CHICKEN, TURKEY DEMAND STRONG; BUTTER STEADY

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 1.—(AP)—Conditions in the butter trade locally are a mere reflection of the weather rather than actual supply and demand.

Prices in general are showing a steady to strong tone for quality stuff but cold storage stocks are not quite as heavily held as they have been.

Butterfat values are well held and generally unchanged. There was no change in egg quotations.

Demand for chickens remained keen and prices were held full at recent advances. Some efforts were being made to scare producers into immediate selling with talk of low prices to come.

Call for new crop turkeys was in sight. The first of the regular shipments to the east will be assembled this week end and this has created a strong price situation.

Country killed calves alone showed a weak tone in the trade. Shipments have been greatly increased through fear of producers that they will not be allowed to market their product in Portland through a city ordinance now being considered.

Protests against the ordinance have been made by many producers and officials by the Grange.

Firm market was showing for potatoes here because of the almost general stoppage of digging and shipping from source. Higher prices were prevailing. The same situation prevailed in onions.

Hothouse tomatoes were up another notch, demand far exceeding supply. Fancy California tomatoes brought up by truck were being offered around $1.75 a lug of 28 pounds as is.

Apple trade was rather sluggish, even though reports suggested considerable loss by the cold snap.

All root vegetables, cauliflower, lettuce and cabbage show another advance.

Long Mountain

LONG MOUNTAIN, Nov. 1.—(Sp.)—J. C. Leedy of Portland was a Wednesday evening dinner guest of Mr. and Mrs. I. B. Kline.

D. P. Cox of Winters, Cal., visited his sister, Mrs. M. L. Fruett, here Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Prescott and Miss Mary Menzies of Ashland called on Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Mongold Sunday.

Those who attended the Jackson County Pomona Grange initiation at Central Point Wednesday evening from this district were Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Mongold, Mrs. W. R. Holman and daughter, Grace, and Mr. and Mrs. George Stowell.

Art Timmons of near Medford is ploughing for Bill Holman.

Mrs. Eva Nichols and daughter, Marjorie, and Miss Vera Stowell, who is attending Eagle Point high school, spent Sunday afternoon at the Ellsworth Stowell home.

Trainmaster Here—J. M. Treffer, trainmaster for the Southern Pacific, arrived this morning from Roseburg to make a business visit here.

PORTLAND ENJOYS QUIET HALLOWE'EN

PORTLAND, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Old Boreas, an augmented staff of patrolmen, and the wizardry of police radio materially cooled the ardor of Halloween Bobblyns and hoodlums last night. Complaints accordingly were much less prevalent than in 1934.

Several drinking or reckless drivers wound up their celebrations in the jailhouse or hospitals, but there was no serious injury reported.

Police had their hands full, however, coping with the 196 radio calls between 8 p.m. and 1 a.m. Last year 235 calls were made.

Most complaints concerned breaking of windows, destruction of other property, the inevitable loss of gates and the usual scattering of wood-piles. Three false fire alarms were sounded.

MORE EVIDENCE LINKS UNION MEN TO THUGS

PORTLAND, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Additional evidence describing John Gillis, secretary of the woodworkers' union here, as the man who arranged the "hired" shooting of Alfred Erman, non-union sawyer, was heard in circuit court today where Gillis faces a charge of assault with a dangerous weapon.

Jay Lowell, cab driver, who admitted driving the automobile used by two convicted beat-up men and gunmen, was the state's chief witness against Gillis.

Popular Stars Coming in Craterian Hit

The popular star team of "Gold Diggers of 1933," Joan Blondell and Dick Powell, are re-united in "Broadway Gondolier" coming Sunday to the Craterian theater.

Essentially a comedy-romance with music, "Broadway Gondolier" is the mirth-provoking story of a New York taxi cab driver, who, failing to make the grade in a radio audition, goes to Italy with his teacher to study grand opera and there, masquerading behind a mustache as a gondolier, paddles a gondola on the canals to earn his way. Eventually he returns to New York and success, but not before running into a melee of various hilarious complications.

Adolphe Menjou is the teacher, while others in the cast include Louise Fazenda, the Four Mills Brothers, Ted Fio Rito and his famous band, George Barber, Grant Mitchell and William Gargan.

Gary Cooper Stars In Return Picture Coming Rialto Hit

A few years ago film audiences all over the country thrilled to the picture of Owen Wister's great classic of the west, "The Virginian," and it was the thunderous ovation to the picture that brought stardom to its leading player, Gary Cooper.

On Sunday and Monday, the Rialto Theater will have a re-issue showing of this immortal story of the early west, today as popular as ever and now, through the impetus given him when the picture was first shown, Gary Cooper rightfully heads the list of players which includes Richard Arlen, Mary Brian, Walter Huston and Eugene Pallette.

Those famous words, "When you say that, smile," will be heard again as The Virginian, soft-spoken but dangerous, issues the challenge to Trampas, leader of the cattle rustlers, and precipitates the clash that settles an old feud between the two; a feud started by the rustler chief's influencing The Virginian's best friend to join forces with the cattle thieves and thereby causing his death by hanging by the law forces.

Interesting to note are the advances by the various players since

BING CROSBY CROONS TO TELEPHONE GIRL FOR IDENTIFICATION

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Nov. 1.—(AP)—Kay Koonce, a telephone operator, was the one girl in many millions of girls today. For her and her alone, Bing Crosby sang a song. It happened this way:

Crosby recently sold his Toluca lake home to Al Jolson and Ruby Keeler. Pending the completion of a new one, he moved into one of Marion Davies' houses. He forgot the telephone number, so he called Miss Rooney, the lone night operator in the studio, at midnight.

"I'm sorry," she replied, "I'm not allowed to give out Miss Davies' number."

"But I live there," Crosby protested. "This is Bing Crosby."

"I'm sorry," Miss Rooney began again, politely.

HIGHWAYS OPEN TO ALL POINTS DESPITE SNOWS

Snow continued to fall today in the higher altitudes but all highways were reported open to traffic. Motorists, however, were advised to carry chains if they were to proceed toward Crater Lake or over the Siskiyou.

Four inches of snow was reported at the Siskiyou summit, the layer tapering to an inch at Yreka. Crater lake was banked deeply in snow but motorists could get through though travel was slow and somewhat hazardous, the park service said.

Local forecast was for continued unsettled weather with snow flurries and lower temperatures tonight.

By the Associated Press

Marrow-chilling cold continued throughout Oregon today as October passed but that month's record-breaking weather remained.

The federal meteorologist in Portland observed that conditions were "pretty good" for continuation of the cold snap.

Only the fringe of the southern Oregon coast line escaped the chilling blasts.

At Klamath Falls an all-night blizzard left from six to ten inches of snow. Highway crews strove valiantly to keep main roads open.

Northward and eastward from that state the cold was poured over the county, North Head, at the Columbia river's entrance, felt the chill of 28 degrees, lowest of record there for Nov. 1.

At Salem genuine winter prevailed with a low of 14.3 degrees and several inches of snow on the ground.

With a minimum of 10 degrees at Bend, snow was falling, as it was at Baker.

At Albany the temperature dropped to 21 during the early morning; at Eugene it was 22; at Burns, 20; and at Lakeview, 28 degrees. Portland's minimum was 29. A minimum of 30 was predicted there for tonight.

All the northern Rocky mountain states felt the cold with Oregon and Washington. Zero weather at Havre intensified the misery of quake-shaken Montana.
