FOUR-INCH SNOW COVERS PROSPECT IN EARLY STORM

portion of the state today and swirled into Portland and the high areas of western Oregon.
It was the first October snowfall in the history of Portland's 64-year old weather bureau.
An inch of snow covered Klamath Falls while lesser amounts fell and melted at La Grande, Pendleton, The Dalles, Hood River and other towns east of the Cascades. The snow at Pendleton was about 15 days ahead of the usual winter schedule. Low temperatures prevailed, but the sky was clearing.
The upper Willamette valley was not visited by snow, but nine inches of snow sent snow plows snorting over the McKenzie Pass between Eugene and Bend. The highway department announced the pass between western and central Oregon would be kept open until covered with four feet of snow.
Clear skies today followed recent rains at Salem, but some snow had fallen in surrounding hills.
The Oregon Caves National Monument park will be kept open all winter. Arrangements have been made again for CCC workers to clear the highway of snow, whenever it comes. Last winter the road was blocked only for about two days.

Battle-Scarred Taxi Arrives in Portland

Portland, Oct. 29. (AP)—Paul Revere's horse couldn't have received a more enthusiastic welcome than given a famous battle-scarred taxi de la Marine which arrived here yesterday, a gift of the French government.
The Portland vehicle, 40 ft. 8 in. and service affiliate of the American Legion, was recipient, Legionnaires with red, white and blue garb and with overseas caps, almost buried the 40-year-old vehicle as they swarmed over it while a newsreel camera ground and other cameras clicked.

Ann Sothern in Craterian Film

With a crack combination of music, comedy and romance, "The Girl Friend" makes her bow to Medford tomorrow at the Craterian theater, where it will play for a one-day only engagement, also being shown tomorrow at the Holly theater.
Ann Sothern and Jack Haley are starred, with Roger Pryor in an important feature role.
With Miss Sothern as a demure country miss, "The Girl Friend" concerns itself with the hilarious complications that beset Roger Pryor, an out-of-work actor, when he pretends to be a theatrical producer just to secure a summer's lodging for himself and his two colleagues, Victor Kluhan and Ray Walker.
The comedy becomes fast and furious and builds to a grand finale that has been meeting with the full approval of theater audiences.
There is a large dancing chorus and several luring tunes by Arthur Johnston and Gus Kahn.

M'Lain Will Return to Portland Office, Narregan to Be Here

Mr. M'Lain returned this morning from Portland where last week he took 15 prisoners from the county jail here. While in Portland he received instructions to complete his work here this week and return to his former duties November 1.
Mr. M'Lain was assigned to the Medford office in March, 1934. It was to have been a temporary assignment but transfer of personnel of the marshal's office necessitated his remaining here. He became known in Medford as a courteous and efficient federal agent. He has lived at the Holland hotel.
Mr. Narregan at present is in Phoenix, Ariz., where he took a prisoner here this week and return to his office as soon as he completes his mission there.

On Rialto Bill

John Boles, in "Redheads on Parade," with Dixie Lee, Jack Haley, Alan Dinehart and Raymond Walburn, starts a three-day engagement at the Rialto theater today.
This picture boasts the largest galaxy of redheads ever assembled at one time in the history of the motion picture. Forty-eight of the gorgeous creatures, one from each state in the union, selected from a nationwide contest.
An amusing story of the production of motion pictures and the exertion of motion picture talent and new ideas, "Redheads on Parade" tells the nerve-racking experiences of a star and a producer without sufficient financial backing to produce the picture they feel would be successful. But bellyhoo, and a hectic advertising campaign bring results, and also bring a set full of redheaded girls to put over a hair dye and, in that fashion, get the desired financing. The result is a merry hour's entertainment, with a musical background to the romance between Boles and Miss Lee.
On the same program, the Rialto is showing the first screen edition of the tremendously popular radio feature "The Voice of Experience."
