FARM LEADERS MEETING CALLED

News Behind The News
 By Paul Mallon
 Copyright, 1936, by Paul Mallon
 WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—President Roosevelt said in his budget message that he was $1,294,000,000 off in his budget last year. He overestimated his expenditures by $783,000,000 and underestimated his receipts by $419,000,000.

Most competent authorities here believe the current figures are even less indicative of the government's financial position than the figures reported last year. Therein lies the story behind current natural budgeting. It is that no natural budget any more, or a real budget any more, or a revenue prevents it.

The Roosevelt technique of the past two years has been recognized by all budgeters. The president has asked congress for far more money than he intended to spend. Instead he had only one purpose. If the economic bottom fell out again, he wanted to be in a position to cut plenty of money.

However, he got authority while he was at it to spend the leftover amounts in ensuing years.

Thus, Mr. Roosevelt now is still spending money appropriated by congress three years ago and carried in the budget then. Thus, he will spend next year whatever is left from last year's four billion, and the three billion of the previous year.

These leftover amounts are authorizations, not money. If utilized, the treasury must go out and borrow the money for them.

Hence, the relationship between the expenditures, debt and deficit is as much a matter of executive leeway as of budgetary determination.

Saddest untold tale of the old year is the one about the building materials firm seeking government contracts.

The firm was wanted to the ways of Washington. It went to get a good contact man here in the name of a prominent democratic lawyer was suggested. Firm members came here, called the lawyer on the telephone, went to see him. They agreed to aid them in getting the contracts.

AAA SUBSTITUTE HOPE OF WALLACE IN ISSUING CALL

January 10 and 11 Set for Discussion of Future Program—Congress Leaders Hope for New Measures

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—(AP)—The treasury tonight advised congressional leaders of the nation that all AAA checks outstanding are good and may be cashed.

Secretary Wallace issued the call for January 10 and 11 after the ponderous AAA field machinery was brought to a full stop by the 6 to 3 supreme court decision which demolished the AAA.

Wallace's brief announcement, first formal comment on the supreme court's decision: "Leaders of farm organizations, and other agricultural spokesmen from different parts of the country were invited to Washington by Secretary Wallace today to discuss plans for agriculture in the light of the supreme court's decision in the Hoosac Mills case."

Secretary Wallace and executive of national farm organizations. It is to be held in Washington on Friday and Saturday, Jan. 10 and 11.

AAA officials declined to amplify the statement.

Already a farm meeting had been planned for next week.

Sponsors of the meeting said 3,000,000 farmers will be represented by leaders of the American Farm Bureau Federation, the National Grange, the National Cooperative Union, the Farmers' National Grain Corporation and the American Agricultural Editors association, coming to meet as the National Agricultural conference.

While many New Dealers worried over how much more of President Roosevelt's program was as good as dead through the same supreme court reasoning that leveled AAA, legislators interested in the farm problem were busy.

Farm Program Akin Chairman Jones (D-Tex.) of the house agriculture committee said an "effort should be made" to find "a constitutional method of putting all our citizens on an equal footing."

Representative Snell, the republican leader, said his party would seek to present a farm program.

The possibility of adding as much as $800,000,000 to the budget appropriation estimates to allow the government to meet existing contracts with farmers was seen by Chairman Buchanan (D-Tex.) of the house appropriations committee. The AAA had estimated $283,000,000 would be needed to meet performance up to yesterday. Buchanan said he thought the government was morally obligated to fulfill all contracts.

At the White House, President Roosevelt continued silent about the momentous 6 to 3 decision which tumbled his crop adjustment program. It was said the chief executive was not likely to comment at a later press conference on the decision which presents the problem of formulating an entirely new agricultural plan.

HEIRESS SUES MOTHER FOR $500,000

Ann Cooper Hewitt (left), 21-year-old heiress to millions, filed suit in San Francisco for $500,000 against her mother, the wealthy and socially prominent Mrs. Maryon Hewitt McCarter, charging her mother with having caused a sterilization operation to be performed on her in order not to lose the benefit of a $10,000,000 trust fund. (Associated Press Photos)

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 7.—(AP)—Police today entered the case of Ann Cooper Hewitt, 21, who sued her mother, Mrs. Maryon Hewitt McCarter, for $500,000 damages, to determine if an illegal operation was involved in the sterilization of the young heiress.

