

BERKELEY SEWER PROJECT ORDERED BY CITY COUNCIL

Construction of a sewer on Berkeley Way was approved by the Medford council at a meeting in city hall last night.

The council voted to withhold foreclosure proceedings on County street lots owned by H. G. Wortman and E. E. Gore pending an inquiry by the finance and streets and roads committee.

COUNTY BUDGET GIVEN APPROVAL AT PUBLIC MEET

and the emergency fund should be made. Mr. Iverson's protest cited the rising taxes on homes owned by himself.

County Judge Earl B. Day explained that the budget committee had done its very best to cut everything to the bone.

Mr. Fohl claimed he cut the county expenses, and out of deference to him the budget committee reduced appropriations heavily.

The appropriation of the county health fund was also criticized. C. R. Gates, in defense of the fund, said:

"I am as heavy a tax payer as there is in this room, but I don't want a cent cut that will hinder help to those in need of health care."

Gates also said that "these are strenuous times for all of us, but times are getting better and will work out of it. We are headed that way now."

Henry Endera, Jr., of Ashland, made a motion at the conclusion of the hearing that the budget committee be extended a vote of thanks for their efforts.

W. H. McNaair of Ashland made a motion that the budget be approved, and that the budget committee be thanked for the work.

Upon certification of the budget it will be turned over to the assessor for fixing of the tax levy.

HIGH HATS AND FURS WORN BY OPERA GOERS INDICATE PROSPERITY

(Associated Press Staff Writer) CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Men are wearing high silk hats and women evening wraps this season as they haven't in years.

That it's a dress-up year was especially noticeable at the opening week of the Chicago city opera. It was apparent also at smart restaurants and supper clubs.

Opening week at the opera has been more brilliant than in years, clothes more glamorous, fur wraps more plentiful and luxuriant. Famous jewels that haven't been seen in public, even at opera first nights, in years sparkled and gleamed.

The woman of fashion pays more attention to her hair. It has the appearance of being especially dressed for the occasion. Being neatly cut and curled isn't enough. To be truly smart she wears ornaments in her hair.

Alirets have reappeared. Flowers are being worn extensively this season. Especially purple orchids. Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt at her lecture here had a large spray on the shoulder of her bergandy gown.

ROGERS PLEASED ONCE WITH $10 PAY INCREASE

Famous Comedian Thought Act Was Poor Until He Was Told by Trouper — Gave Charity Big Sum

Will Rogers was unused to the ways of show business when he first appeared in New York with his act.

Bob Albrecht, vaudeville singer and native Oklahoman, told a story of Rogers' effort to get a raise from Arthur Hammerstein, for whom he was appearing.

Rogers had been held over for three successive weeks. His act was going over big. But Will was disappointed each week as he watched the remainder of the show move on to another theater.

"What's the matter with my act?" he queried. "Don't you think I'm good enough to go with the rest of the show?"

"Wants $10 More." Albrecht, an old trouper, instantly saw that his fellow statesman was new in the show business.

"How long you been here?" he asked. "Four weeks," said Rogers unhappily. "If they held me over for only one week, they'd have to give me a raise," Albrecht advised.

That encouraged Rogers. He approached Hammerstein. "The people seem to like my little act," he told the impresario. "Don't you reckon you could pay me a little more money?"

"That's what every actor thinks," Hammerstein told him. "but how much do you think you ought to have?"

"Would $10 a week be too much?" Rogers replied. "The story is true," Rogers said in later years. "but I've learned better since."

Donates $50,000

Not so very long ago Rogers received $50,000 for the first seven broadcasts for a nationally advertised product over a nationwide network.

Notwithstanding the fact that at the same time he borrowed $100,000 from a bank in Los Angeles to make a last payment on his ranch, he gave the $50,000 to charity—half to the

20 MEN SENT TO BLAKE ROAD JOB

FALL GRAIN DAMAGE NOT DEFINITELY KNOWN

ASHLAND, Nov. 6.—(Sp.)—Twenty men, registered with the national re-employment service, were sent to work in the Blake Siskiyou highway project Tuesday noon as part of a crew that will ultimately include 30 workers.

The men will be occupied for the next few weeks in clearing the route of 5.12 miles, making it ready for the grading crew.

Other men will be ordered to work by the local relief office as fast as their applications are approved by the re-employment office in Medford, according to Chick Furlow, time-keeper.

It is too early to determine what damage, if any, has been done to fall sown grain by the frost and cold of the past week, County Agent Robert G. Fowler said today.

"Any estimate now is pure guesswork," Fowler said. "There may be a slight loss, with some of the grain that is up, but it's too early to tell anything about it."

The county agent said more oats and wheat had been sown this fall than last year, and that the wheat acreage was about the same.

R. H. WHITEHEAD, FORMER BANKER, TAKEN BY DEATH

R. H. Whitehead, a resident of Medford for the past 45 years except the last 15 years spent in San Francisco, but frequently visiting his daughter here, passed away at 2:20 Tuesday afternoon at the age of nearly 89.

He was born in Rock county, Wis., January 10, 1847, and ran away from home when less than 15 years of age to take part in the Civil war.

At Janesville, Wis., he enlisted in company H. 33rd Wisconsin volunteer infantry and served faithfully until the close of the war, engaging in many battles of note.

After the war, he worked in a sawmill on Feather river, and later went to Nevada to work in the mines. He next took up stock raising, which he followed for 16 years, and in 1881 sold out and came to Umatilla county, Oregon, near Pendleton, and engaged in wheat raising, where he acquired ownership of one and a half sections of fine land.

In 1890 he again sold his interests and came to Medford, where he went into the loan and speculation business and later banking. Thus his entire life has been crowned with success.

Mr. Whitehead served on the Medford city council 1899-1901. He was united in marriage in Glen county, California, to Lizzie Johnson, and of the three children born to this union, one daughter, Grace Pellett of Medford, survives.

Funeral services will be conducted by the local Masonic lodge at the Conger chapel at 10:30 a. m. Tuesday, after which the body will be forwarded to Pendleton and laid to rest by the side of his deceased wife.

MOLLY ON VIEW IN SHOP WINDOW; LIKES NEW LIFE

Molly is on display today at the Monarch Seed and Feed Store at Sixth and Bartlett streets, and a center of attraction she is too. Many persons stopped to look at her this morning and she seemed to enjoy the attention she was receiving.

Molly is a blunt-nosed, web-footed, paddle-tailed beaver, member of the exclusive colony of beavers on Bear creek near Jackson hot springs. The beavers, along with others in this general locality, are being moved to sections of the state where they will be unable to inflict damage upon crops, trees and creek banks.

The transfer is being made by the U. S. forest service under the direction of J. P. Branson, junior district agent of the U. S. biological survey at Roseburg, and Ralph H. Olson, acting assistant biologist of the forest service.

Molly occupies a big cage built especially for her by the forest service under the personal supervision of Mr. Olson. It is 4 1/2 feet long, 2 1/2 feet wide and 2 feet deep. In one end is a metal tank 26 by 24 by 12 inches. That is for Molly's bath.

While caged in the store window, Molly is enjoying the choicest of food, her favorite delicacy being apples. She is not likely to suffer from famine, for a whole box of grade A apples has been donated to her by the American Fruit Growers, Inc.
