

LINER GROUNDS ON CARIBBEAN REEF

The Holland-American liner, with 450 passengers and 520 crew aboard who were taken off, grounded on a reef at Morant Cay, 60 miles southeast of Kingston, Jamaica, in the wake of a tropical storm, but was not believed in danger. The above picture shows the Rotterdam in New York harbor. (Associated Press Photo)

BRAZILIAN RECRUITS OFF FOR AFRICAN FRONT

This wildly cheering group of 171 male Italian residents of Sao Paulo, Brazil, left by train for the port of Santos where the liner Augustus waited to take them to Ethiopia for enlistment in the Overseas Legion of the Italian army. (Associated Press Photo)

NEW FLYING FORTRESS IN FIRST TEST AT GLENDALE

Here is the new Vultee combination bomber and attack plane pictured at the conclusion of the first test flight at Glendale, Calif. It is a sister ship to the one that crashed last month on a test flight killing the two pilots. It was built for a South American government and is armed with five machine guns and carries 1200 pounds of bombs at a 220 mile per hour cruising speed. (Associated Press Photo)

YOUNG BOY DRILLS PLAYMATES FOR WAR

Three-year-old Gizre Taffe, son of an Ethiopian army officer, following in his father's footsteps by drilling his schoolmates in Addis Ababa. The closeup at left shows the young drillmaster. (Associated Press Photo)

Woody Adams of San Francisco is a guard on the Stanford football team and is regarded as one of the squad's steadiest players. He is a senior. (Associated Press Photo)

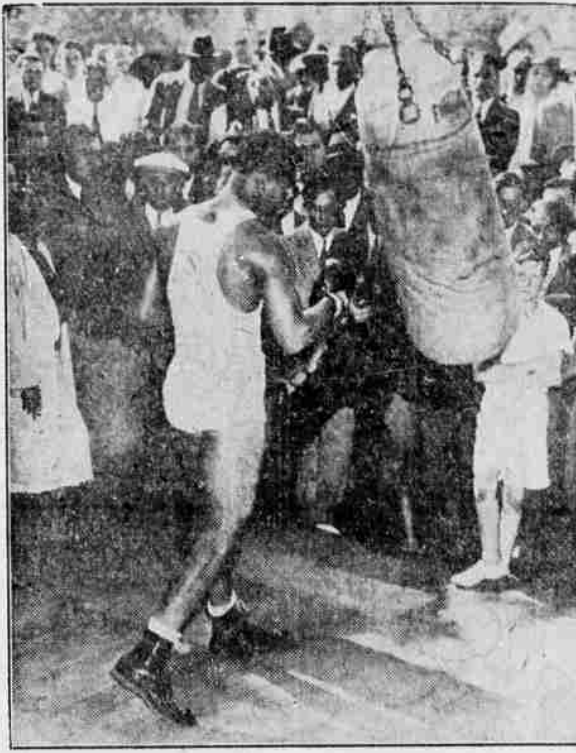

Dave Anderson, a senior veteran from Los Angeles, who is waging a successful early season fight for the regular left guard berth on the University of California football team. (Associated Press Photo)

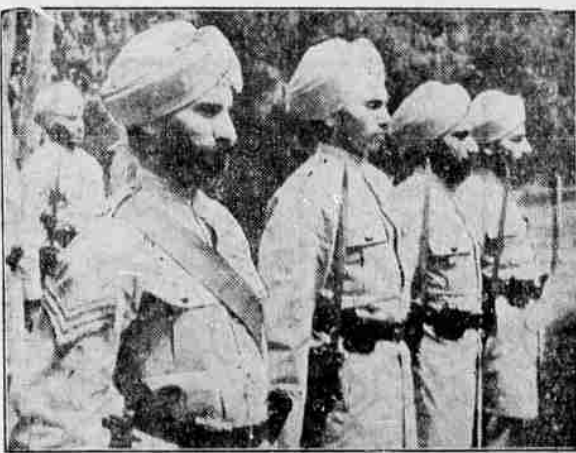

A rugged lineman, Larry Roubie of San Francisco, guard on the Stanford team, is playing his last season of college football. (Associated Press Photo)

