BORAH BEST G.O.P. BET, CALIFORNIA POLL INDICATES

SANTA BARBARA, Cal., Oct. 26.—(UP)—Senator William Edgar Borah of Idaho, with Governor Frank F. Merriam of California as his running mate, stands the best chance of defeating President Roosevelt in next year's election, in the opinion of Republican county chairmen of California.

The morning press tomorrow will publish results of a poll which shows Borah a 16-to-1 choice over former President Hoover, his nearest competitor, for the Republican nomination. Merriam is a 9-to-5 favorite over Senator Charles L. McNary of Oregon for the vice-presidential nomination.

The press sent questionnaires to each of the county chairmen, of which 44 replied.

Unsigned opinions—accompanying the ballots showed a cross-section of party views:

"To date, no decided drift exists anywhere. The rank and file Republicans will support untiedly whom ever is nominated."

"McNary is the most capable of all."

"Roosevelt (Theodore) for vice-president is not too hot but the psychology of his name on the ballot would get votes. Merriam is suggested only as a favorite son and could be traded after the first ballot."

"Sentiment is growing more strongly against Hoover and he cannot be given much consideration. I believe he is hurting our chances more than most people believe. Men like Hoover, Mills, etc., are out, and should, for the party's sake, stay out of the limelight."

"I am picking Borah first—not by choice but believing him to have the best chance of defeating Roosevelt."

"The Republican party must win on a progressive, socialized average citizen's platform. If the party is conservative, we'll lose."

"In spite of Mr. Hoover's fine character and ability, I believe he is doing more to prevent the success of our party than is any other person."

"Sanders of the River" Coming to Craterian

Leslie Banks is seen in the title role of Edgar Wallace's famous story, "Sanders of the River," with Paul Robeson and Nina Mae McKinney sharing romantic honors. The picture, which comes Thursday to the Craterian Theatre, was filmed almost entirely in the African Congo, and follows the vivid and thrilling adventures of the British district commissioner who by his personal courage and great understanding, manages to keep peace among the savage Congo tribes he rules.

Robeson, noted for his magnificent baritone voice, and Nina Mae McKinney, sing numerous original native chants arranged for the modern ear. Ten thousand natives were used in the film, which features weird and fascinating native rites and dances never before recorded.

In Rialto Cast

Dorothy Wilson "Bad Boy" successor to Vina Delmar's "Bad Girl," plays at the Rialto theatre today and Monday, with James Dunn again in the stellar role.

"Bad Boy" tells the story of the average modern boy, confronted with the temptations of life around the pool hall and water front. He meets the girl of his dreams and wants to marry her, but her parents refuse her hand due to his misunderstood reputation. They are secretly wed and the fun starts with his trying to reform and at the same time earn a living for his bride. His biggest break is the kindness given by his understanding landlady, Louise Fazenda.

The climax comes when Dunn proves to the parents that he is the town's leading citizen, by making a hero of himself.

Dorothy Wilson plays the part of his wife, with Beulah Bondi and John Wray as her ungrateful parents. Luis Alberni and Allen Vincent make up a fine supporting cast.

Autenreath. Mr. Nealon spoke on "Why I Like to Live in This Community," emphasizing on the friendly neighborly spirit that predominated in Sams Valley. Mrs. McDonough gave her idea of a model kitchen, stating it should be equipped with electricity and afford a man who knew something about cooking and washing dishes. Arthur Straus revealed that basketball was his favorite sport, and stated that the majority of normal boys had a favorite sport of some kind. Mr. Schulz gave a short talk on fisherman's luck.

Mrs. Autenreath gave to the audience her idea of making a house a home, stressing the importance of making the dwelling place restful as well as beautiful.

During the business session, with Master Jerome Fitzgerald presiding, four candidates were obligated in the 3rd and 4th degrees by Past Master Albert Straus. The membership voted to put on degree work for the Enterprise Grange at Wimer October 24.

The charter was draped in mourning for the deceased member, Miss Ruth Galloway.

The members expressed pride in their officers who won first prize in the county grange seating drill contest at the Grange conference at Central Point October 17, when a good attendance from the Sams Valley Grange witnessed the contests. A committee was appointed by the master to stimulate the project of a building fund.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. George McDonough, Mrs. Ada East, Maria Seegmiller and Mrs. O. T. Wilson.
