consist of five members, appointed by the governor.

2. That the expenditure be $3,500,000.

3. That Candelaria Heights be eliminated and the commission be given power to select any adjacent land up to a certain extent.

Adjournment Tabled. Immediately after passage of the capitol bill Representative Bull of La Grande introduced the resolution for sine die adjournment at midnight Friday. The resolution was tabled.

The branch banking bill known as house bill 21, which would make it illegal to operate branch banks, was still in committee, but it was expected the proposal would be reported out later on a divided report.

The majority of eight against the proposal and a minority of two for the bill. Representatives Eckersley and Hyde were expected to bring in the minority report.

The senate, after several hours debate, defeated Senator Peter Zimmerman's measure which would prohibit compulsory military training. The vote on the proposal, which was brought out on the floor on a minority report stood 19 to 8 against the bill.

The noon recess of the house interrupted debate upon the Cleveland pension bill, which would raise funds for payment to match federal funds by a gross income tax. The proposal would reduce the age qualifications from 70 to 65 years.

Similar bills, but without the revenue raising features, are in the senate. The latter two were declared more in line with the administration's desires.

Governor Martin, by indirection, let it be known he would not approve any old age pension bill of security legislation carrying the revenue raising phases unless they were in line with his policy. He stated he would be favorable to bills making the laws conform only to the federal security legislation.

The big sales tax proposal, as introduced last week by Representative Snyder, which would assess a levy of from one-fourth of one per cent to two per cent on all retail sales, business and occupation, and compensation, was killed by a close vote during the morning.

FRUIT AND VEGETABLE PRICES MOUNT AFTER EIGHT-DAY COLD SNAP

Although the weather was slightly warmer today, little change in temperature for tonight and tomorrow was forecast by the weather bureau. The weather will continue fair with fog in the morning, the bureau said.

Lowest temperature since yesterday was 23 degrees, registered at 6 o'clock this morning. Yesterday's maximum of 54 degrees would be exceeded today by several degrees, the weather bureau indicated.

SEATTLE, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Fruit and vegetable prices mounted today over the Pacific northwest, as the eight-day cold spell stubbornly gave way to more moderate temperatures.

Light rain fell at Bellingham and Spokane after morning low temperatures of 37 and 34 degrees respectively. At 7 a. m., it was 32 here, three degrees higher than yesterday's low.

In Oregon the Columbia river gorge was progressively warming from east to west, with a reading of 42 degrees at Hood River. Portland had 32, two degrees above yesterday's low.

TURKEY KILLING SLOW STARTING

PORTLAND, Nov. 6.—(AP)—With killing reported below expectations, considering the price, the turkey market continued very firm here today.

One turkey specialist said "the kill is light because of piny condition of some of the birds. Quality in general is very desirable and the birds are as a rule not only of large size, but fat."

Killing has started in a small way in the Yamhill producing area and around Redmond.

Today's quotation on live birds was 18 to 19 cents, and from 23 to 24 cents for dressed birds. These were Portland delivery prices, with country buying prices generally one cent less.

COMING OF RUSSIAN SINGER INTERESTING CITY MUSIC CIRCLES

Much interest is being evinced in the coming program which will be presented by Savell Walevitch, singer of Russian and gypsy folk songs.

The evening promises to be one of unusual and outstanding interest, and not to be confused with the usual recital. Although Walevitch appears in costume, his presentation is but a minor part of the drama of the folk music of Russia.

As his accompaniment, the artist uses the seven-stringed Russian lute guitar, an instrument tuned to the natural scale and possessing unusual tone quality and resonance, which provides a rich background for his program.
