LAND BANK SALE OF FARMS BEING CONDUCTED HERE

The semi-annual sale of Jackson county farm properties owned by the Federal Land Bank of Spokane is now being conducted by C. A. Barnes, field agent for southern Oregon, at the Hotel Jackson. He is being assisted by Warren Patterson of Central Point.

Mr. Barnes has about a dozen Jackson county properties for sale at this time, the farms ranging upward from 15 acres, all of them being improved and suited to a variety of agricultural pursuits, he said.

Mr. Barnes will be at the Hotel Jackson the remainder of this week where he may be consulted by prospective buyers regarding the properties now for sale. Interest rates and down payments are small and terms are liberal, he stated.

Economic conditions have improved materially, according to Mr. Barnes. "Our sales have doubled in the past year and down payments have increased very materially," he said. "There is a general feeling of optimism, higher prices for agricultural products having helped and encouraged the farmer substantially."

Mr. Barnes reported that many persons from the east, especially the mid-west drought sections, are buying farm lands in the west coast states.

At the conclusion of the sales period here Mr. Barnes will return to his office in Eugene. He formerly was stationed in Medford.

Wall St. Report

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—(AP) Highly erratic tendencies prevailed in today's stock market. The utilities, generally, were resistant, and specialties were attractive, but many leaders fell off under profit taking.

Fast backing and filling movements put the ticker tape behind on several occasions. The pace slowed later. The close was rather irregular. Transfers approximated 2,000,000 shares.

Coming to Craterian Soon

"Sanders of the River," picturization of the famous Edgar Wallace story of the Congo is brought to the screen of the Craterian theatre tomorrow for a three day run.

The cast of the film, which was almost entirely filmed in the heart of Africa, is headed by Paul Robeson, last seen in Eugene O'Neill's "The Emperor Jones," Leslie Banks, distinguished stage and screen star, and Nina Mae McKinney, beautiful star of King Vidor's all- negro film, "Hallelujah."

The story follows the thrilling adventures of the miracle-working British District Commissioner Sanders, who by his personal courage and deep understanding of the native mind and heart maintains peace among the savage Congo tribes under his charge.

Robeson is seen as Bosambo, a big, handsome, intelligent and lovable Negro whom Sanders makes chief of probation. Banks has the title role, and Nina Mae McKinney is seen as the beautiful slave girl, Lilongo, whom Bosambo makes his bride.

The villain of the piece is a wicked old King, who takes advantage of his inaccessible mountain location to break every law and trade in slaves.

The high point of the story is reached when Sanders leaves the district to be married and his enemies spread word through the jungle that he is dead and law and order is forgotten as all the tribes prepare for war.

Robeson and Nina Mae McKinney sing several songs, which have been rearranged for the modern ear.

HALLOWE'EN VANDALS WILL BE ARRESTED IS WARNING FROM POLICE

Chief of Police Clatous McCredie today announced that no vandalism will be tolerated by his department either tonight or tomorrow night upon the grounds that the vandals are celebrating Halloween.

"The peculiar sort of insanity which allows children, and not always young children either, to think that they can pull down sign posts, knock over fences, steal furniture and in other ways destroy valuable property and then get off because they are celebrating Halloween is a joke that has been played too often," he stated.

"People can have fun without resorting to that kind of horseplay and if they can't we'll just lock them up. And when we do it won't be just to scare them. They will be forced to pay for their damage and probably a fine."

A special guard will be posted in the city park either in uniform or plain clothes to prevent any further mutilation of the beautiful Palm memorial statue there which was smeared with walnut dye several weeks ago. A paste has been applied to the statue and it is believed possible that some of the stain may be removed.

Special police will work the downtown area to prevent the smearing of yellow or soap upon windows and screens and other destruction, and police patrol cars will patrol the residence district most of tonight and tomorrow night.

Boles Has Lead In Picture At Rialto

Rhythmic, fast - paced, gorgeously mounted, filled with gay tunes and glamorous girls, "Redheads On Parade" opened at the Rialto theatre yesterday for a three day run, filling to capacity the entertainment that was expected from this new novel idea in redheads. John Boles has the lead, and is outstanding in his characterization of a movie star, dancer and singer.

The gorgeous redheads—48 of them, one from each state in the union, are put through dancing ensembles that are the treat of the show. Dixie Lee, as the prize redhead, gives an impressive as well as an entertaining performance.

The story gives a new angle on the picture producing business. Boles has the part of the star, Alan Dinehart the producer and Raymond Walburn the backer. The cast go through all the heartaches of flops, but in the end come through with colors flying.

The climax comes when Boles wins out in a three-cornered romance with Miss Lee and Walburn. Those who haven't seen this picture yet, see it by all means! It's full of pep, and what it takes to make an evening's perfect entertainment.

The legislature was also asked to appropriate $3500 for the Oregon Humane society in carrying out its work in the western area, comprising 18 counties.

Milk Bill Change Favored The senate committee on agriculture voted to report out favorably a bill by Burke and Stringer repealing a section of the state milk control law which exempts producer-distributors from the pooling provisions.

