Array of Talent in Big Broadcast

With an array of talent recruited from stage, screen and radio, "The Big Broadcast of 1936" comes to the Craterian theater tomorrow for a three-day run as a Thanksgiving day attraction that should prove entertaining throughout.

In addition to the regular cast that appears in the fun-provoking comedy are famous personalities who contribute specialty numbers which form a background to the main theme, Bing Crosby, film and radio star.

FIREMEN'S BALL TO AID KIDDIES

Advance sale of tickets indicates an unusually large attendance at the annual firemen's ball at Oriental Gardens tomorrow night, Chief Roy Elliott said today.

Tickets have been selling fast for the dance which has been an annual social event since 1923. Mr. Elliott stated tickets may be obtained at the fire hall or at the Oriental Gardens tomorrow evening. George Dayton and his eight-piece orchestra will provide music for the dance.

Proceeds of the ball are to be used in repairing toys for needy children at Christmas, a charitable service performed by the fire department in the past few years. Broken playthings are taken by parents to fire headquarters where materials and labor for their reconditioning are provided out of funds from the dance, Chief Elliott explained.

Wheeler and Woolsey Rialto's Stars

Dust storms, rain storms, brain storms, snow storms and love storms sweep in merry disorder through the rollicking reels of the new Wheeler-Woolsey comedy, "The Rainmakers," coming to the Rialto theater tomorrow (Thanksgiving day) for a three-day run of jolly entertainment.

Racing swiftly through scenes of the recent mid-west drought, the story fixes itself in a California bean-growing community. Farmers see failure of their crops unless water can be brought to the parched fields.

Supporting Wheeler and Woolsey are many favorites, among them Burton Churchill, Dorothy Lee, George Meeker and Fredric Roland.
