

EARLY OREGONIANS TOPIC OF TAYLOR ROTARY ADDRESS

An interesting account of the lives of two Oregonians who have played important roles in the progress of this state, was presented by Professor Arthur Taylor of the Southern Oregon Normal at today's luncheon meeting of the Medford Rotary club at Hotel Medford. The two characters selected for Prof. Taylor's talk, more or less obscure names in Oregon history, were John Ledyard and Thomas Howell.

The speaker introduced his interesting address with an account of the early life of the intrepid explorer, Ledyard, who was responsible for the first attention being directed to the possibilities of the great Pacific northwest. The early travels of this man included participating in Captain Cook's famous explorations. It was the book concerning the little-known land of the far west that inspired Grey's expedition and the famous Lewis and Clark journey to the Oregon country.

Vastly different, yet an increasingly important figure in Oregon history, was Thomas Howell who has made the greatest contribution to Oregon botany. Through his own excursions into the wilds of Oregon and the northwest, Howell discovered many new plants and trees and classified over 8000 of them. Unable to finance the publication of his comprehensive book on botany, the determined Howell mastered the art of printing and put into type his book which was published in 1893.

Professor Taylor's address, reflecting his far-reaching knowledge of Oregon history, was enthusiastically received by a large attendance of Rotarians and guests.

Town Club Tea Highly Successful

One of the largest daytime affairs of the Town club was today pronounced also one of the most successful. The benefit tea arranged yesterday afternoon for members and guests was exceptionally well attended.

Eighteen tables of cards were in play during the afternoon, with a large number dropping in later for tea, bringing the total number of guests to approximately ninety.

Arrangements for the tea were made by Mesdames H. Chandler Egan, Charles Glenn Smith, Louis Salade, Jr., and Josephine Wells.

Butlers Hosts To Bridge Club

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Butler entertained their dinner bridge club last evening at their home on Queen Anne. Guests for the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Field, Mr. and Mrs. Roland Hubbard, Mr. and Mrs. William Holloway, Mr. and Mrs. George Henselman and Dr. and Mrs. Ralph Dippel.

Mrs. Moore Leaves for North

Leaving last night by train, Mrs. E. A. Moore went to Portland to attend a P. E. O. board meeting. After a few days in Portland, she will continue to Seattle, where she will be the guest of her sister, Mrs. Mabel Lyon.

Mrs. Moore is expected to return the first of next week.

This morning paralysis appeared in his arm, Dr. Heckman said.

The official inclusion of the case as polio myelitis in the Jackson county records awaited the return of Dr. A. N. Johnson, county health officer, from Prospect, where he went this morning to attend his duties.

This is the seventh case of infantile paralysis in the county since inception of the disease on November 8. Three children have died from the ailment.

Ronald James, reported yesterday as having infantile paralysis, developed a slight paralysis of the back muscles today, though his general condition was much better. It was reported by Dr. L. D. Inskip, city health officer.

The resentment caused among Jacksonville officials when the Clyde Durham family was domiciled in Jacksonville had abated today, following a conference yesterday between Dr. Johnson and school board officials.

The family, reported destitute and living in a tent on Birdseye creek, was placed in a Jacksonville house, when no other place was found available, so that a four-year-old daughter might be cared for properly. The child died yesterday.

Dr. Johnson explained the circumstances to the Jacksonville school board, pointing out that the house had been quarantined and the family ordered to remain indoors. The only time anyone left the house was when Mr. Durham went out to summon a doctor, Dr. Johnson told the board.

In view of this, Paul Godward, member of the Jacksonville school board, told the Mail Tribune today that there was no need of closing the schools, though children of new families moving into Jacksonville would be isolated and kept under observation for a week.

MEDFORD LURES TRAVELER AFTER TOUR IN EUROPE

Medford pears and apples may be found on sale in every important city of Europe, with 40 cents charged for a pear and 20 cents for an apple.

This is the word of Mrs. Vera Moss, who has just completed a week's visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Vinton of the Hotel Grand, after a two and a half year tour of Europe with her husband.

Mrs. Moss came to Medford recently from her home in Los Angeles. She was accompanied to this city by Mrs. Ora Greenamper of Los Angeles, sister of Mrs. Vinton.

Mrs. Moss said she felt very much at home in Europe whenever she saw boxes of fruit bearing the name of Medford. Despite her extensive travels abroad, she described Medford as one of the loveliest cities she has ever seen, and plans to visit here again next summer.

"The shops here are unusually attractive," she said before returning to her Los Angeles home with Mrs. Greenamper.

Mrs. Moss collected many things of educational interest while in Europe and sent them to her brother, William Vinton, Jr. for his work at the Reese creek school, where he is a teacher.

