through their county judges, feel that the plan recommended will make a more equitable distribution of the pension and relief burden, simplify administration, and reduce county expense.

This matter is scheduled to come before the special session of the legislature meeting next week.

SUE TO SECURE RIGHT OF WAY

The State Highway commission today filed suit in circuit court against Denver W. Kincaid and 22 other defendants for adjustment of the price to be paid by the highway commission for a right of way through a parcel of land needed for the Ashland-Nell unit of the Siskiyou section of the Pacific highway.

The complaint asks that assessment of value of the property needed for a right of way be determined by a jury. It is also set forth that the highway board and the property owners have been unable to reach an agreement on the price to be paid, though a sum in excess of its market value has been offered. The state road board places the reasonable value at $1700.

The matter of the right of way has been under consideration for some time and the survey through the land has been completed.

The complaint also sets forth that the state highway commission bears all expense of the action and road building.

SCOTTY'S CASTLE OPEN TO VISITORS

TONOPAH, Nev., Oct. 18.—(UP)—Closed for nearly three years, the famous $1,000,000 desert castle of Walter "Death Valley Scotty" Scott has been reopened to visitors. It was revealed here today.

Outsiders once more will be allowed to view the interior of the rambling concrete structure with its bascule type clock tower. It contains a $75,000 pipe organ, a marble swimming pool, an artificial waterfall in the drawing room, and priceless murals and antique furniture.

In the middle of the bleak desert wastes of Death Valley, Cal., at the entrance to Grapevine canyon, the palace took Scotty 12 years to build. The 60-year old, desert eccentric was financed by Albert M. Johnson, wealthy Chicago insurance broker.

Camera Grace Handbag NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—(UP)—Women's handbags are reputed to contain enough gadgets to sustain life on a desert island. Today a local department store added a "candid camera." The camera is built into the top of the bag so that the lens appears as part of the clasp.

Feast the Family on Hot Breads

SUNDAY morning breakfast is the one leisurely breakfast of the week. This meal—usually a substantial one—affords a housewife an opportunity to prove that her hands has not lost its cunning in the making of hot breads. These Cheese Roulettes were just made to go with scrambled eggs and bacon. As for the waffles—did you ever know waffles to go begging?

Cheese Roulettes
2 cups sifted cake flour
2 teaspoons double-acting baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
4 tablespoons butter or other shortening
2/3 cup milk
Malted butter
1 cup grated American cheese
Salt
Eggs
Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift again. Cut in shortening; add milk all at once and stir carefully until all flour is dampened. Stir vigorously until mixture forms soft dough and follows spoon around bowl. Turn out immediately on slightly floured board and knead 20 seconds. Roll into oblong sheet, 1/4 inch thick. Brush with melted butter. Spread

HIGH PRINCIPALS MEET IN SALEM

SALEM, Oct. 18.—(AP)—High school principals of Oregon were meeting in Salem today for the annual high school principals' conference to be held today and tomorrow in Waller hall on the Willamette university campus.

The visitors were to be greeted by Governor Martin at the opening session, and to receive a welcome from Earl Snell, secretary of state, this afternoon. Addresses will also be given by Charles A. Howard, state superintendent of public instruction, and by Fred Wolf, Salem high school principal and president of the association.

Committee reports will be heard during the afternoon followed by the conference banquet in the evening with James Burbess of Milton-Freewater as toastmaster.

During the business session tomorrow Clyde Beard of Roseburg will be elevated to the presidency succeeding Wolf. Officers for the past year have included Beard as vice-president and R. W. Tavener of Salem as secretary-treasurer.

FOUR GAMES GAIN TOP INTEREST ON COAST SATURDAY

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Three conference teams take a vacation from the coast grid race tomorrow after three weeks of battle, centering attention on fans on a somewhat shortened program of four major games.

The University of Southern California Trojans, defeated 18-0 by Illinois in an intercollegiate tilt last week end, meet Oregon State college at Los Angeles, while a strong squad from University of Washington, idle last week, battles Washington State at Pullman. The Cougars trimmed Montana 13-7 Saturday.

University of Oregon, downed 6-0 on a muddy field at Portland by the California Bears last week, will take the field against Idaho at Eugene in a conference contest.

Stanford, U. C. L. A. and Montana lay off for this week end, glad of a rest period. The crippled Indians of Stanford are in no shape for a game tomorrow with its leading players in the infirmary, and U. C. L. A. will rest for the Oct. 26 game with University of Oregon at Los Angeles.

A non-conference game which is expected to bring some 40,000 fans to Berkeley tomorrow is the 14th annual game between University of California and Santa Clara, of which the Broncos have won the last three.

The undefeated Bears face a wide open attack with which they have had no experience so far this year, and "Clipper" Smith's special shifts and flanker plays have the Bears worried, despite Santa Clara's 13-6 defeat two weeks ago by Washington.

AMERICAN PUTTING ENVY OF BRITONS

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—(AP)—The British Ryder cup golf team and the Wightman cup tennis team were on their way back to England today with some new opinions of American competitors.

Alfred Perry, British and Scottish open golf champion, stood on the deck of the Aquitania before sailing for home last night and said that Yankee adeptness at putting proved the downfall of him and his mates.

"Americans pick up five or six shots in every round on the greens," he said. "I think we can outshoot Americans up to the greens, and if we had their skill at putting, why we'd win every time."

