personal friends, was going to dress similarly.

To Pose As Nobility
"Thelma was going to introduce me as the Duke of York, and Lorn Landdowne under that title, and pretend we actually were members of the British nobility visiting in Hollywood."

"Everything was all arranged. Thelma, I understood, had called Mrs. Ford the previous Wednesday and told her she was bringing a couple of guests whom she would not name."

"On Sunday, the day before Miss Todd was found, I called repeatedly and tried to get her. I never succeeded in locating her. The following day I read she had been found dead."

A report was prevalent that a police official telephoned one of the Hollywood movie studios after hearing York's story, and was assured the actor's standing would not be damaged.

Landdowne told the Associated Press York's story was true "in every detail."

Landdowne said his full name was "Lord Patrick Landdowne Finnington" and that he was former national wrestling association welterweight champion, and present middleweight and welterweight champion of England. He denied his real name was Wilbur Finran, or that he was born in Springfield, O.

The wrestler has appeared frequently in Hollywood and Los Angeles in the last year. He wears a monocle, and a cape.

Zasu Pitts Testifies
Zasu Pitts, actress-friend of Miss Todd, told newspapermen after her appearance in the grand jury's chambers she was asked the names of several men but could not identify any of them.

Previously Ida Lupino, also an actress, told investigators Miss Todd declared shortly before her death:

"I'm having a marvelous romance with a San Francisco businessman. A couple of years ago," said Miss Pitts, "I knew that Miss Todd was interested in someone 'up north,' but I don't know who it was."

Both Miss Pitts and her husband, Ed Woodall, actors' agent, were closeted with the jury, and the actress was called back for questioning.

Hop Dealers Sign For Cooperative

SALEM, Dec. 27.—(AP)—Frank Neham of Salem, secretary of the Hop Growers' organization committee in Oregon, announced that dealers representing approximately 61 percent of the hops grown in the state, had signed for the proposed cooperative organization for crop control.

The committee had set an 85 percent sign-up as the requirement before the new plan could be put into effect.

But Leon Blum, socialist leader, called on Laval to follow Sir Samuel Hoare, who resigned as Britain's foreign secretary, "into oblivion," as a penalty for the socialist-opposed peace plan which they formulated and which was later discarded.

Blum's savage attack on Laval called forth protests from rightist deputies, and an exchange of blows was narrowly prevented.

France, Laval told the chamber, has shown respect for the league of nations on which France's own safety from attack depends, by "loyal and strict" application of sanctions, "however painful."

His main anxiety, he said, was to avert a European war now and to assure aid for France under the league in case Germany ever attacked France.

Identify Remains Found In River

SALEM, Dec. 27.—(AP)—The dead body of a man found in Pudding river near Astoria November 29, has been identified as that of Curtis Pratt, 68, formerly of Oregon City.

Dr. L. E. Barrick, Marion county coroner, reported.

The identification was made by a daughter, Mrs. Delta Klotz of Oregon City, by means of a watch and knife found with the body.

"Nothing could be gained by such a debate," he said. "The Crusaders already have their minds made up against the plan."

SPORTS LEADERS TO WAGE WAR ON GRIDIRON DRUNKS

Drinking, Rowdyism, Vandalism Tend to Encourage Lawless Spirit Which Forced Lindbergh Away

By Jack Cuddy

(United Press Staff Correspondent)
NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—(UP)—American sports leaders today launched a drive to curb drunkenness, rowdyism and vandalism at college football games, warning that those evils tended to encourage the lawlessness and mob spirit which apparently caused Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and his family to seek refuge in a foreign land.

The "flacketers," the stepchild alumni and the Saturday hoodlums were flayed bitterly by several speakers at the 10th annual luncheon of the Sportsmanship Brotherhood. Then the speakers suggested two methods of combatting them: (1) an educational campaign, and (2) strong arm tactics to make them quit.

Play Non-College Fans
This luncheon cracked down on the "spectator problem" which probably will feature other meetings of the numerous sports governing or sports advising bodies which assemble in this city during Christmas week for their annual conclaves.

Undergraduate and alumni bottle fillers were reprimanded mildly for their lack of control at grid games, but it was the non-collegiate fans who received the most severe lashings—the chaps who never went to college but who spend "hoodlum dollars" to stage "Roman holidays" at football stadia.

Concerning these "step-sons of alma mater," the principal speaker, President William Mather Lewis of Lafayette college, pointed out, that "Just as long as we in the college admit a portion of the public to our games merely upon the payment of a stipulated admission price they are in exactly the same relative position as they would be in attendance upon any other paid performance, whether it be in a theater or Madison Square Garden."

Evils Increasing
Unfortunately, President Lewis emphasized, there is far more drinking and rowdyism at college football games than at any other sport or entertainment—and widely publicized gridiron events of the 1935 season indicated that these alcoholic evils are increasing on all fronts. He referred to the 12th man incident in the Princeton-Dartmouth game, and to other wild episodes in which spectators swarmed down onto the fields and tore down the goal posts before games were finished.

