

LADY MENDEL WINS BALLOT OF PARIS AS BEST DRESSED

Former American Girl Tops Among Women of World in Flaunting Fancy Fur-bellows—Personality Needed

By ADELAIDE KERR
Associated Press Foreign Staff.
PARIS, Nov. 26.—(AP)—Lady Mendel (Elise De Wolfe), American-born Paris society woman, was called the best dressed woman in the world today in an Associated Press poll of leading Paris dressmakers.

The dressmakers selected American women generally as the most elegantly gowned. Ten were included in a list of the 20 stylists of the world, named without ranking after first place.

Costs Less Than in 1928.

The fashion world estimated that to maintain a rank among the best dressed women costs from $10,000 to $40,000 a year—the top figure about one-third less than many of the world's best dressed women spent in 1928.

The Americans listed, besides Lady Mendel were:

Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt.
Baroness Eugenie de Rothschild, the former Kitty Spotswood.
Mrs. Ernest Simpson, often seen with the Prince of Wales.
Mrs. Cole Porter, wife of the songwriter.
Mrs. John Marriot, daughter of the late Otto Kahn.
Mrs. Gilbert Miller, wife of the theatrical producer.
Ina Claire, actress.
Constance Bennett, film actress.
Kay Francis, film actress.
Personality Paramount.

Personality, charm, a good figure and the ability to dress to enhance them were the measures used by the dressmakers to estimate chic. Women who follow fashion without daring to express their own personalities were not included.

Beauty, youth and wealth were secondary considerations. Designers pointed out that a number of the women listed were neither extremely young nor very rich, but achieved their effects by careful buying, a clever appraisal of their own personalities, and an effective use of styling accessories.

Lady Mendel, wife of Sir Charles Mendel of the British embassy in Paris, headed the list because some dressmakers consider more attempts are made to copy her clothes than those of any other woman.

Ignores Style Changes.

She chooses what suits her personality, and to continue wearing something she likes whether or not it is the latest edition from the fashion presses, and sometimes tints her white hair pale blue or green to match a frock.

Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt likes simple rich clothes and makes her selections quickly, sometimes from sketches; Baroness Eugenie de Rothschild, tall, blonde and beautiful, dresses to enhance her coloring, generally chooses pastel shades for evening wear.

Mrs. Ernest Simpson is a devotee of simplicity. She wears her dark hair smoothly parted and coiled in a small chignon and chooses the simplest of clothes, often in black.

Fond of Jewels.

Beautiful jewels are a favorite accessory to Mrs. Cole Porter, wife of the American song writer. She often has hers reset in striking slips and accessories, which she wears with plain, distinguished frocks.

Mrs. John Marriot and Mrs. Gilbert Miller like rich materials in conservative shades and are fond of trim woolen ensembles for day wear.

Ina Claire, Constance Bennett and Kay Francis are famous for their ability to choose clothes to enhance their personality and achieve striking effects.

OREGON CHAPTER D.F.P.A. REPORTS MANY ACTIVITIES

The latest reports of the Oregon State Chapter of Daughters of Founders and Patriots of America show increased activity among many lines, according to Mrs. J. Theoburn Ross of Portland, state president.

The summer meeting was held at beautiful Homewood, residence of Judge and Mrs. E. C. Bronaugh on the Willamette, near Portland.

Accounts were given by several delegates of general court held in Washington City in April. Oregon chapter received particularly honorable mention for attaining the most publicity in the whole national society.

Mrs. O. J. Goffin of Portland was elected councillor, the first time in the history of the organization that such an honor has come to the north-west.

The Oregon chapter gave a beautiful reception to Mrs. Goffin in June at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Pearce Davis, Portland. Burt Brown Barker delighted those present with an address on Japan, accompanied by moving pictures which he had himself taken on his late visit to the country as a delegate to the International Red Cross conference. Mr. Barker, who accompanied him, is a valued member of D. F. P. A.

At the same meeting, final reports on the George H. Himes park dedication, a most notable accomplishment of the chapter, were made. This occurred on May 19, 91st birthday of Mr. Himes. A large gathering of pioneers and representatives of patriotic societies was present and addresses made that did honor to the occasion.

In September the chapter was invited to the George H. Himes park to view the ten-ton boulder which had been secured at Rock Butte in the meantime and placed at the entrance of the park, when for the first time the table was permanently affixed. It reads:

"Honoring the Work of George H. Himes, Pioneer of 1853, who through his life has devotedly searched out and recorded early history of the Oregon country and who is here present on his 91st birthday, May 18, 1935, to witness for himself the naming of this park and the placing therein of this marker for a perpetual commemoration."

"Oregon State Chapter, National Society, Daughters of Founders and Patriots of America."

Mr. Himes was present on both occasions, giving a few words of appreciation.

