

REPUBLICAN CHIEF BITTERLY REBUKES RADIO TALK PLAN

ent majority under the lash of the executive is prepared to break all precedents, as it has many times in the past, to carry out orders from the White House.

Overwrite Snell. "In my judgment, if you yield to this order, you are not properly performing the duties of the majority in maintaining the dignity and prerogatives of the house of representatives."

The agreement was reached, nevertheless.

The clerk announced certificates of election had been issued for four new members: Vermer W. Main (R. Mich.) succeeding Harry M. Kimball; William B. Barry (D. N. Y.) succeeding William F. Brunner; Edward W. Curley (D. N. Y.) succeeding Anthony S. Griffin and Edward W. Creal (D. Ky.) succeeding Cap R. Craden.

They were sworn in and took their seats amid applause.

Many Bills Introduced.

Numerous bills were introduced before the floor. Outstanding were those of the administration seeking some discretionary embargo powers for the president, and of the allied veterans' organizations for a compromise bonus payment plan.

Awaiting what President Roosevelt would have to say this evening, many of the legislators obviously were ready to go to the mat over whether the neutrality policy should be made mandatory by congress and whether or how to redress the veterans' compensation certificates.

Under the bill introduced by Chairman McReynolds of the house foreign affairs committee, the president could have discretion as to embargoes on war materials, but would be required to embargo actual war implements. Financial transactions with belligerent governments would be barred.

The chamber of commerce of the United States opened up against the compromise bonus bill, contending it would cost $1,277,000,000 more than congress originally intended. House members back of it went ahead just the same.

Long Disputes Loom

Deep and perhaps prolonged disputes appeared inevitable on both questions, this being a presidential election year.

Clockroom talk was quite as much about the supreme court and AAA. None gainsaid that, if the farm agency follows the way of NRA, the political future would be vitally affected.

Although the Roosevelt message tonight was expected to give his legislative program in broad outline, leaders inclined to place more importance on his budget to be forwarded Monday.

The treasury reported a $1,879,000,000 deficit at the end of 1935, compared with the $2,281,000,000 the president estimated it would reach for the entire fiscal year ending June 30.

In good spirits during a brief press conference, the president denied himself to callers except for the regular cabinet meeting. The 4,000 word message went to the printers after a final polishing. Then a relaxation period was scheduled, before the time to don his cutaway and striped trousers to go to the capitol.

Message Centers Interest

The nighttime scene there contrasted with convening of previous congresses. While many visitors were on hand, mostly feminine, the usual crowding was absent. The insistent demand for tickets to hear the president at 9 p. m. showed where popular interest lay.

Some republicans still frothed over the evening session, terming it "politics" to get a big radio audience. Democrats replied the public had a right to have the president talk at a time when most could hear.

Many members wondered what to wear at tonight's unusual session, some chose plain business suits, but others had semi-morning attire pressed because the president planned to wear a cutaway.

The front row desk where once sat Senator Huey P. Long bore the name of Blind Senator Gore of Oklahoma.

Long Not Forgotten

But Long was not forgotten. His name and that of Senator Schall, of Missouri, killed in an automobile accident in nearby Maryland, were included in resolutions for a memorial adjournment.

Out of respect to his colleague, Senator Overton, of Louisiana, put forward a brief resolution for recess soon after noon until the night session.

Similarly, Senator Shipstead, (F. L. Minn.), prepared a resolution in behalf of his late colleague.

Senator Trammell of Florida, in caucus and minority leader McCaskey of Oregon, in a blue business suit, were on hand early.

The veteran Carter Glass of Virginia, 78 years old tomorrow, and bewhiskered J. Hamilton Lewis of Illinois, followed.

Applaud Byrns

In the house, Speaker Byrns was welcomed with long applause and a standing greeting as he mounted the dais and let fall his gavel.

The chamber was approximately two-thirds filled. The galleries were not crowded, as the Rev. James Shera Montgomery gave the opening prayer.

In his prayer to the senate, while Vice-President Garner stood solemnly in curaway, the Rev. ZeBarney Phillips, Episcopal chaplain, prayed to God to help the president, the congress, the judiciary "to be masters of themselves, that they might be the servants of others, least the will to justice be overcome by the will to power."

Prays for Peace

He prayed for "peace among the nations of the world," to removal of all hatred.

The roll call showed 78 senators present.

Laughter swept the chamber when Senator Radcliffe of Maryland announced his colleague, Senator Tydings away on his honeymoon, was "unavoidably detained."

Shipstead then had the certificate of appointment of Schall's successor, Elmer A. Benson, farmer-laborer, read at the desk, after which Benson was administered the oath.

The vice-president named Senators Robinson of Arkansas, the majority leader, and McNary a committee to notify the president the senate was in session.

Senate Session Brief

The senate was in session only 20 minutes. A resolution for the joint session at 9 p. m., was approved without debate.

Striving tribute to Glass in connection with his birthday anniversary were paid by Robinson and Senator Borah (R. Idaho) just before the recess. The senate will not meet tomorrow.

Handshaking and backslapping delayed house proceedings.

Representative Bankhead (D. Ala.) the majority leader, was absent all last session because of illness, was applauded by Republicans and Democrats alike when he entered.

Representatives Virginia Henckes of Indiana and Edith Nourse Rogers of Massachusetts wore large shoulder coverings.

A couple of members had wide-eyed children on the floor with them.

LONGEST TUNNEL HOLED THROUGH

INDIO, Cal. Jan. 3.—(AP)—The longest tunnel of its circumference in the world was holed through Thursday.

Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, was among the officials who witnessed the blast carrying away the last barriers in the center of the 18-mile East Coachella tunnel of the metropolitan water district of southern California.

The tunnel, 150 miles east of Los Angeles, is one of the units of the $220,000,000 aqueduct project to bring Colorado river water to 13 southern California cities.

The tunnel is horseshoe-shaped, 18 feet in diameter, and cuts through one of the desert mountain ranges 15 miles north of here.

Applies for Enlistment — Dorsey Flaherty left last night for Portland to apply for enlistment in the United States navy.

fascism and communism.

Borah said no constitutional changes were needed at this time to permit social security and labor legislation. He emphasized he was not opposed to amending it when he believed that necessary.

In the article he quoted a "government official" as saying the country must look for centralization of leadership in the presidency not in congress or the supreme court.

He identified the official, in response to questions, as Blackwell Smith, who was general counsel of the old NRA and is now out of government service.

"Mussolini never stated the doctrine of fascism with greater boldness or greater clarity than it is here stated," Borah said in his article. "Centralization of leadership" we have a practical and impressive illustration of that now!

"Individual leadership has its place," he said, "but there is a higher leadership to which all individual leadership must be subordinated, and that is the leadership which comes from the combined heart and brain, and from the conscience and the soul of millions of intelligent and patriotic people."
