

GABLE'S MARRIAGE ON ROCKS AGAIN; IT'S TEMPERAMENT

Film Hero and Second Wife Agree On Amicable Separation — First Wife Not Surprised by Event

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Nov. 15.—(AP)—With his "temperament" blamed for the rift, Clark Gable, the film idol, and his second wife, Mrs. Rhea Lucas Gable, today entered on an "amicable" separation.

At their exclusive Brentwood home here Mrs. Gable, 31 years her husband's senior, termed the rift "just a case of temperament," and said no immediate divorce was contemplated.

Stoutly denying there was another woman involved, or that her husband's recent jaunt to South America had influenced her decision, she said, "I feel very badly about it. We both feel however, that it will be better to be separated for a while."

Under their property settlement, she said, she will remain in the home, while Gable, upon his return here from the east soon, will take up residence at a Beverly Hills hotel.

To Mrs. Gable No. 1 Josephine Dillon Gable, Hollywood dramatic coach, from whom he was divorced in 1931 after two years of marriage, the actor's new marital difficulties appeared as no surprise. She married him in Portland, Ore., when he was playing in stock.

"At the time of our divorce he frankly told me he wanted to marry the present Mrs. Gable because she could do more for him financially," she recalled.

"I have never met the second Mrs. Gable, but I am certain her case is similar to mine."

"He is a man's man but the marrying type."

"However, he has an overwhelming ambition to which everything else must be sacrificed. Three years before we hit Broadway we had an agreement that if he made a go of his career, I would have no string on him."

NEW GOLD BOOM LOOMS AS RAND EXTENDS MINES

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — (UP)—The Rand is ready for another gold boom, according to all indications.

In a speech here, Hans Pirow, the government mining engineer, and South Africa's leading authority, revealed that if the Rand mines could penetrate another 2,500 feet in depth they would make available another 200,000,000 tons of ore worth $1,250,000,000.

Hitherto a depth of 7,500 feet was considered as the limit, but with constant improvement in mine ventilation 10,000 feet may become practicable.

In addition, a position of great promise is gradually unfolding itself in the far western area beyond the present limits of the Rand, where indications of a valuable new gold field are slowly and surely being revealed.

During the past two years, active boring operations have been carried out over a 100-mile strip stretching from the westerly limits of the present Rand in a southwesterly direction into the Transvaal countrywide.

Valuable strikes already have been made at various points, indicating long extension of the Rand reefs.

Already 36 miles, or half the length of the present Rand, have been definitely proved as carrying the main reef, or enough for six mines which may shortly be floated. If the rest of the strip is similarly proved, the Rand will expand to three times its present size.

Hop Gold Ale Is Now Produced By Star Brewing Co.

To satisfy the public demand for a heavier, stronger brew for these colder months, the Star Brewery company officials announce their new product, Hop Gold Ale, a fine old English style "Burton Type" ale, the same type of mellow, amber-colored ale that warmed the hearts and fostered good fellowship in "ye olde tyme inns" of long ago. Hop Gold Ale has been thoroughly aged and is now on the market and available to the public.

Herr Schwind, brewmaster, states: "Hop Gold Ale is unlike any ale made in the States today. Special ingredients are used with a special brewing process following in every detail the famous 'Burton Type' formula that made ale the favorite banquet beverage of merry old England."

Hop Gold Ale is available in two packages: No. 1, a regular 4 per cent alcohol by weight, sold at all grocers and dispensers; No. 2, special 6 per cent alcohol by weight, sold by dealers who are licensed to handle the heavier alcoholic beverages.

According to Phil Polsky, general manager of the Star Brewery company, a sufficiently large quantity of this fine old English style Hop Gold Ale is now on hand to satisfy the expected heavy demand by the public for this new product.

MAN O' WAR AT 18 LEADS LIFE OF ROYAL EASE

LEXINGTON, Ky. (UP)—Faded from the spotlight and in many instances forgotten are the sports heroes of 15 years ago, but roaming a blue grass meadow on a farm near here and living in regal splendor is the turf king of the years which ushered in the golden era of sports in the United States.

