Murder Mystery Hit Here Thursday

Just supposing you went to a progressive party last night where practically every course was of liquid form—the jiggle water type of liquid which invariably causes one to remark the next morning: "How did I get home?" And while you're supposing just suppose somebody was murdered some time during the course of the evening. What would you do? Would you be able to give the police any help in the solution of the crime? And what if the little you did remember not only incriminated your friends but yourself as well? Would you be willing to testify?

This is exactly what happens in "Remember Last Night" coming tomorrow to the Craterian theater with Edward Arnold heading an impressive cast.

Arnold plays the role of a detective who is finally called in by a young Long Island society couple who discovered one of their friends had been murdered some time during the course of a wild party to celebrate the fact they have been married for six months.

Guns popping, knives flashing through the air, dancing and stolen kisses at a murder masquerade, kidnap threats written in Greek, false clues, bouncing checks and horrid hangovers are the only things on which the detective has to base his conclusions and bring the murderer to justice. Included in the cast are Constance Cummings, Sally Eilers, Robert Young, Robert Armstrong, Gregory Ratoff, Reginald Denny, Louise Henry, Jack LaRue, George Moser, Ed Brophy and Monroe Owsley.

ELKS YULE PARTY SET FOR 7 SHARP

The annual Elks Christmas tree celebration will start at the fraternity's temple tomorrow night promptly at 7 o'clock, it was announced today. In order to complete the long program of entertainment, the celebration must start on time, officials stated in issuing a special plea that all members and their guests be at the temple at 7 o'clock sharp.

Forty dozen big crabs from northern waters arrived today for part of the dinner to be served free to all attending. Free beer also will be served at the dinner and again during the evening at the Christmas tree. A gala program of entertainment has been arranged.

Proceeds are to be used in distributing Christmas baskets among needy families. It was anticipated today that Santa Claus' celebration will be the most successful held here in recent years.

Letter to Santa AUSTIN, Minn., Dec. 18.—(AP)—Eight-year-old Barbara Lamping appealed to Santa Claus: "I would like a fountain pen. Mother would like a waffle iron and daddy a bullet proof vest. 'Daddy' is a highway patrolman.