DUSKY DESTROYER POUNDS BAG

Several hundred persons turn out daily at Pompton Lakes, N. J., to watch Joe Louis step several rounds with sparring partners and go through his exercises for the coming battle with Max Baer. Here is Joe punching the big bag. (Associated Press Photo)

GUARDS FOR BRITISH LEGATION

Here is a detachment of native Indian soldiers, recently arrived at Addis Ababa, Ethiopia, to reinforce Great Britain's legation guard there in the Italo-Ethiopian crisis. The group with a sergeant is pictured during routine drill. (Associated Press Photo from Paramount News)

Carrying On

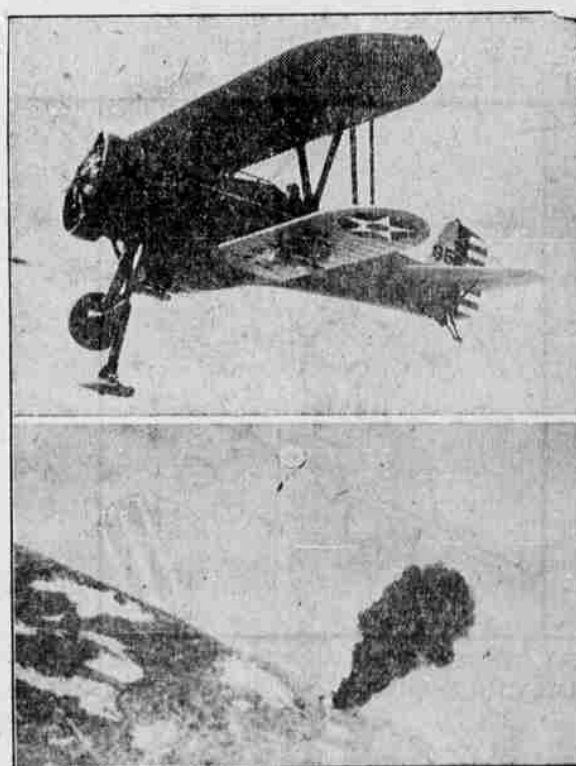

Bill Roper, Jr., of Philadelphia, son of the former famous Princeton football coach, is carrying on the family's gridiron tradition. He's back at his end position this year on the Princeton team. (Associated Press Photo)

Minus Star Dust

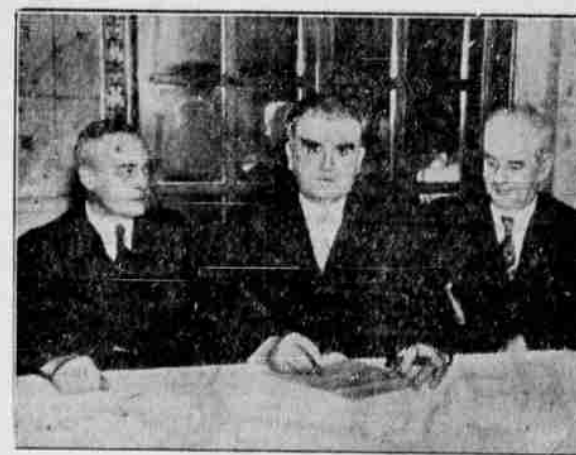

This is how Joan Crawford, one of the film world's glamorous stars, looked as she arrived in New York, very much upset by reports she would wed Franchot Tone, screen actor. They traveled on the same train from Hollywood, but Miss Crawford denied any intention of marrying him. (Associated Press Photo)

