ROGERS TEASED RFC CHIEF FOR LOAN ON HORSE

"How much can I borrow on my horse Blue Boy?" This whispered query was Will Rogers' first greeting to Wilson McCarthy, R.F.C. director, when the two met in Washington, D. C., soon after formation of the corporation. The story is among a legacy of anecdotes Harvey Couch of the RFC inherited from his long friendship with the cowboy humorist.

"While I was in Washington," Mr. Couch, president of the Arkansas Power and Light Co., related, "I saw Will several times. I remember one day when he called I was in the board room. My secretary brought him around and ushered him in without ceremony. Work ceased immediately. He said, 'You know, I had a terrible time finding the R.F.C. but I happened to see some fellows leaving the hotel with a worried expression on their faces and portfolios under their arms. I just followed them and they brought me to the right place.' He looked around the table and noticed Judge McCarthy.

"How's my old sheepherder friend?" Will asked.

"I told him," continued Couch, "that McCarthy was about to bust the corporation lending money on livestock in the west. With that he sidled around to the judge and asked in a low tone, 'How much can I borrow on my horse Blue Boy?'"

With the announcement that handicapped children will be the principal beneficiaries of the Will Rogers memorial fund, there was renewed interest last week in the opportunity of Will Rogers' friends to participate in a living, continuing memorial to perpetuate his friendliness to mankind.

Bring or send your subscription to this office. It is the aim of the commission to have millions of Will Rogers' friends participate with a contribution but the act itself that is important.

MEDFORD BOSCS FIND GOOD SALE NEW YORK CITY

Oregon-Washington Bosc pears in New York City are "going to town," according to a report from Prof. Henry Hartman, horticulturist of the Oregon-Washington Pear Bureau and Oregon State college, now headquartered in New York.

"We have made a great deal of headway with the ripening program here during recent weeks and I feel certain that the work will take care of itself from now on," writes Professor Hartman. "The bulk of the Bosc have been sold and the men here should be able to finish up the season. It is generally admitted that pears are the one bright spot in the fruit deal here at this time."

"Today we had 12 cars of Medford Bosc on the ripening barges. I am keeping a close check on the fruit as it appears in the fruit stores, and the quality of the fruit we are conditioning has never been better. It is almost impossible to find an inedible pear among this fruit. The prices being realized clearly indicates what the trade thinks of this fruit."

"Twice as many Bosc pears were sold the past two weeks as compared with the same period a year ago."

Professor Hartman left the northwest about the middle of October, to spend two months in the eastern markets, particularly New York City, to supervise the ripening of Oregon-Washington pears, and assist in the promotional work conducted by the pear bureau. He will return to the northwest about December 15.

KILLING CONFESSED BY JEALOUS BARBER
PORTLAND, Ore., Dec. 2.—(AP)—Detectives John Colts and John Panken announced that Frank Labelle, 68, Jewell, Ore., barber, signed a confession that jealousy led him to shoot to death Mrs. Myrtle A. Service, 37.

When arrested shortly after the shooting Saturday Labelle intimated it was a suicide pact and he intended to kill himself. The shooting occurred in his room at a hotel where they registered as Mr. and Mrs. Fred Rot of Tacoma, Wash.

COURT RULES ON METHODIST DEBT

PORTLAND, Ore., Dec. 2.—(AP)—Federal Judge James Alger Fee ruled today the Oregon conference of the Methodist church was responsible for a $92,220 debt incurred for construction of the Wesley hospital at Marshfield.

The decision was represented by attorneys here as bearing definitely on the status of $3,000,000 defaulted Methodist church obligations throughout the country.

The trial of the case was held a year ago. The plaintiff was the St. Louis Union Trust company, trustee of bondholders. The suit was one of a series in the United States.

In the Marshfield case the court held the debt was contracted by the church officers and later ratified at the annual meeting, and that this constituted a binding obligation on the conference.

FELDMAN AGENT FOR WHITE, NOT SINGER

Through an error in Sunday's Mail Tribune it was stated that the E. J. Feldman store handles Singer sewing machines. This firm has the agency for the White machines for which it has been representative in southern Oregon for many years.

The Singer sewing machine dealer in Medford is W. H. Klatt at 3 North Bartlett street.

Christmas Turkey Buying Under Way

PORTLAND, Dec. 2.—(AP)—Turkey buying for Christmas shipments to the east has started in Oregon and loading probably will start within two days. Although the price has not been announced, some trade leaders here suggested today that 24 cents for No. 1 toms, and 25 cents for hens of the same quality would be right.

Award Contract
EUGENE, Ore., Dec. 2.—(AP)—The Oakridge city council awarded Slater & Co., of Salem the contract to build the new Oakridge water works. Work on the $46,519.24 project is to start before December 15.

ELECTRIC DEVICE MEASURES HEALTH

LONDON.—(UP)—Inventions ranging from a pair of spring braces to an invisible ray for level crossings were on view at the international exhibition of inventions, organized by the Institute of Patentees and held at the Central hall, Westminster.

One machine, described as an aurograph, records the state of health. It measures human magnetism and is the invention of Major Raymond Phillips. When a person goes near it a needle flickers. If the person is in good health, it swings violently, but if the person is feeling seedy or nervous, the needle flickers only feebly. At the same time a line is traced on a moving tape. In that case, too, if the person is in good health, a strong steady line is recorded, but if it is unwell the line is broken.

"It would appear," Major Phillips explained, "that everybody is surrounded by a magnetic field, and this instrument records the strength of the magnetism. Some sensitive people say they can see the magnetic field in the form of an aura of varying color. If a person is well, the color is bright, and, conversely, if the person is not well, the color is patchy. That may explain why the needle swings more violently in the case of a healthy person."

PORTLAND AUTO TOLL DECREASED IN YEAR

PORTLAND, Ore., Dec. 2.—Traffic accident deaths in Portland decreased 23 per cent for the police year ending December 1, Police Captain Fred M. West announced today.

The toll was 84 compared with the 1933-34 all-time high of 83 deaths.

"Next year our goal is a perfect year," Captain West said. "We intend to keep the 'Let's Quit Killing' campaign continuously in drivers' minds."
