ACTION AGAINST BONNEY'S GRILL CALLED RACKET

Action of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers and Leo Peist, Inc. in bringing a $500 equity suit against Frank W. Bonney is described as a "racket" and a conspiracy to violate the Sherman anti-trust law in an answer to the complaint on file today in federal court in Portland. The answer was filed by H. B. Duncan, attorney for Mr. Bonney. Date of trial will not be set until spring.

Suit was filed some time ago by the society and the music publishing house asking for $250 damages on each of two counts. The plaintiffs alleged that on August 31, "Down the River of Golden Dreams" and "Wabash Blues" were performed at Bonney's Grill, restaurant north of Gold Hill, without permission of the composer or publisher, the repetitions being an infringement of copyright. To play the music of society members legally, Bonney's Grill must pay an annual fee of $99 under contract, it was alleged.

A new exhibit of Medford Comice pears in the Jackson County Chamber of Commerce was attracting considerable attention today. The display contains various boxes of the fruit prepared for the Christmas holidays.

The exhibit was arranged by the Bear Creek Orchard, independent firm owned by David and Harry Rosenberg. In the display are two silver trophies won by the Bear Creek concern for excellence of fruit at Jackson county fairs.

Center of the display is a fuzzy teddy-bear, company symbol, holding a big Comice pear. The bear's mouth opens and closes and its eyes move with an expression of delight as they behold the luscious pear.

DEMOCRATIC SPLIT HOPE OF G. O. P. TO OUT NEW DEALERS

Appealing to "Jeffersonian Democrats" for aid, the resolution continued: "We ask this aid and cooperation not only in the coming election and in the campaign preceding it, but also after the victory is won and during the trying times that will follow when present conditions are being corrected and the nation is being brought back to government under the constitution."

In some quarters there was a disposition to regard this last sentence as an inferential promise that Democratic aid in beating the New Deal would not be forgotten after the election. For example, this was the interpretation placed upon it by the Washington Post.

Inverson versus Mallon

To the Editor:

Paul Mallon has at last come out with what I have been hoping he would do, and that is to come out with figures trying to prove that the Townsend Plan is all wet.

I had to laugh when I read his articles and will now prove by his own figures that he is away off the mark.

To begin with he is basing his present article on what the Townsend plan went through in its first stage of development (and by that mentioned as a possible candidate for the presidential nomination, took the view today that the "old guard" had suffered a setback in a contest at yesterday's committee meeting.

Forces led by Charles D. Hilles, New York committee man, sought to relax a rule under which states which went Republican at the last preceding presidential election get a "bonus" of three extra delegates at the next convention.

Only six states went Republican in 1932, but the Hilles group wanted to give the bonuses to states which went Republican in 1924, 1928 or 1932. (Borah states voted Republican in 1928).

John Hamilton, youthful Kansas committeeman, opposed this, and it was turned down, 62 to 34. Afterward Ezra Whitla, Idaho committeeman and friend of Borah, said:

"This gives Borah a chance in the convention. It will prevent the old guard from manipulating the convention."

remark let me explain the developments of the plan. 1st—The primary stage in which it was an Utopian idea without being analyzed for its practicability and in which we indulged in fantastic figures; 2nd—The first McGroarty bill, in which we entered politics; 3rd—The revised McGroarty bill, in which the plan was made practical and 4th—The political party development, which we are just entering, and consequently Mr. Mallon is over a year behind.

Mr. Mallon indulges in figures purporting to show what Townsend claimed as a transactions turnover and ends by stating that the actual figures would be 1200 billion dollars, well, 1200 billion dollars is what Townsend always did claim.

And that the amount claimed as a tax would have been 20 billion, which was about correct in its primary development.

Then he goes on to state that the actual amount that could be raised, basing on 1934 turnover, would be 9 billion. Townsend claimed 8 billion for this. Now in the next step Mr. Mallon makes a big mistake as he claims this would be divided among 11 million people when as a fact the Townsend figures were 7 or 8 million and as it has actually developed later possibly not over 4 million would claim it to start with and that would come very near to the $200 per month mark.

If Mr. Mallon would base his studies on the revised McGroarty bill he would find that nobody really knows how much the transactions tax would raise nor how many would claim it, and that a man's present income would be deducted from the amount allotted him. This bill divides up what is raised among those who qualify for it and it might be $50 or $150 (nobody knows). That is based on present stagnant condition of business, but he well assured that just the minute this plan is adopted business would increase by leaps and bounds.

Mr. Mallon also indulges in the big-a-bow of the multiplied tax on articles. Please bear in mind that every one of the taxes on an article, except the last one, is on raw material and not on the finished product and that a 2 percent tax on the raw material going into an article is not going to affect the consumer price to any great extent.

DOGS KILLING SHEEP ON BROCKWAY PLACE

Dogs are again bothering sheep in the Stewart avenue district, according to Mrs. A. E. Brockway, who reported late yesterday that one sheep was killed and another badly bitten about 9 a. m. Sunday.

The marauders were identified as a collie-colored bob-tailed animal of medium size and a smaller black dog. Shots were fired at them but because of the existing fog it was impossible to get in a good shot, Mrs. Brockway said.
