DIVISION LEADERS OF KIWANIS CLUB HERE FOR CONFAB

Divisional officers of the Pacific Northwest District Kiwanis International, Division 10, were guests of honor at the regular weekly luncheon of the local chapter at the Hotel Medford today, preceding the school for club officers, to be conducted this afternoon by Lieutenant Governor Dr. Edward E. Gray of Bend.

Dr. LeRoy C. Jensen, Medford physician, entertained the Medford Kiwanians and visitors from Bend, Eugene, Roseburg, North Bend and Klamath Falls with comments on Klamath life, based upon a two months visit he made in that country last year.

Dr. Jensen made many amusing and instructive remarks concerning the present status of the Russians, saying that the average worker on relief in this country is far better off than the middle-class Russian. He described the splendor of those once-great cities, Leningrad and Moscow, and spoke of the rigid restrictions placed upon the Russian laborer. His talk was very well received.

Visitors at the meeting were Dr. E. Gray, Carroll Akers, Walter Rydell and Carl B. Neal of Bend; Harry E. Raney and Clifton Day of North Bend; Clarence M. Urey, A. E. Roberts and Cecil F. Ristow of Eugene; C. A. Edwards, Thomas Parkinson, Dr. E. J. Wainwright (lieutenant governor-elect) and Paul E. Geddes of Roseburg; and Albert Veatch, Ray Bigler, Oscar Feyton and Dr. Larson of Klamath Falls.

A full program was scheduled for this afternoon, with Dr. Gray presiding. Kiwanis instructions covering nearly every phase of official work was introduced, with Tom Parkinson, president-elect of the Bend club; Albert Veatch, president-elect of the Klamath Falls club; Paul Geddes, secretary of the Roseburg club; Rev. Charles A. Edwards, of the Bend club; Cecil Ristow, president-elect of the Eugene club; Guy Mauney, president-elect of the North Bend club, and Dr. E. J. Wainwright of Roseburg, lieutenant governor-elect.

Seals may also be obtained at the Chamber of Commerce, as few or as many as the purchaser desires. As Christmas packages start going and coming through the mails, it is brought to the attention of senders that Christmas tuberculosis seals are as decorative as any that may be found, and possess the added virtue of giving to those using them the knowledge that they are helping in one of the greatest of modern humanitarian crusades.

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—(AP)—The Amateur Athletic Union of the United States emerged today from the bitterest battle of its 47 year history, on record as supporting full American participation in the 1936 Olympic games in Germany, but with the war by no means ended.

Although irrevocably pledged to go through with the American Olympic program, the A.A.U. nevertheless remained split wide open, stirred by religious as well as racial controversy. It threatens to curtail sharply this country's part in the eleventh Olympiad.

Proof was promptly forthcoming that neither crutcher's guns nor balloons killed off the main issue yesterday, when the closing session of the A.A.U. convention turned down 54 1/2 to 55 1/2 a compromise proposal to send a fact finding commission of three men to Germany before going ahead with American plans to compete.

Jack Holt In Rialto Thriller

The thrilling screen play dealing with aviation and love in South America, "Storm Over The Andes," starts a three day run tomorrow at the Rialto theatre with Jack Holt in the starring role. The story tells the adventures of an American soldier of fortune who joins the air corps of one of the fighting countries as a combat pilot. Colorful highlights of the story include a gay fiesta in a South American city; the straining of airports at the front; several air battles; the blasting of munitions dumps, and some spectacular flying between veteran aviators.

Holt saves his commanding officer, brings down a giant bomber, captures the ace of the enemy air forces and does several other hair-raising and thrilling stunts. "Storm Over The Andes" is the first picture made showing a gay fiesta in a South American city; the straining of airports at the front; several air battles; the blasting of munitions dumps, and some spectacular flying between veteran aviators.

MONA BARRIE, ANTONIO MORENO and GRANT WITHERS are also in the cast.

Gary Cooper With Ann Harding Cast In Craterian Hit

With the filming of George Du Maurier's immortal love masterpiece, "Peter Ibbetson," which opened at the Craterian theatre yesterday, Gary Cooper, unquestionably the star of the piece in name as well as fact, accomplished something in the nature of a personal triumph in his noteworthy characterization of the title role. Cooper reveals himself possessed of talents that, until now, have had no chance or particular medium of expression.

Cast as the tragic figure, the Duchess of Towers, Ann Harding also covers herself with glory in a difficult role. The blonde actress lends the proper touch of distinction and dignity, at the same time giving her part the aura of femininity and sense of old-fashioned romance it requires.

Set in the romantic period of the early Victorian era, Dickie Moore and Virginia Weldier representing Cooper and Miss Harding, respectively, as children, are next-door playmates in Paris. Their childhood friendship is cut short when, Dickie, left an orphan, is taken to London by his uncle, Douglas Dumbrell, to be educated. Years later, their paths cross again in a curious way.

Cooper, an ambitious young architect, is sent to an estate owned by John Halliday, to design some new racing stables. Fate throws the beloved "Mimsey" of his youthful days in his way as Halliday's wife. Scarcely has their romance begun to bud, and they have tasted their first happiness together when Halliday, the jealous husband, threatens to shoot Cooper, and in the ensuing argument, is himself accidentally killed. Cooper is subsequently sentenced to life in prison.

From this point on, their lives become a dream fantasy in which each jolts the other in a beautiful, unfulfilling love that covers the span of a lifetime, though prison walls are the physical, earthy barrier which separates them. Their moments together, in their dream world are especially heart-stirring ones, tragic but skillfully blended with faith, tenderness and romance. The transition from the real to the dream realm is adeptly managed.

TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY PHONE Darby Fruit Company for Comice pears, packed in half boxes. An ideal Christmas gift.

NEW YORKER HAS BOOST FOR PEARS Most citizens of the Rogue River valley think of pears either as merely products of an important local industry or else as an all-too-common and uninteresting fruit. But it appears that smart New Yorkers and easterners have very different ideas. In the Nov. 30 issue of The New Yorker, a section on Christmas gift suggestions includes a division on "Food From Back Home," and here is listed, among rare and delicious holiday gift foods of all kinds from all parts of the United States, the pear.

Quoting The New Yorker: "The Bear Creek Orchards, Medford, Oregon, send express paid, ten pound boxes of Comice pears. ... Very fine, but like all such fruit, they should be laid down for a while to mellow."