Handcuff Bracelets Now NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—(UP)—First slave bracelets, now handcuff bracelets. A local department store today offered this "arresting fad" to "enamored young pairs." Both cuffs are worn on one wrist.

FOODCASTS

The word waffle comes from the verb "to weave" and certainly the waffle, with its soft indentations, very closely resembles a woven cloth.

Do you know how to open a screw-top jar without "phoning the strong man from the circus? Invert your jar and bang it (careful, not too hard) two or three times on the floor. This breaks up the air pocket in the jar... and presto, your top unscrews easily.

Here's a way to give vegetable salad a chef's touch... sprinkle fried bacon, chopped fine, over the top.

Stretching shouldn't be confined to getting-up exercises. It can be done all day by thrifty housewives who want to stretch four portions to serve five. For instance, just add a few Krispy Crackers to a meat, fish or vegetable loaf... or crumble some Krispy Crackers into a casserole or an au gratin dish.

Who cares whether the Chinese in China eat chop suey... here's an American version you'll like:

KRISPY CHOP SUEY
1/2 cup rice
2 chopped onions
1 cup peas, cooked or canned
1 cup juice of peas
16-18 Sunshine Krispy Crackers, crumbled
3 tablespoons fat
1/2 pound ground beef
2 cups canned tomatoes
1 cup peas, cooked or canned
1 cup juice of peas
2 teaspoons salt
16-18 Sunshine Krispy Crackers, crumbled
Boil the rice until soft. Melt the fat, add onions and meat, and cook until brown. Drain rice and mix with meat. Add the tomatoes, peas and juice of peas and seasonings. Break up Krispy Crackers and lay thin layer on bottom of greased baking dish or casserole. Over this pour half of above mixture. Lay remaining broken Krispy Crackers on top. Dust with slight sprinkling of Krispy Cracker crumbs and bake in hot oven (425° F.) until brown for about 30 minutes. (Left-over cooked meat may be used.) Serves 6 to 8. All measurements standard.

must drop off troops to cover these communications.

De Bono's line was about sixty miles long at Adowa. He had about 100,000 men on it, with his colonial troops in the center, so they could be watched. His two best divisions were on the flanks. About 133,000 men covered his rear, back of the combat area.

His immediate strategy was thought to be a convergence on Makale, which would shorten his line to fifteen miles. There his real stretch-out troubles will begin. These are so real and so obvious that he may decide to go no farther.

The Ethiopians are also being smartly handled. No one knows for sure how many troops they have, and it does not make much difference. Their force at de Bono's front is supposed to number about 200,000, with Halle Selassie holding 50,000 in the rear around Addis Ababa.

The Ethiopians will never risk a pitched battle, if they can avoid it. Probably not even at Addis Ababa. They will continue to drop back, putting obstructions in the way, harassing de Bono, gnawing at his flanks. At least this is what they will do if they make no mistakes, and they have made none so far. (Neither have the Italians, from a technical military standpoint.)

Mussolini's General Graziani, handling the southern advance, is not as highly regarded as de Bono. He is a swashbuckling type who may not be cut out for the tedious military problem confronting him. However, he started off wisely by biting off only 30 miles of Ethiopian territory before reaching for his chair.

He has about 80,000 troops. Several armies are hovering in his front, waiting for him to get out of reach of drinking water in the tall grass before harassing him.

Graziani started out on the short route to cut the railroad above Harar. A very prominent military authority has said that he will never reach the railroad, even if he never encounters an opposing force. That is an exaggerated idea, but his difficulties are thought to be even greater than de Bono's in view of his smaller force and the water as well as the food problem.

What interests military men most is the report that Mussolini is having trouble getting food for his army. He is supposed to be buying beef from two British colonies in South Africa and paying double prices for all he can get. Even so, they say, he receives more thanks and horns than steaks. The favorite Italian army dish may soon be ox-tail soup, an edible dish, but not much for an army to crawl on.

ASTORIA BANK CASHIER ON JOB FOR 25 YEARS ADMITS DEFALCATIONS

ASTORIA, Ore., Oct. 18.—(UP)—Ira Miller, 48, for 25 years cashier and assistant cashier of the First National bank, was arrested Thursday by agents of the federal department of justice on charges of embezzlement from the bank. He gave them a written confession.

Miller entered a plea of guilty before the United States commissioner, and was bound over to the grand jury on $10,000 bail.

Defalcations were estimated by Miller to have been around $20,000.

Miller was dismissed several days ago when irregularities were disclosed. Irregularities in Miller's accounts consisted of withholding relatively small sums from deposits and later replacing them. Last night Miller assertedly confessed to S. S. Gordon, bank examiner, larger defalcations from the accounts of old patrons which he had handled exclusively for years.

The Astoria branch of the First National of Portland, and the institution it succeeded, the old First National bank of Astoria, are protected fully against any losses by surety bond, according to Guy Hickcock, assistant manager.

Miller served several years as a member of the port of Astoria commission.

The prisoner said he had been playing the stock market. Federal agents took him to Portland last night.

Safety Measure Fatal BROOKLYN, N. Y., Oct. 18.—(UP)

A safety precaution cost Herman Woltman his life today. He left his truck in reverse while he lunched. Later, when he cranked it, the truck backed into an approaching trolley car which drove the truck back crushing him against a fire hydrant. Use Mail Tribune want ads.