Mia Hewitt, daughter of the late Peter Cooper Hewitt, wealthy electrical inventor, charged her socially prominent mother with planning the operation so the mother would not lose the benefit of a $10,000,000 trust fund.

Captain Charles Dulles assigned Inspector George Engler to investigate and determine if a sterilization operation performed August 18, 1934, met the necessary legal requirements.

District Attorney Matthew Brady also delegated an assistant, August Forner, to aid the police.

Terms of the trust fund, established by Miss Hewitt's father, said the heiress should go to a child of her marriage, but should she die childless, then to the girl's mother.

The suit, filed yesterday in superior court here, alleged she believed her mother was undergoing an artificial operation August 18, 1934, 11 months before she became 21 years old. In fact, the complaint charged she was rendered barren.

Dr. Tilton E. Tillman and Samuel G. Boyd of San Francisco were named co-defendants and the operation described as an "assault."

In an interview with the newspaper, Miss Hewitt painted a dark and sordid picture of her home life. She was deprived of friends, of cloths, of a normal growth, she said. Her mother

J. P. MORGAN SAYS COMPANY FAVORED WARTIME ALLIES

Senate Investigators Told Banking House Turned Loose Loans to Allies When Wilson Consented

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—(AP)—J. P. Morgan told senate investigators today that his great banking house "turned loose" with loans to the allies in 1915 as soon as President Wilson consented to it.

Although contending German acts and not international finance pushed this country into the world war, he said the firm's sentiment from the beginning was with the allies.

Senator Vandenberg (R., Mich.) member of the senate committee questioning the famous financier, charged at one point that the early Morgan friendliness for the allies had "violated President Wilson's neutrality policy."

After hearing testimony that the Morgan company made no allied loans while the state department opposed such a step, Senator Clark (D., Mo.) asked:

"When the government changed its policy, you changed yours?"

"When the government turned itself loose, we turned ourselves loose," chuckled Morgan, puffing away at a huge pipe.

A capacity of his listeners, intensely so Morgan, two of his partners, George Whitney and Thomas W. Lamont, and Frank Vanderlip, wartime president of the National City bank, were questioned in a group. Committee members shot questions alternately at each.

The neutrality question was up to the government," Morgan said; "the bankers had nothing to do with it."

Vanderlip related, between puffs on a pipe almost as large as Morgan's (Continued on Page Three)

HALL MUST HANG FOR SLAYING OF TWO NEAR YREKA

FOLSOM PRISON, Cal., Jan. 7.—(AP)—George Hall, who has been in a cell in death row of Folsom prison almost three years, will be told today by Warden Court Smith that his appeal supreme court denied his appeal yesterday from a decision of the California appeals court refusing him a writ of habeas corpus.

Hall, alias George Manning, was convicted in Siskiyou county of having shot and killed State Highway Patrolman Stephen Kent and Lester Quigley. Kent had duped Quigley to aid him in the search for an automobile containing Hall, wanted on an abduction charge.

Kent and Quigley met Hall's speeding machine near Yreka and in an exchange of pistol shots both the highway patrolman and Quigley were killed.

Hall was being hunted for having abducted F. L. Ballinger, an American customs officer at Baline, Wash., and chaining him to a tree. After he was arrested in Yreka he was identified by Canadian officers as one of the men who had robbed a bank in Vancouver, B. C., in January, 1933.

Hall, in his appeal to the supreme court, used the recent lynching at Yreka of Clyde Johnson, alleged slayer of Chief of Police P. R. Daw of Dunsmuir, Siskiyou county, as proof that he was convicted in a "community dominated by the mob."

It was not known at the prison whether Hall's attorney will file another legal action in the state supreme court in an effort to save his client from the gallows.

Mr. Hall returned today to Anaheim, but will again be in Medford about February 1. Wm. P. Hall and his family will be permanently located here after April 1. Mr. and Mrs. Ernst are leaving within the next few days for an extended vacation in southern California, but state they will return in the spring and make their home in southern Oregon, no doubt on the banks of the Rogue.
