Leftovers Excel First Appearances

Clever cooks are constantly on the search for new ways to mask old dishes, particularly the stepchildren of the kitchen known as "leftovers."

and there really is nothing that can be of so much aid around as a package or two of Troco always at hand to dress up such dishes and give them the touch of richness and flavor they need.
Crusty Patties Prove Popular.

When there's a bit of leftover meat—a portion and a half, perhaps, not enough to do anything with, you may think—well, suppose we see about that! It may be that in such leftovers lies the solution to a most appetizing dinner.

Here is a good general rule to follow when you have a small amount of meat and the usual number to feed:
1 cup finely chopped meat
1 cup bread or cracker crumbs
1 tablespoon chopped onion

1 small clove garlic, minced
1 tablespoon chopped celery
Salt and pepper
1/2 cup milk
4 tablespoons Troco in frying pan.
Mix thoroughly and form into patties and fry in Troco until browned.

The rich flavor of Troco gives you everything you look for in the richer pan-fried dishes, yet when you buy Troco the price is so little you can afford to use it as generously as your heart desires.