The late fall meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Burt Brown Barker, when the chapter was addressed by J. H. Gallagher, consulting engineer, on the unique subject, "The Fish That Climb the Rocky Mountains."

The chapter voted to accept the request of the works progress administration to co-operate with it in searching out historic spots in the state as well as in conducting the research necessary to establish their authenticity. Mrs. David Pouliques of Portland was appointed chairman of a new committee for this work.

Eligibility to the Daughters of Founders and Patriots of America requires that one's father or mother, in direct line of descent, bear the same surname as that of the patriot of the American Revolution, and he, in turn, of the founder, who must have arrived in the colonies between May 13, 1607, and May 13, 1687.

Mrs. B. G. Harding represents this organization in Medford and she is not only on the state chapter board as councillor, but a member of the committee of the national society's work for "Restoration and Preservation of Records."

GOLDA MAE BRUNSON FUNERAL WEDNESDAY

Funeral services for Golda Mae Brunson who passed away early Monday morning, will be held strictly private in the Medford cemetery at 2:30 Wednesday with the Church of Jesus Christ, Latter Day Saints in charge.

Warm Springs Children Set for Thrill Of Eating Turkey With 'Mr. President'

Recalling the thrills of last year when President Roosevelt carried the turkey for them while Mrs. Roosevelt acted as hostess, the children at the Georgia Warm Springs Foundation are all excitement in anticipation of a repetition of the event this year.

By E. K. Butler
WARM SPRINGS, Ga. (AP)—"Say, Mr. Roosevelt, please pass me the turkey."

That's what young Billy Prenzell of New York city wants to say if he is fortunate enough again this year to sit at the table with the nation's chief executive at the annual Thanksgiving dinner of the Georgia Warm Springs Foundation.

Last year Billy was too excited and a bit too timid to speak out when he sat near the President. And anyway he was too full. But his planning ahead this year along with other patients of the annual event and he thinks it would be a big thrill to ask the President to hand him a second helping.

And what a thrill these boys and girls who are fighting the after-effects of infantile paralysis get out of the annual Thanksgiving visit of President Roosevelt!

Too Excited To Talk

"Last year I was so excited I couldn't even move or talk," said Barbara Bodsky, 11, of Newark, N. J. And Barbara's eyes fairly gleamed when she told about it even it was in bed with a cold.

But you can't guess what gave Peter Woodbury, 9, of Bedford, N. H., his biggest moment while eating with the President and Mrs. Roosevelt. His ice cream was frozen too solid and it slid off his plate when he attempted to dip his spoon into it. "Mrs. Roosevelt helped me get it back," said Peter, "and was I thrilled over that."

Little Virginia Bragg of Nashville, Tenn., is eagerly looking forward to Mr. Roosevelt's visit again this year. She couldn't name any one outstanding thing about his trip last Thanksgiving, because, she said, "It was just one big thrill for me."

"This year though," Virginia added, "I'm going to get his autograph. I missed out on it last time."

Speaking of getting autographs, that's one of the best things the Warm Springs patients do. Billy Prenzell outwitted the Secret Service last Thanksgiving to get President Roosevelt's. At least, that's what he says.

"When President Roosevelt drove up to Georgia Hall in his car, I started to get him to sign my book," related Billy. "One of the secret service men stopped me, but I told him the President was calling him. When he turned around to see, I rushed over to the President and he signed for me before the Secret Service man knew it."

The Thanksgiving program arranged for President Roosevelt this year will be simple and informal. The dinner will include traditional turkey, pumpkin pie and plum pudding. The large Georgia Hall dining room, of one end of which will sit the President, will be decorated with autumn leaves. The lucky patients who will sit at Mr. Roosevelt's table will be chosen by lot.

A Smile On Every Face
After the patients are seated there's a dead silence as the arrival of the President is expectantly awaited. The moment the door opens there's a smile on every face and applause breaks out. A jovial greeting comes from Mr. Roosevelt and a few minutes later the feast is on. There's a sparkle in every eye as he starts carving.

And from then on there's not a dull moment as the President entertains those within earshot telling stories and relating his experiences.

Venison For Vets Thanksgiving Day

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 26.—(AP)—Patients at the Portland Veterans' hospital will have deer meat instead of turkey—or maybe both—for Thanksgiving day. A 35-pound doe dashed in front of a car on the Columbia river highway near Portland. It was so badly injured state police ordered it killed and the meat donated to the hospital.

OPP MINE LEASE ISSUE IN COURT

Points of law, involving the wording in the lease between John W. Opp and the Pacific States Mining company, were among the main issues aired in circuit court yesterday in the suit of Opp against the mining company for cancellation of the lease and repossession of the property. The lease was drawn by Attorney Herbert K. Hanna of this city.

Attorney A. E. Reames, as a defense witness, called out of turn yesterday, testified to the validity, and
