ROOSEVELT USING LASH OF FEAR IS HOOVER'S CHARGE

(Continued from Page One) He cited. The president said: 'I, the executive, established a new relationship between government and people.' They were on appeal from...

'The warning that the only thing to fear is fear' has daily practical reminders, as we witnessed for the first time in American history the administrative official using fear to coerce the common man.

Most Ominous Note. 'The most ominous note of all was the president's warning that the power he has assumed would be dangerous in other hands. In 34 months, he says, we have built up new instruments of public power. In the hands of the people's government, this power is wholesome and proper. It just happens that the ideal upon which our government was founded and hitherto conducted, is that it is dangerous to the people to have any man possess such power, or to allow any man to thus aspire to personal government instead of a government of laws.

Communications

Says It's Undemocratic. To the Editor: My conception of what is democratic seems to differ quite widely from yours. Your recent editorial shows convincingly that you interpret the collection of compulsory activity fees in institutions of higher learning to be democratic in theory. Democracy pertains to government; government, to the administration of public affairs. While it is conceded that what entertainment is made available to the public is a matter of mutual interest, I hold that what entertainment is taken advantage of by the individual is not of public concern. Nor do I believe that the government should force its constituency to contribute to diversions in which it has no interest or in which it can take no part. Yet forcing students to pay an activity fee is essentially that.

If the federal government were to order everyone to buy a season ticket from a private company, admitting them to all entertainment presented in the Rose Bowl, would we do it? Would it be democratic? No! The courts would restrain its enforcement. The levy on students is exactly parallel in application. By restricting the matter, we have carried it to the high court, the electorate. The state legislature has authorized the higher board of education to levy the activity fee; the board says the fee should be levied and announces it is ready to levy it. The board will select a private corporation (Associates of Students) to furnish the entertainment. The corporation has no connection with the officers of the education system except that it is designated by them and will enjoy their patronage only insofar as they keep in the good graces of the officers.

Among programs presented are: football, basketball, baseball, track, tennis, golf, swimming, publications, dancing, concerts, lectures, etc. Many students do not participate in these activities; some do not care to, others have handicaps preventing them from participating, and still others have not sufficient time. Those who do not participate receive a questionable return; though some activities are undoubtedly beneficial. There are hundreds of students who are hard pressed for money—those who work their way through college or who are supported by the sacrifices of their families. To these students activity fees are an unnecessary (even if desirable) burden. It is not democratic to force those who do not take part (because of inability to do so from the reasons above assigned) to pay for entertainment enjoyed by students with more leisure.

Holiday Vacationists And Students Return

This week-end saw the last of holiday visitors to Medford homes returning to their own homes, and the homecoming of Medford residents who spent all or part of the mid-winter vacation out of town.

Farewells have been bidden by fond parents to those students who lingered until the last minute. Miss Mary Hayes left this week-end to resume studies at the University of Washington, as did also Miss Virginia Pica. Miss Luella Corn and Miss Phyllis Puythian left yesterday for Williamette, where they are students.

Returning from vacations this morning were Mrs. Esther Church Leakey who spent the past two weeks in Portland, and Miss Annie Meade Watkins, who vacationed in the south. Also returning today were Mr. and Mrs. William Hammett, guests of friends in San Francisco over New Year's.

Aneth-Glass Wedding Wednesday. Miss Mildred Aneth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Temmar Aneth of this city, became the bride of Hugh Glass at the home of Rev. W. H. Eaton at two o'clock New Year's day.

The bride was attired in an ankle-length gown of Alice blue. Attendants for the couple were Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Aneth, seated at the quiet ceremony were Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Aneth and daughter, Betty Lou.

A. E. Reames Have Recent Guests. A few friends were invited to tea Saturday afternoon by Mrs. A. E. Reames, to meet Mr. and Mrs. Alfred H. Shroff, who stopped in Medford en route to their home in Eugene from San Francisco.

Mr. Shroff is a noted artist, and recently completed exhibiting in the East-West galleries in San Francisco. The Shroffs continued to their home Saturday evening.

Young People Dance Friday. The Colony club was the scene Friday evening of a small dancing party arranged by Mrs. Donald S. Clark for her daughter, Miss Nancy Clark. About thirty guests were invited. This was one of the last of holiday affairs before many of the young people returned to their studies at various schools.

New Officers To Take Chairs. Mrs. Frank Henspeter, of Jacksonville, will be hostess to the H. E. C. club Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock at her home. As this is the first meeting of the year, new officers will take their chairs. All members are urged to attend.

Miss Farrell Hostess Saturday. Miss Patricia Farrell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank P. Farrell, will be hostess at luncheon at the Medford hotel Saturday afternoon, the occasion being observance of her birthday. After luncheon, the eight guests and the hostess made up a theater party.

GRAND JURY WILL CLEAR CARRYOVER

The present grand jury, with some unfinished business on hand, is expected to be called between now and February 24, the date for calling of the next circuit court term, and a few grand jury, the district attorney reported today. The district attorney desires to clean up all matters carried over from last year, if possible, before a new body is drawn.

The current grand jury may be called upon to inquire into the suicide of Miles Randall, in his county jail cell, wherein it is alleged poison was smuggled to him, and the death of George Hubbard, Elk Creek district farmer, found dead in his home last November. Hubbard's death is attributed to the accidental discharge of a pistol he was cleaning, but baffling points are still under official investigation.

John Anderson, farmer, of the Central Point district, a member of the present grand jury, who announced he would move to Salem, necessitating the drawing of a name from the regular jury list to fill his place, has informed the district attorney his plans have been altered, and he will be able to serve.

MODERN MUSIC FOR DREAMLAND DANCES. Modern music and bargain prices will open the new policy at the regular Wednesday night dance at Dead Dyme, manager of the hall. Bud Dyme's jazz band will play the latest dance hits.
