

WORK INSURANCE EXPECTED START WITH NEW YEAR

Government Approval of Oregon's Law Expected Next Week—Employers of 4 or More Must Aid

SALEM, Dec. 24.—(AP)—Administration of Oregon's new development compensation law was expected to start shortly after the first of the year, immediately upon approval of the federal government. T. Morris Dunne, member of the state accident commission, announced here today upon his return from Washington.

Dunne stated the government was expected to approve Oregon's law, which will be tied in with federal provisions, some time next week, and that Oregon's proposal would be the first approved in the United States. The act was passed by the special session of the legislature.

Collections from employers of four or more persons who have worked at least one day in 20 different weeks will be due April 1, after which the accident commission was expected to collect monthly. The federal government, which receives 10 per cent of the fund, will pay all administrative costs, Dunne said.

The employers must pay to the state nine-tenths of one percent of the payroll this next year, 1.8 per cent in 1937 and 2.7 per cent in 1938. Benefits will start for unemployed beginning in 1938. The government annually will collect 1 per cent, 2 per cent and 3 per cent respectively for these three years and the 1936 amount of collections will continue annually.

When benefits start, Dunne stated, the unemployed, after a three-week period, would receive half of their weekly payroll, with a maximum of $15 a week, for 15 weeks. These would be paid from the collection made.

The accident commission, which will administer the law here for the government, will first acquaint employers with the provisions of the law and make a survey of employers. After final approval is granted by the government, the administration setup will be made, he said.

ROYAL MAJESTY OF CHRIST TOLD BY WEATHERFORD

Fred M. Weatherford, pastor-evangelist, spoke Sunday at the Church of the Nazarene on "The Royal Majesty of Christ, the Infinite," drawing his text from Luke 2:10-11. His message follows in part:

"The word of the Lord is certain to accomplish the fulfillment of its purpose. We catch the first gleam of light announcing the coming of the Son of God in the Book of Genesis. Centuries roll by and the prophets, Isaiah caught anew the Lord's sure word of prophecy, telling of His coming. Again centuries passed in review until we hear the Angel of Annunciation say to Mary, in speaking of the new-born Lord, 'Thou shalt call his name Jesus; for He shall save His people from their sins.'

We are struck with the humbleness of the coming of this infant God gift; it was not only without social distinction, but below the par of the humblest peasant. The birth of Christ was virtually without human recognition. No respectable room was to be found, much less a formal reception by potentates, with a retinue of servants. Mary was compelled to deliver the Saviour of the world in a stable, unattended; so utterly alone were they that God had to send a reception committee and furnish a speaker to give the welcoming address, but who, indeed, of earth should explain to the world the interwaving of Divinity with humanity as reposed in the child wrapped in swaddling clothes and lying in a manger. Who could explain the embazoned signature of Emanuel inscribed on his visage and written in his word. So the angelic host from heaven presided that day and said to the world: 'I bring you good tidings of great joy which shall be to all people; for unto us is born this day in the city of David, a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord.'

"With his coming a new day dawned on the horizon of time for the world. Men who had sat and who sit today in the darkness of their own wisdom may now behold and experience the light of salvation from sin.

Notwithstanding His humble-deliverance and the temporal poverty of His earthly career, He was the most versatile expert of the ages. He never posed as a statesman, yet it was said of Him in His word, 'Of His kingdom there shall be no end.' He never asserted His medical credentials, yet He said to His leper patient, 'Be thou clean'; and he was restored whole. He never matched oratorical ability with Cicero or Demosthenes, yet it was said of Him, 'Never man spake like this man.' He never set in the world peace parliament halls, yet He is the Prince of Peace, and all peace originates in Him."

FALL PIG CROP WILL SHOW GAIN

WASHINGTON, Dec. 24.—(AP)—The agriculture department estimated that the 1935 fall pig crop would show a 30.6 percent increase over production in 1934.

The combined spring and fall crop of 1935 was estimated at 5 percent below that of 1934. The department said there is a prospective increase of 24 percent in the number of sows to farrow in the spring of 1936 over the small farrowing in the spring of this year. The number of pigs saved in the fall season of 1935, June 1 to December 1, was estimated at 20,272,000 head, an increase of 4,750,000 head or 30.6 percent over the number saved in the fall of 1934, and a decrease of 27 per cent from the average number saved from 1929 to 1933.