Senator Burke declared that in event this exemption was not repealed the entire milk control act might be declared invalid. The milk control law is now under attack in Multnomah county.

Three bills were approved by the senate on third reading. One of these, by Wallace, would create the Deschutes Livestock District No. 1, and prohibit livestock from running at large.

Another bill, introduced by Chiswick, authorized sale of fish caught by hook and line, in the Rogue river. This bill applied particularly to Josephine county.

The third bill provided that banks shall secure all funds deposited by the state superintendent of banks in the liquidation of defunct financial institutions.

Another measure, by Harlett, provided for the creation and disposition of the old age pension fund. It would reduce the age limit from 70 to 65 years and provide that the monthly

KLAMATH POINTS FOR INVASION OF TIGERS SATURDAY

Preparations are going ahead rapidly in Klamath Falls for the Medford-Klamath game to be played there Saturday afternoon, considering an important one for both teams. Klamath is already out of the state race for championship honors, but would rather win over the Tigers and lose the rest of their schedule than vice versa. For years they have been trying to beat the Black Tornado but have succeeded only once, in 1929, when they won by a one touchdown margin.

If Medford should lose Saturday, it would be a double victory for the Pelicans, halting Medford's scoring streak and averting the drubbing of the last few years. The possibility of an upset is not to be despised, for Klamath has a big and fast team, and has been "pointing" for Saturday's fray since the start of the season; indeed, since the end of last season.

Klamath has several dangerous scoring threats, including a pair of backfield men considered among the fastest in the state, Rogers and Atkins. In one game this season Rogers punted a 35-yard boot and was down so fast that he made the tackle at almost the same time. Atkins specializes in off tackle thrusts and end runs, during which he is led by a trio of fast interferers.

Klamath has lost two games to date, one to Eugene, 6-0, and one to Ashland, 7-6, last week. The loss to Ashland is expected to make the big red Pelicans that much more dangerous, and in a frame of mind where, with nothing to lose and everything to gain, they will take long chances of scoring early in the battle, hoping to frazzle Tiger nerves.

The Medford squad has been working all week, concentrating on the reserves on Monday night, scrimmaging yesterday for 15 minutes and then going into the gym for dummy scrimmaging and an examination of Klamath formations.

Tonight a stiff scrimmage will be held for 15 minutes, and the squad will then repair to the inside to go through dummy scrimmaging on Klamath plays to acquaint the players with the type of offense they will face Saturday.

Coch Bowerman has been working on the members of the squad to remove any illusions of grandeur they may have formed in their last three overwhelming victories, pointing out that they came because of hard work and not because of thinking they were good. He has also drilled on mistakes that the team made against Salem Saturday, and has had quarterback skull sessions, during which time the signal callers were tested on their ability to call the right plays in the right situations.

There will be a large crowd of Medford students going to the game, and many fans from downtown, anticipating a much harder struggle than indicated. At the beginning of the year the Pelicans, with what was hailed as the strongest Klamath Falls team in years, was slated to hand the locals a drubbing, but the sentiment has changed rapidly, and the Tigers will enter the game favorites.

As is usual, various Klamath football enthusiasts have offered prizes to the men making the most yardage, the most touchdowns, or the winning runs against Medford, but the sentiment has changed rapidly, and the Tigers will enter the game favorites.

RESORTS COVERED DEEPLY BY SNOW, LIGHT FALL HERE

Medford temperature dropped one degree below freezing at 6:30 this morning, with prospects for similarly cold weather tonight. Tomorrow will be fair and slightly warmer, the weather bureau said.

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 30.—(AP)—The lowest temperature ever recorded in Portland in October, breaks the city's record for the season, as a new winter record of the first October snowfall.

The temperature was 29 degrees during the night, colder than the coldest mark here for some winters.

GRANTS PASS, Oct. 30.—(AP)—Early rises in Grants Pass caught their first glimpses of small patches of snow on rooftops this morning. The flakes melted early, but the hills bore a light white coating left by heavy hail showers yesterday afternoon.

ROSEBURG, Ore., Oct. 30.—(AP)—Roseburg residents awakened this morning to find the city dusted with a light snow, the earliest ever known here. Previously the earliest snowfall on record was on November 10, 1911. The first snow fall of last winter came January 3, 1935.

EUGENE, Oct. 30.—(AP)—Rain mixed with snow was the dish served here by the weather man late yesterday and this morning, the surrounding hills were white as the mercury dipped to 28 degrees above zero. It was the first October snow on record here.

JOURNAL OF CCC BEGINS 2ND YEAR

The November 1 edition of the "Medford District News," official publication of the Medford CCC district, came off the press today. The issue begins the second year of publication for the paper.

To celebrate its first birthday, the "District News" is dressed up with a new front page and editorial column masthead featuring Crater Lake, the district's most distinctive landmark. It was designed by Jacques Matlack, Medford artist.

The publication is a non-commercial journal, being issued without advertising. Each company in the district pays a small assessment and receives 200 copies, one for each man. The "District News" was named as the best CCC district paper in the United States in a nation-wide contest.