'BAILED OUT' FOR SAFE LANDING

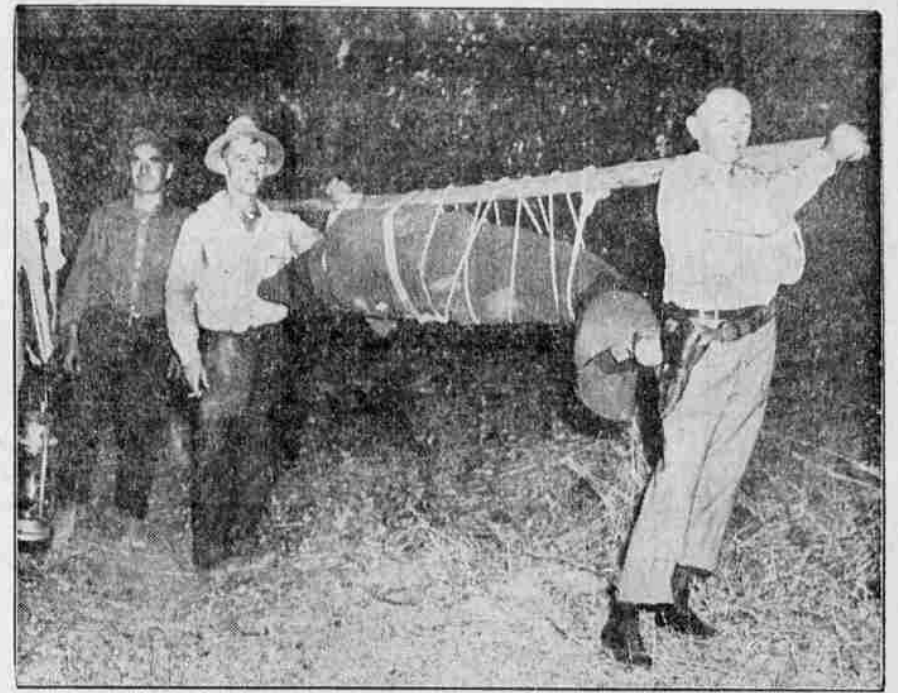

Forced to take his parachute when the landing gear of his pursuit plane was damaged in the takeoff of a formation flight at March Field, Calif., Lieut. William A. Hatcher, of Detroit, Mich., floated safely to earth after two hours maneuvering between Calexico and Riverside. The above photo was made eight minutes before Lieut. Hatcher jumped from the plane and shows the landing gear hanging three and a half feet below the ship. Lower photo shows Hatcher floating to safety as his plane burned to a crisp on a dry lake. (Associated Press Photo)

UNION CHIEFS END COAL STRIKE

Officers of the United Mine Workers are pictured as they drafted order at Washington, D. C., to all union locals directing miners back to work in all districts which accepted wage increases won by the union in its soft coal strike. Left to right: Thomas Kennedy, secretary-treasurer; John L. Lewis, president, and Philip Murray, vice president. (Associated Press Photo)

CARRY OUT BODY OF MOUNTAIN FEUD VICTIM

The body of Berry Kesterson, 32-year-old prospector from Oakland, Calif., being carried up the Iowa Hill trail in American River canyon near Auburn, Calif., after he had been shot down as he was approaching the cabin of John C. Weaver who was wounded by Andy Fennimore and captured. Officials expressed belief Kesterson was the victim of a feud over mining claims. Left to right: Joe Bender, Andy Fennimore and Pete Wamsley. (Associated Press Photo)

NOTED CARTOONIST KILLED IN AUTO CRASH

Sidney Smith (left), widely known newspaper cartoonist, was killed near Harvard, Ill., when his automobile collided with another. He was alone in the car at the time. The wreckage of the 58-year-old cartoonist's auto is shown at right. (Associated Press Photos)

Frank Wallace, who has asked New York courts to determine his marital status, shortly expects to go to Hollywood to appear in his own story, "Frankie and Mamie." He is shown in Syracuse, N. Y., familiarizing himself with the screen's glorified siren, Mae West, changed from the Mae he knew and wed. (Associated Press Photo)

ROOSEVELT SONS IN AUTO CRASH

Here's the automobile in which James and John Roosevelt, sons of the President, crashed through a grade crossing gate in East Boston, Mass., and collided with a narrow gauge train. John suffered minor bruises and James was unhurt. John swung the car away from the train, but not soon enough. (Associated Press Photo)