Instead of treating such incidents

TOWNSEND MEET SATURDAY NIGHT

National Townsend Plan Coordinator R. Z. Adams, from Washington, D. C., will be the principal speaker at an important club meeting at the Armory tomorrow at 7:30 p. m. State Manager Bunnell will speak at the meeting, one of his last public talks before being transferred to Washington.

Adams is to deliver a special message from Dr. Townsend himself, and a large crowd of Townsend enthusiasts is anticipated. In expectation of a large attendance the hall will be heated.

Frank X. Scherer, president of Townsend club No. 2 will preside at the meeting, to which everyone in southern Oregon has been invited. A special invitation has been extended those people who scoff at the plan and declare that it can not work. Townsend officials here have announced.

STATE COMMITTEE ALLOCATES RELIEF

PORTLAND, Dec. 27.—(AP)—The state emergency relief committee met here today to define policies, establish the amount of direct relief aid for indigents, and determine how much money shall be allocated to each county.

These questions were to be discussed at the afternoon meeting of the group. The morning session was spent largely in a survey of requirements of transient homes in Multnomah county where a large number of unemployed—mostly elderly men—need aid.

The committee voted to continue the subsistence garden program and the co-operative canning work. The federal surplus commodity administration volunteered to buy about 20,000 boxes of bulk apples for the state relief committee to distribute to indigents. The state and county committees will pay the expense of shipping.

TOBY MINDS MOTHER; WEARS WARM UNDIES

CHICAGO, Dec. 27.—(UP)—Toby Wing, blonde screen actress, dangled pink knitted panties before photographers in her hotel room today to prove that she wasn't kidding reporters at the train when she claimed she wore 'em. "Mama said it would be cold here and made me wear the pink knitted ones. Mama is always right," she explained.

EWANEE, Ill., Dec. 27.—(UP)—Too ill to go to work, and fearing a day's absence would cost him his job, Joseph Davis, 61, a factory worker, committed suicide with a razor today.

Among Ethiopia's plentiful birds are eagles, vultures, hawks, bustards, partridges, duck, teal, guinea-fowl, sand-grouse, curlews, woodcock, snipe, pigeons and swallows.

WESTFIR MILL IN FINANCIAL SHOALS

PORTLAND, Dec. 27.—(AP)—A foreclosure suit against the Western Lumber company at Westfir, Lane county, was filed in federal court here today by the Anglo-California National bank, acting as trustee for the bondholders of the lumber company.

The company operates a mill and has other property at Westfir. Lane county, and is unable to fully repay those who hold a total of $1,150,000 in bonds. A receivership was not requested and the company will continue to operate while the foreclosure suit is pending.

Portland Trade Takes Big Jump Over Last Year

PORTLAND, Dec. 27.—(AP)—Dun & Bradstreet said today Portland trade for the past two weeks averaged 18 per cent better than during the corresponding period last year.

The sensational influences did not greatly depress industrial activity here, the report said, this being well maintained throughout December with proportionately less unemployment than at any time during the past four years.

As college pranks by humorous comment, President Lewis suggested that newspapers and college authorities regard them as acts of lawlessness and build up public sentiment against them. He suggested that warning notices be published in football programs and displayed prominently on signs near stadia.

TOWNSEND ASKED TO DEFEND PLAN IN PUBLIC DEBATE

Inevitably would be financed. The cost would run between $19,000,000,000 and $24,000,000,000, to which must be added the undetermined expense of collection and administration."

The Townsend plan recently has assumed nationwide proportions and is expected to play a prominent role in the 1936 elections. Officials of the Townsend organization have said they will back a presidential nominee who will be unaffiliated with any political party.

EL CENTRO, Cal., Dec. 27.—(UP)—A third party candidate for president will be injected into the 1936 race unless one of the two major parties endorses the Townsend old age pension plan, its founder announced last night.

Speaking before several thousand followers on the close of a nationwide swing, Dr. F. E. Townsend said the "third party already is organized, and ready to move into the field with a candidate if we, the Republicans and Democrats do not intend to endorse our plan."

Dr. Townsend said he would not be the candidate. "I do not want to commit suicide," he said.

Younger Men Ready.
"There are younger and able men, all ready to take the leadership," he said.

Referring to the fruits of his national tour, during which he raised up the "third party situation," the 72-year-old physician remarked:

"We are already organizing in every state. We have gathered all the legal data that will be necessary to put a new party into operation. We will go on every state primary ticket."

Dr. Townsend refused to comment when the speaker, when Republicans and Democrats indicated their attitude toward the Townsend movement in national politics.

"They know what we want," he said briefly.

LAVAL EXPLAINS PEACE EFFORTS, FUTURE POLICIES

The premier's address was fairly well received by the radical socialist deputies, who hold the balance of power. Deputies of the right and center groups rose to their feet and cheered Laval.

But Leon Blum, socialist leader, called on Laval to follow Sir Samuel Hoare, who resigned as Britain's foreign secretary, "into oblivion," as a penalty for the socialist-opposed peace plan which they formulated and which was later discarded.
