

MOHMAND TRIBES GO ON RAMPAGE, SNIPE AT BRITISH

Raids Into English Territory by Hill Men Due to Poverty Caused by Failure of Their Crops

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Snipers' rifles are popping and British Tommies are marching again along India's northwest frontier, for the Mohmands are on another rampage.

heard of the Mohmands, but to England it means one more chapter in a pacification campaign that has lasted for nearly 100 years.

"The Mohmands, a tribe of the Afghan border, have been among the chief trouble-makers for England in the region ever since the British conquest of India.

"In this rugged mountain country, where the northern tip of India thrusts up toward Russia between primitive Afghans and mysterious Tibet, British and native Indian forces have carried on periodical campaigns against the Mohmands and other troublesome tribesmen since the middle of the last century.

"It was from these little border campaigns that Rudyard Kipling gathered much of the material for his poems about life among the British soldiers in India; and today they are waged in much the same setting as when Kipling wrote.

"The Mohmands are part of the Pathan or Afghan people, living in the hill country along the frontier between India and Afghanistan. In this region also live the Afridis, Waziris, Orakzais, Sivatis, and Bajuris. Parts of their territory is ruled by the King of Afghanistan, but most of it is attached, loosely at least, to British jurisdiction.

"The Mohmand territory covers about 1,200 square miles of hilly country northwest of Peshawar, capital and chief city of the northwest frontier province of India. The region is hot and almost treeless, with the hills covered by a low scrub growth of stunted palms and coarse grass.

Near Khyber Pass. "When the rains fall in the Mohmand territory the crops fail also, and many of the persistent raids of the tribesmen upon British territory have been due to poverty as much as to natural love of fighting.

Sea Disaster Survivor Gives Thrilling Story Of Rescue From Rock

(The following eye witness account of the sinking of the British freighter Silverhazel and the rescue of its crew and passengers after four days on a wave swept rock in the Pacific was written for the Associated Press by Mrs. Winifred Scott Bissinger, former San Francisco newspaper woman, who was returning to Manila on the Silverhazel. Three sailors were cited for their heroism in rescuing her.)

By Mrs. Winifred Scott Bissinger. Written for the Associated Press. MANILA, Nov. 15.—(P)—I was in bed when the Silverhazel grounded, Saturday. There was a scraping sound, a little shock and then five blasts of the whistle sounded.

George, my husband, and I went to the foredeck. We were there when about two thirds of the ship broke away. Before it sank attempts were made to launch two lifeboats. Waves smashed them.

I could see several islands, also a lighthouse a half mile away. All Saturday and Sunday night we remained on our part of the ship, mostly lying on the deck. Saturday night two ships failed to respond to our flares.

Plenty of brandy. We opened cans of salmon or milk, or ate candy bars. Rain was our only drinking water but we had plenty of brandy.

Chief Engineer F. J. Clayton sang for us with a Scottish burr. We joined him but were silenced when extra big waves crashed aboard the wreck. Later we sang again. We never were in pain, and as far as I know, nobody prayed.

Sunday Captain H. A. Leonard reached the rock later feet away on a cargo boom. Later the breeches buoy was rigged up and we all went to the rock which was about thirty feet long.

We stayed in small tents made from tarpaulins. Sometimes we were doused with spray and rain. Ship's slight wreck. Sunday night two ships again failed to respond to our flares.

Early Monday an interisland motorship, the Governor Taft, turned her searchlights on the wreck. We cheered wildly. Soon afterwards the Japanese freighter Chicago Maru arrived.

Tuesday morning when the destroyer Peary arrived, there were six ships hanging around but all failed repeatedly to get boats or a line to us.

When a big wave broke over the rock Tuesday, the captain decided we had better return to the wreckage. Then the crew started building rafts from the lumber in the deckload.

One raft broke away Tuesday night. Three Lincoln seamen jumped into the water, swam to it and climbed aboard. When the raft carried them towards the ships instead of toward the high cliffs of San Bernardino island on which the lighthouse was situated, we were encouraged. We decided to try to escape by rafts Wednesday morning.

Raft Breaks Loose. Sixteen officers and Third Officer Smith went first. Thirty one others were preparing to leave when the raft broke loose and the officers shouted for everybody to go over.

We jumped about twenty feet into the water. Nine swam to the raft and the rest got hold of planks. George reached the raft and I clung to a plank.

I never could have made it if Seaman G. Harding and H. A. Matthews and Boatwain Mate Ponder had not helped me. I was in the water about 25 minutes and was unconscious at the end.

We lost all of our clothes and a new automobile we were taking to Manila.

YOUTH SPENDS YEARS ON HOBBY OF MAKING MINIATURE FURNITURE

JACKSON, Mich. (UP)—Russell Carter, a young man who resides here, has two hobbies—one is building miniature furniture and buildings and the other is collecting guns.

His collection of miniature furniture includes a table, six chairs, an extension dining table with extra leaves, a high chair, davenport, overstuffed chairs and tables with sliding drawers. Enough to outfit a miniature home.

Of his miniature buildings one in certain—a cow barn—is his favorite. It is built to scale and complete in every detail, with 28 workable stanchions, grain bins with removable front boards. Doors and windows work perfectly, and throughout the structure every beam and rafter is braced exactly as a large barn. He says he spent a year and a half completing this creation.

Several guns of different makes are included among his collection.

