

DILL ADVOCATES LEGAL TEST FOR NEW TRADE PACT

Former Washington Senator Tells Lumber Interests to Join Other Industries in Court Attack

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Former Senator C. C. Dill, Washington state Democrat, suggested to lumber interests today that they join other industries to test the reciprocal trade agreement law in the courts.

Expressing belief the law was unconstitutional, he said there were two things industries could do:

"They can go to congress and get renewed excise taxes to overcome the acts made by the president, or they can go into court and test the legality of the grant of power given the president to make treaties without ratification by the senate."

"The objection to the first action is that the president probably would veto any legislation increasing the excise tax on items in the pact."

The lumber industry could institute court action to compel the collector of customs in a port of entry to charge the tariffs made by congress rather than those fixed by the president, Dill said.

On the other hand, he added, lumbermen could join representatives of other industries in such a suit, and bring an action covering many items which suffered reductions of protection in any reciprocal trade agreement.

He said, however, he would prefer to see action against the Canadian pact alone.

Could Join Florida

Dill added, however, it would be possible for the lumber industry to join Florida interests, which have announced they intend to test the case on the basis of citrus fruits from Cuba.

Explaining that the "next result of a large number of treaties is to whittle down the protection to American industries to practically all countries because of the most favored nation agreement," Dill said there would be no question but that damages have been suffered.

The former senator said the constitution "makes ratification by the senate after treaties have been made one of the requirements to make them effective." This act, he added, overrides the constitution by having congress, including the senate, give this ratification before the treaty even has been made and impliedly ratifies them to every country on earth if and when the president makes them.

103,425 CANS OUTPUT OF RELIEF CANNERIES DURING COUNTY SEASON

The relief canneries operated under the Jackson county relief committee, closed November 14, after a three-month run. The pack of 103,425 cans included fruits, vegetables, meats and soups.

Five hundred families, representing over two thousand people, used the facilities of the canneries, which were located in Medford and Ashland. Certain days were set aside for various parts of the county.

These families were selected as being either on relief or approved cases. Each family brought its own produce to the cannery, where they prepared and packed it under careful supervision.

Several new pieces of equipment were purchased and installed, in addition to the old equipment on hand. This served to greatly increase the output for the season.

Dr. Sanders Gains Latest Ideas For Dental Practice

Dr. and Mrs. L. L. Sanders have returned from Portland, where Dr. Sanders participated in a dental clinic conducted under supervision of Dr. Fred E. Gulick, plate specialist of that city and one of the outstanding men in his profession. The many new ideas discussed at the sessions will be incorporated in Dr. Sanders' dental practice in the Rogue River valley, where he is associated with Dr. S. Ralph Dippel in the Medford building.

Mrs. Sanders traveled on north to Seattle, where she visited Mrs. Geo. Parsons and Mrs. H. W. Parsons, former residents of Medford.

WOMAN IS BROUGHT ACROSS THE WORLD TO SERVE SENTENCE

LONDON.—(UP)—A journey across the world to serve a life sentence in prison has been the strange experience of Mrs. Katherine Hadley, a Russian-born British citizen.

Mrs. Hadley, the widow of an Englishman who committed suicide in 1919, was convicted in Shanghai about two years ago of murdering Captain Walter Clifford Youngs of the British mercantile marine. Youngs, who was 35, was found dying of wounds at his home in Shanghai and Mrs. Hadley, then 36, was found wounded in an adjoining room.

She was convicted of stabbing Youngs to death, but was recommended to mercy by the jury. But the British supreme court passed the death sentence upon her. Two months later the sentence was commuted to life imprisonment, and arrangements were begun under the colonial prisoners' removal act of 1924.

So now Mrs. Hadley has arrived in England under escort from Shanghai to serve her life sentence. She was taken from a liner to Holloway prison.

COUPLE CONFESS SAVAGE HOLDUPS

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 21.—(AP)—Police Detective J. F. Forken announced today that Robert Shields and James Bell cracked under all-night questioning and confessed connection with a series of savage hold-ups here.

They also implicated James Chappin and Robert Cameron who jumped from a window and escaped while police were arresting the others, Forken said.

Detectives re-booked Andrew Cameron on charges of assault and robbery along with Shields and Bell. Ernest Lawson, also arrested in the roundup, was charged with state vagrancy.

Several victims of recent holdups were slugged and some were stripped of their clothing.

Harem Dress Has Favor Of Fashion At Beach Resorts

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Harem dresses with trousers are going south this season to beach resorts.

A preview of southern collections for the annual Miami-Biltmore fashion show disclosed the harem dress as one of the leading introductions.

There were cool evening dresses with trousers instead of skirts, in colors — strawberry, plum, raspberry and cherry. Sports clothes and print designs ranging from a complete alphabet to a newspaper front page. One pattern was inspired by Monte Carlo game tables.

New bathing suits are all one piece.

DOLE PAYMENTS MAY SLICE FUNDS FOR WORK RELIEF

Local authorities plead insufficient funds to take over the burden?

There was no definite answer as busy relief headquarters today, but inquiries were given that when officials referred to recent statements by President Roosevelt and Harry L. Hopkins, relief chief.

The president told a mayors' conference the government "does not propose to let people starve."

The city fathers applauded this statement, apparently interpreting it as indicating further federal aid if the situation required.

Hopkins said: "The program depends entirely on what action congress will take. I am not going to indicate an opinion about the funds that will be required or the number of people that will need benefits, but I am sure of one thing, that the government and the states and cities have put their hand to this plow and that it is never again going to be taken away."

Latest figures on the work fund, released today, showed the president had approved projects valued at $3,841,978,289. But this is a flexible list from which state administrators may select the ones they desire. It does not mean all of these projects will be carried out.

Much Coin Authorized. Of the $3,841,978,289, Comptroller General McCarl has passed on legality of projects that would cost $3,517,278,272 and has countersigned treasury warrants for $1,081,269,042.

As for the number of relief jobs, assistants to Hopkins said some "interesting" figures probably would be announced late today. It was indicated they would show a "tremendous bulge" since the announcement of November 9 showing 2,009,339 had been given work.

The goal now is 3,500,000 by Dec. 1.

SCIENTIST SAYS ITALY JUSTIFIED

EUGENE, Ore., Nov. 21.—(AP)—Dr. Cornelius G. S. DeVilliers, dean of sciences at Stellenbosch university in South Africa, expressed the belief today that Italy's colonization conquest in Ethiopia is justified.

He is acting as exchange professor here for four weeks.

"Italy must expand," he said. "She received very little from the powers at the treaty of Versailles, and Ethiopia is the only territory open to her. Under its present government the African country is undeveloped and poorly managed. The Italians feel
