

CALIFORNIAN BUYS 200-ACRE RANCH FROM J. E. SMITH

Announcement was made today of the sale of a 200-acre cattle ranch on Thompson creek six miles from Applegate. The transaction was handled by Charles A. Wing Agency, Inc.

The ranch was bought by Clarence Gasaway of Pittville, Cal. It was owned by John E. Smith who operates a large cattle ranch on Sardine creek north of Gold Hill.

Mr. Gasaway and his wife and their two small children are expected to take possession of their new property in a few days. Though a young man, Mr. Gasaway has had much experience in ranching and will operate his new property as a diversified farm.

The property is a modern ranch. Seventy of the 200 acres are under cultivation, the remainder being in timber and pasture land. There is a large up-to-date log home of five rooms and two spacious porches, erected by J. D. Bowditch, Medford builder. There are several accessory buildings. The property has its own electric plant and running water.

Included in the sale were milk and beef cattle, horses, pigs and other stock and farm machinery and equipment.

PUBLIC LIBRARY IS BUSY PLACE

A count of the attendance at the Public Library was taken this week, showing from 350 persons on the quietest days of the week to over 300 on the busiest days. Reference questions are received daily in increasing numbers and range from the most personal to the most practical.

It is hoped that all readers will watch the new book lists, and that they will express their needs and wishes in the matter of books to the members of the staff. In this way everyone can be served. The library will be able to have many of the outstanding books of the fall and winter, but it will be impossible to keep a large supply of new titles on demand, or to duplicate titles.

ITALIANS CAPTURE IMPORTANT TOWNS IN ETHIOPIAN PUSH

center, the southern Italian army has removed another stone from its path toward Harar, the walled city of Ethiopia.

Makale, like Adawa, Aksum and Adigrat before it, fell without resistance.

Swaggering in the van of the invading troops was Ras Halle Selassie Gugsa, the Benedict Arnold of Ethiopia. He went straight to the castle of former King John—for Makale was once a royal seat—and established himself by right of might as governor of the rich Tigre province.

There was unconcealed joy among the Ras and his tribesmen, who in being permitted to be the first to enter the town, were honored even above Mussolini's own favorite hero—Adigrat, whose hats gaily flutter the feathers of cocks. Thus is Gugsa's treachery rewarded with victory.

Flag Restored

The Italian flag was raised above the fort of Makale—the fort from which in 1895 was torn down by triumphant Ethiopians. The soldiers of Rome, now more than 100 miles deep into the black kingdom of never-conquered Ethiopia, took up fortified positions on the south of the town, looking toward new objectives.

The continued refusal of the raw meat-eating, fight-loving Ethiopians to challenge the Italian advance means that Emperor Selassie has a definite strategy arranged, a strategy that calls for pitched battle under conditions and on terrain which he, and not the Italians, will choose.
