BOY IS PREPARED FOR RING CAREER BY MOTHER OF 14

LONDON (UP) - Besides scrubbing around her home and cooking for her 14 children, a frail little woman has taken over the job of sparring partner for her 14-year-old son, Johnny, a budding prizefighter. Johnny Hays, who fought a draw in his first appearance in the ring, wants to be lightweight champion of the world but the family can't afford a trainer.
"We're a boxing family," said Mrs. Hays, after sparring a few rounds with the rugged youngster. "My husband took to the sport while he was with the army in India. "That made me interested, too. I learned a lot from him, from the newspaper reports of big fights and from watching the good matches whenever I could."
Johnny's father lost a leg in the World War and his wooden leg makes so much noise on the wooden floor when he shadow boxes that he usually sits in a wooden chair when he boxes on "Johnny."
"But he gets tired quickly; then I step in and give Johnny a round or two," Mrs. Hays said. "I roll up my sleeves and we go at it hammer and tongs. If he isn't hitting out I say, 'come on, Johnny, harder.' Then I say, 'duck, or feint or side-step.' "Before I completely exhaust him, I usually send him off down the road for a canter. Then he's ready for a real man's meal."

Coming Thursday

Shirley Temple's new picture, "The Little Rebel," comes Thursday to the Craterian theater to charm the little star's many fans with what is said to be the diminutive player's finest role to date. Shirley plays the daughter of a southern officer during the Civil War and uses her wiles on the Union men to help out her daddy, even going to see President Lincoln for his sake. The supporting cast includes John Boles, Karen Morley, Jack Holt and Bill Robinson with whom Shirley sings and dances.

Lawrence Tibbett Delights Audience Craterian Picture

The magic of great song is the principal attraction at the Craterian theater, where Lawrence Tibbett is currently starring in "Metropolitan," the bright and charming romance of a young singer.
Pictured with sympathy, vigor and an abundance of sparkling comedy, "Metropolitan" traces Tibbett's career as a young singer who can brook no delay, launches out on the world on his own, meets discouragement, disappointment, romance and, at last - recognition.
He trails across that of Virginia Bruce, and there is affection between them immediately. But because Alice Brady, who controls the money in their operatic company, is a jealous fond of him, they must conceal their affection.
Between plucking Alice Brady and attending to the wild vagaries of George Marion, Sr., the orchestral conductor, Tibbett has his work cut out for him. When at last, Alice Brady deserts the company all his anguish seems to have gone for nothing. But ingenuity and courage solves the problem, and the climax presents Tibbett as the hero of the evening, wildly applauded after his sensational debut.
In the course of the action, Tibbett sings selections from "Pagliacci," "Carmen" and "The Barber of Seville," as well as a number of popular compositions.
In magnificent voice throughout, Tibbett reveals new possibilities as a romantic actor in "Metropolitan."
Miss Bruce is charming and lovely in the romantic lead. Miss Brady still is one of the most effective comedienne the screen boasts.
In the supporting roles, Cesar Romero, Thurston Hall and Lulu Albert are outstanding.

POSTAL EMPLOYEES WORK FEVERISHLY ON HOLIDAY MAIL

Augmented by 11 extra carriers, the postoffice staff was working feverishly today in sorting, distributing and delivering Christmas mail. Huge stacks of gift packages were quickly routed this morning and by noon the sorting room was again piled high with mail arriving this morning.
The staff worked quickly and efficiently under the direction of C. M. Houston, superintendent of mails, who has had such experience in several other cities, including Portland and Des Moines. His managing of the traffic kept the heavy volume of mail moving swiftly.
The office staff worked until 1 o'clock this morning in sorting Sunday's mail for early delivery today. Five extra trucks are now being used in mail deliveries. The extra help and facilities are the largest required at the postoffice in years. Postmaster Frank DeSouza said.
Carriers are to work tomorrow night until the Christmas mail is cleaned up and Mr. DeSouza said again today that porch lights be left on so that house numbers may be seen readily. He also urged that some one remain at home to receive packages as insured and registered mail may not be left unattended. A personal delivery is made.
The public, Mr. DeSouza said, has cooperated with postal employees this year better than ever before and as a result packages are arriving in excellent condition. Very few improperly wrapped parcels have been noted, he stated.

NOVEL ACCIDENTS SHOWN IN REPORT ADVISING CAUTION

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UP) - A cross-section of Pennsylvania's industrial accident reports of recent months discloses some unusual mishaps.
Cats, snakes, spiders, cows, turtles, dogs and horses played the leading roles in some of the unusual accidents reported to the state department of labor and industry, according to Ralph M. Bashore, head of the department.
To emphasize the importance of employee and employer exercising "care at all times and in all circumstances," Bashore cited a few "unusual accidents," as follows:
A West Homestead employer, who had a warm spot for cats, suffered a badly lacerated hand while removing his pet feline's head from a salmon can in which it had become wedged.
A Philadelphia fireman who tripped over a cat and fell from the first floor to the basement, suffering cerebral concussion and contusions.
A Philadelphia restaurant worker who was badly snapped by a turtle before he started making soup.
A Dauphin county worker who was bitten by a snake when he lifted a stone.
Another unusual mishap was a Scranton window cleaner who was badly cut when a window knocked his arm against his pocket in which he carried several razor blades. The razor blades were part of his equipment, used for scraping stickers and posters from windows.
Dentists, too, are not immune from accidents. In Philadelphia, a dentist suffered a badly blackened eye when a tooth he extracted slipped from the forceps and struck him in the eye.
"These are some unusual accidents," Bashore said. "I cite them to bring out the great need of care at all times and in all circumstances so that by cooperation we may further reduce the number of industrial accidents in Pennsylvania."
