

MARY S. HAY DIES IN WENATCHEE; TO BE BURIED HERE

Mary S. Hay passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Eleanor Ames, in Wenatchee, Wash., at 10:30 a. m. Thursday, after an illness of long duration. Mrs. Hay had been a resident of Central Point, Ore., for the last 29 years. She fell and broke her hip two years ago and since that time had been slowly declining in health. She had been with her daughter since last June.

Mrs. Hay was a native daughter of southern Oregon, having been born at Kerby, January 1, 1863, and living in this district almost continuously since her birth. Her husband, John F. Hay, passed away August 23, 1932. Her many friends will be grieved to learn of her death.

She leaves to mourn her passing two daughters, Mrs. Eleanor Ames of Wenatchee, Wash., and Miss Arlene Hay of Central Point; one daughter, Mrs. Eleanor Jones of Crescent City, Cal., and Mrs. Florence Calkins of Eureka, Cal.; two brothers, Michael Ryder of Spokane, Wash., and Ralph Ryder of Santa Cruz, Cal.; one half-brother, John Glidden of Cabot, Vt.; two grand daughters, Arlene and Doris Ames.

Funeral services will be conducted from the Per Funeral Home, Sunday afternoon at 2:30, with the Rev. Father E. S. Barilam officiating. Interment will take place in the Central Point cemetery.

Mrs. Hay will be accompanied to Medford by her daughter, Eleanor, arriving Sunday at 8:15 a. m.

FLOCK OF BABIES ADDS TO LIQUOR STORE LIST

LONG MEADOW, Mass., Nov. 1.—(UP)—Babies—just babies—are responsible for issuance of another liquor license here today. During the past few months, 100 babies have been born, a sufficient increase in population to permit another package liquor store.

Wall St. Report

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—(AP)—With occasional bursts of speed, and intervals of dullness, the stock market forged ahead today for gains of fractions to 3 or more points.
 The alcohol, farm implements, specialties and some motors and metals led the advance. Many new highs for the past five years or so were recorded. The close was firm. Transfers approximated 2,000,000 shares.

 War news was overshadowed by optimistic economic developments and traders, finding that efforts to depress the majority of equities met with little success, stepped over on the buying side. There was profit taking, however, here and there and all stocks did not finish at their tops of the session.

stances? Mr. Stimson gave the answer and emerged all smiles.
 The inside reason behind this honoring Mr. Stimson is supposed to be that Mr. Hull desires to promote non-partisanship on the peace policy—and, specifically, to prevent any more Stimson radio talks.
 The very day on which the forthcoming London naval disarmament conference will convene, the King of England will open a new parliament, elected on a promise to appropriate a billion dollars for British rearmament.
 For that reason and others, there is a disposition inside the New Deal here to look upon that meeting with disfavor.
 In fact, it is said that even the eternal disarmament optimist, Norman Davis, does not want to attend that meeting. He is supposed to believe that it should be called a rearmament rather than a disarmament conference. Word here is that Britain will open the conference by telling it directly or indirectly that it wants twenty more cruisers added to the fifty it already has. France is supposed to say it cannot continue within treaty limits. Japan will present a demand for parity with Britain and the U. S.

 It is a reasonable probability that the U. S. delegation will try to postpone the meeting.

There are indications that the New Deal publicity department has adopted the Notre Dame shift.

Regularly, every few months, the state department has been handing out a report from our Hawaii envoy, Jeff Caffery, showing how well the Cuban trade treaty is working. As this is the only trade treaty which has yet shown any substantial results, continuous stress was considered advisable. But the stress was so continuous that newsmen around the state department passed the last few Caffery announcements into receptacles which the government provides for its most inconsequential material.
 The other day the bi-monthly honanahs about the Cuban trade treaty came as usual, but this time from the treasury department. The New Deal publicists decided to try it on another set of newsmen in hopes that they had never heard about it before.

BURGLAR? OH NO; POLICE TOO QUICK

A transient who gave his name as Edward Ryan, 23, of New York, but who admits that is not his real name, is in the county jail under $1000 bond, awaiting action of the grand jury. He is charged with attempted burglary, after having been caught by a special city policeman on Halloween duty last night while standing in the doorway of the Medford Shoe shop at 231 East Sixth street.
 The special officer saw the man hurriedly cross Sixth street shortly after 1 o'clock this morning from the alley behind the J. C. Penney store, and enter the doorway of the shoe store. The officer approached, and "Ryan" heard him, and emerged with an iron brake shoe from an automobile in his hand. The officer arrested him, and took the shoe from him. While they were on their way to the police station a second brake shoe fell from his clothing, and he later produced a third.

 Asked what he did with the iron shoes, he said "Nothing. Your man got me before I had a chance," according to a city police bulletin.