GLEEMEN TO SET DATE OF CONCERT

At the weekly rehearsal of the Gleemen, to be held tonight, the definite date of the forthcoming concert will be decided upon. Tentatively it has been set for some favorable night during the holiday season and director James Stevens is anxious that a full turnout be present when the decision is made, after a discussion of the various possibilities of conflicting attractions.

The practice sessions of the organization have been well attended since their resumption after the summer vacation period with the result that material for an entirely new and more pretentious program is being mastered. The time intervening between now and the date of the concert will be devoted to perfecting the artistic finish, which necessitates the presence of every member of the ensemble at every rehearsal.

CCC MEN FACING LARCENY CHARGE

Joseph Macri and George E. Emmert, CCC enrollees, charged with larceny from the CCC warehouse at Talent, were ordered held to await action of the grand jury, following a preliminary hearing in justice court yesterday. Bonds were fixed at $1000.

each. The pair were scheduled to be arraigned in circuit court today to plead.

Theft of a milk can full of gasoline and a quantity of jellies and jams is laid to the youths.

According to the authorities, one of the CCC enrollees had an auto, recently purchased. Last Saturday night Macri and Emmert came to this city, and attended a dance. There they met two women and the quartet started for Yreka, Calif. En route they replenished their gas tank at a rock crushing station, by filling a milk can. One of the men is a cook at the CCC station, and had a key to the warehouse, which enabled them to enter it and purloin the dainties.

On the way south the auto ran into a ditch. The rock crusher foreman pulled the auto from the ditch and brought the party to this city.

THREE CHARGED WITH LACK OF AUTO PERMIT

John M. Hayes, charged with failure to procure an auto operator's license, failed to appear in justice court yesterday and his bail of $5.00 was declared forfeited by Justice of the Peace W. R. Coleman.

Cecil Barriek of Grants Pass, similarly charged, was assessed $1.50 and costs, upon a plea of guilty. Barriek, a former wrestler, well known in southern Oregon, was given until December 1 to pay the penalty.

William G. Ryan of this city, also charged with non-possession of an auto operator's license, was fined $1 and costs. He was granted until November 23 to pay half, and until November 29 to pay the balance.

BIG ENCAMPMENT IS BOMBARDED BY DESPERATE SQUAD

The Ethiopian camp, Count Clano himself said: "We saw the Ethiopians scatter fast, but we got hundreds of them before they could make shelter, probably we got more than 1000 of them."

Oil Tank Pierced.

The count, his oil tank pierced by an Ethiopian bullet, turned back to Makale after giving the signal for the second assault, and official reports said the total of enemy dead in the two-hour conflict was around 2000.

After the battle, official reports said, scouting planes found hundreds of Ethiopians dead in the valley of combat.

The entire enemy force had scattered in the surrounding woods.

Their camp, officials said, was broken up completely.

The engagements was considered extraordinary by military experts as a kind of pitched battle between air and land forces.

Sergeant Birago, one of the heroes of the battles, officials announced, will be proposed for a medal of valor.

Heretofore told.

Count Clano, after the return of the aerial squadron, asserted: "Baron Ostini, piloting the number five plane, returned to Asmara with his mechanic suffering from a fractured leg.

"The mechanic, however, scribbled notes on bloody cards such as, 'they got me, but we got a huge number of them,' and 'long live the Disperda (desperate) squadron,' which he asked Ostini to give to me."

"Throughout the return flight, Ostini's relief pilot held a finger in a bullet hole in the gas tank."

"We found each of the 20 had ten or fifteen bullet holes."

Important Battle.

Authorities described the battle as the most important air engagement since the World war.

An Ethiopian force estimated at between 15,000 and 20,000 was concentrated in the narrow valley of Mt. Mascol south of Buisa, which in turn is south of Makale, most advanced point of the main Italian forces on the northern front.

The battle lasted from 8:40 a. m. to 10:40 a. m., yesterday with incessant bombing and machine gunning.

The planes swooped down to within 100 feet of the ground, dropping 4 1/2-pound bombs.

Count Clano's plane was obliged to return to Makale. Other planes came down in the mountainous country not far from the scene of action.

Count Clano was brought back to Asmara, in the interior of Italy's East African colony of Eritrea, in another plane.

He told the Associated Press his own ship was struck by three anti-aircraft shells and 36 machine gun and rifle bullets.

TWO ACCUSED OF BRAWL AT DANCE

Fred Witt of the Evans valley district, charged with disorderly conduct last Saturday night at Enterprise Grange hall, is scheduled to have a hearing in justice court tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Witt is specifically charged in the complaint sworn to by P. R. Jackson, with using profane language and pulling a gun in the presence of a crowd.

Witt entered a plea of not guilty and was released upon his own recognizance.

Jake Moore, charged with disorderly conduct at the same time and place, entered a plea of guilty yesterday and passing of sentence was deferred until tomorrow afternoon.

Moore is specifically charged in the complaint with engaging in a fist fight with Witt. Moore was also released on his own recognizance.