PICKUP IN BUSINESS AND MARRIAGE GAIN LINKED IN ENGLAND

LONDON (UP)—Cupid is winning in his battle with depression. Marriages are on the boom. Eight persons are marrying for every seven a year ago. Men and women both are marrying younger. Widows are remarrying at the rate of 10,000 a year.

With more than 2,000 brides and bridegrooms going to the altar daily, sociologists believe that the improvement is due to improved industrial conditions and better housing facilities. This latter consideration no longer provides the obstacle that it did a few years ago. Anyone with a reasonably certain job can find means of financing a small house instead of living with the "in-laws."

A modern tendency, however, is for wives to hold positions longer than hitherto. In some cases they earn nearly as much as their husbands. The feeling is that a little nest egg built up today will come in handy in future years. This tendency to go on working has one bad feature in that it is causing a fall in the birth-rate.

SURVEY STRESSES NEED OF TRAINING FOR EMPLOYMENT

NEW YORK (UP)—An appalling lack of vocational training as one of the basic causes of unemployment is perhaps the most significant fact revealed by one of the most unusual national surveys just completed.

The 250,000 Camp Fire Girls of the country collected data on unemployment, relief, public works needs and projects and the requisites for better citizenship. This is believed to be one of the first times in history that a large segment of the nation's womanhood between the ages of 14 and 20 has been given the opportunity to express its opinions on the most vital problems of the day.

The survey involved a careful study of local city governments throughout the country and a fairly comprehensive grasp of local relief plans and objectives. But the girls did not stop here. They went further, making suggestions for needed public works, such as buildings, and parks, even making models to scale of these. Also, they worked out careful and comprehensive budgets on feeding a family of four on $5 a week in the north, where food prices are higher.

Results of the survey were submitted first to Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt who said in part: "I think the girls who did this survey did a remarkably good job. In meeting this need they are assets to their communities."

ROGUE FOREST COST $422,173 IN PAST YEAR

Work Includes Many Items of Lasting Importance—CCC Toll Worth $153,375—Investment $1,537,291

A total of $422,173 was expended on the Rogue river national forest during the past fiscal year. It was shown by the yearly cost statement released today by Karl L. Janouch, supervisor. In addition to this sum, a value of $153,375 was placed upon the work performed by the CCC, which is estimated at $1.50 for each day's labor.

Of the amount expended during the year, $40,764 was spent for fire protection; $30,368 for the maintenance of improvements; $17,203 for the construction of roads and trails; $129,314 for the construction of buildings and similar improvements, and $262,562 for new equipment.

Under operating expenses, $7116 was spent for the administration of timber sales; $2870 for the supervision of livestock grazing; $532 for fish and game administration, and $3085 for supervision of the recreational use of the forest.

Investments on the forest to date, excluding the amounts spent on operating costs, show a total cost of $1,938,748, and a present value of $1,537,291. Depreciation on these investments is charged off each year so that this present value is believed to be the actual worth of the investments, Mr. Janouch explained.

The listed classes of these investments are indicative of the wide variety of work undertaken on the local forest. They include to date totals of 911 miles of roads, 1388 miles of trails, 732 miles of telephone lines, 34 lookout houses, an airplane landing field, 39 dwellings, 10 barns, 3 office buildings, 87 garages and other small miscellaneous buildings, 44 water systems, 172 camp buildings and 80 water developments on ranges for livestock.

Non-structural investments include reforestation projects, hazard reduction work, insect control projects and surveys, plans and maps of various kinds. Equipment with a present value of $103,729 is also included in the investments.

GIRL OF 1855 HAD EDGE ON MODERNS, STATES WOMAN, 101

ALAMEDA, Cal. (UP)—The girl of 1855 had a lot more fun and a lot better chance of happiness than her granddaughter has, believes Mrs. Sophie Davis.

And Mrs. Davis didn't get her theory by reading. She got it by experience, for she was a girl in 1855. Recently she celebrated her 101st birthday.

She is a little disgusted with the modern girl, who "swills gin and sucks on cigars."

"It's not her duty to gallivant around," Mrs. Davis says. "A girl's duty is to make an advantageous marriage and raise children."

"Automobiles? They're the bunk," she believes. "It's on their account that every one's in a lather hurry?" Mrs. Davis declares. "In my day, we saw a little country, but really saw it. Today you try to see a lot, and fall."

TOURIST FLOW TO WEST IS CALLED GOOD TIMES SIGN

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UP)—Migration of tourists and unemployed to California has increased so much during the past several months that authorities are undecided whether the heavy flow is the result of returning prosperity or just further evidence that people would rather starve in sunshine than in snow.

State officials in the department of motor vehicles insist it is a sign of improved conditions. While a year ago they blamed the increase on Dr. T. S. Sinclair, Epic-Democratic candidate for governor, because of the publicity given his "production for use" plan to relieve unemployment, this year they labeled it "a prosperous tourist crop."

Non-resident permits were issued for 111,943 vehicles during the first eight months of this year, compared with only 61,444 during the corresponding period of 1934, when "hordes of unemployed" were supposed to be pouring into the state in answer to Sinclair's promise to end poverty.

During the entire 12 months of 1934, only 98,256 permits were issued. July was the heaviest tourist month this year, 23,661 visiting cars being registered then. There were 22,793 in August, 20,859 in June, 11,015 in May.