Sharing the headlines of the period with Babe Ruth, George Siler, Harry Hellman, Walter Johnson, Jack Dempsey, Bobby Jones and "Big Bill" Tilden, was Man O' War, the greatest thoroughbred the American turf has ever produced.

Man O' War, conqueror of the racing world in 1919 and 1920 when he won 20 out of 21 starts, is now at the Faraway farm a few miles from here and still the prime attraction of a section which offers a multitude of thoroughbred fascinations.

Retired in 1920 following his triumphant sweep of 11 races as a 3-year-old in 1920, Man O' War was retired to the stud by his owner, Samuel D. Riddle, wealthy eastern sportsman.

Approximately 125 persons visit the horse daily now and he revels in the attention paid him.

Unlike many horses which have been in the stud for an extended period, "Big Red," as the son of Mahuba-Fairplay was nicknamed, has no vicious tendencies.

"Uncle Will," the aged negro attendant who watches the horse with the diligence of a mother, becomes a bit "huffed" when an observer asks: "Is he mean?"

Never Mean, Says Groom "The never-variant answer is: 'Him? No suh! If he's got 'em I ain't seen a nary one.'"

The old groom likes to talk about the former turf champion and readily admits it.

"Yes suh-ree," he says, "when you got the finest thing in the world to talk about, why shouldn't you do it? This horse owns nobody nothing and ain't got no allis to make—not even for that one race he didn't win, cause his jockey crooked him out of it."

On the occasion of his 17th birthday, Man O' War was presented with a cake decorated with "carrrot candles."

Man O' War is 18 now but the excellent care which he has been given makes him appear about 10. Experts who have examined him believe he will live about 13 more years, barring an accident.

"Big Red" now weighs approximately 1,360 pounds, about 300 more than he did when in his racing prime. He stands 16½ hands.

The horse is exercised about eight miles daily when the weather is good. He is weighed every month and given an examination by a veterinarian every quarter. He is insured for $300,000.

MRS. MARTIN WILL APPEAL CASE TO SUPREME COURT

To the Editor:

Rumors have come to me that owing to articles which have appeared in the newspapers, that the public is laboring under the delusion that the damage suit filed by myself against radio station KMEB was purely monetary and spite case. In order that I may make my position clear as regards this case, I ask that you print this communication.

This is an impersonal fight, a fight conducted to preserve to the people of this nation "their constitutional right to free speech." No amount of money can recompense any citizen whose constitutional rights have been taken from him. If one radio station in the United States is permitted to deprive a citizen of his constitutional right of free speech, it means that all radio stations can do the same and thereas described by the Honorable George Henry Payne, federal communications commissioner, in an address at Columbia university, October 31, 1935. This address was reported in the Christian Science Monitor, November 1, Mr. Payne said further, that present radio methods were a threat to private control and that unless their methods were changed that it would mean government ownership, the reason given being the "right of free speech" and present limited air channels.

At the present time scientific research has made only a limited number of channels available for radio broadcasting and reception. Undoubtedly, at some not too distant date, it will be possible for any individual to use the air in direct broadcast to an individual or to the world at large, for at present radio is in its infancy. However, until that time arrives, "the right of free speech," through "any radio station operating for hire" must be preserved to the citizens of this nation and in the measure that radio stations cooperate to this end, just so long will they remain privately controlled.

I doubt if many people in Oregon realize the importance of this case as far as every individual in the United States is concerned, although the newspapers, known as the "fourth estate," have demonstrated that they realize the significance, proven by their silence as to the real issue at stake. Don't forget that many newspapers either own or control numerous radio stations.

If one-sided propaganda alone can be put forth by radio stations throughout the nation, it would be possible to so mold public opinion that this nation could even be "plunged into war overnight" since the radio could be banned to all those wishing to express their views contrary to engaging in war.

I ask the people of Oregon to rise above petty personalities, and the newspapers of this state to awaken to a realization that by in any way aiding and abetting the suppression of "free speech," they are at the same time jeopardizing "the right of free press."

Needless to say, my interest in "preserving the constitutional rights"
