HOLLIS RETAINS MEANIE TITLE BY FLOPPING CLEET

Toughly Cleet of New York, hailed as one of primitive passions and bulging muscles, just wasn't tough enough in his match last night with Ken Hollis, the original bad badman, and he took a terrific lacing from the Arkansas man, losing two falls. The opening fall went to Hollis on body slams and a body pin, after the two had slugged and kicked around the ring several times, Hollis making hotly for the ropes every time the going got stiff.

He was too much for the New Yorker, however, and after Cleet had come back to take the second fall with body slams, Hollis exhibited all his best brutality and took the deciding fall. Cleet had Hollis tied up on the ropes when a blow to his stomach loosened the hold and the Arkansas wrestler pinned him with a body press.

The big thrill of the evening was the winning of the middle main event by Frankie Peck over best Shinuchi Shikuma, Japanese belt jiu jitsu champion, in a mixed match. The victory was the first for any white man in such a contest, although Shikuma has been defeated in a straight catch-as-catch-can wrestling match several times. Peck took the first fall in four minutes and one second with a punishing headlock, followed by butts and body slams. Never letting his opponent get set, the big Irishman from San Francisco kept boring in with headlocks and arm bars.

The middle fall, under the jiu jitsu rules with jiu jitsu, went to Shikuma in eight minutes, but only after a terrific struggle, and with Peck applying more than many jiu jitsu holds as his opponent. His breaking of one strange hold by the expert of ramming his thumbs under Shikuma's ears left the Japanese weakened after the fall. The final frame went to Peck in short order as he again clamped his vice-like headlock on, ending the bout with a Boston crab.

In "Dude" Chick, Promoter Mack Lillard presented a man against "Tiger" Taskoff who immediately took popular favor. The big blond ex-cowpuncher heaved the Bulgarian around with such virile vigor that the crowd howled their enthusiasm, as Chick presented his "lariat spin" so effectively that Taskoff was unable to return for the third fall and the bout went to Chick by default.

Chick showed three holds seldom seen here. His first spectacular showing was when he threw Taskoff high in the air with a shoulder butt, pulling the "Tiger" to him, and then straightening up under him. Taskoff came down on the mat as though he had fallen off a barn, and repeating this maneuver left him in poor condition. Another hold that met with popular acclaim was when Chick picked up his opponent and held him with his throat resting on the top strand of the ropes, almost choking him to death.

The climax was the "lariat spin," a stripline spin so fast and so prolonged that it left the Bulgarian as woozy as a sailor on a three-weeks' drunk. Taskoff was so dizzy after the spin that he was physically incapable of voluntary movement for 10 minutes after Referee Ray Frisbie stopped the match.

It has been called to our attention by John Hedden that Wednesday night wouldn't be such a hot night for the initial meeting of the Medford Tennis club, in that the theaters usually manage to take the center of the stage as far as popular interest is concerned. So the meeting has been postponed and will be held Thursday night at 8 o'clock at the Smoke House bowl.

There seems to be considerable doubt in the minds of those who have not watched a game of table tennis for some years, as to the powers of the game in producing perspiration, or in more delicate terms, the effectiveness of table tennis as a training measure to take off a few extra pounds. With the new forehead serve, and the speed with which the ball is skittered across the net, practically anyone we know can get a very effective workout at the tables. Either that or he'll take some unmerciful beatings when his opponent starts placing his shots first on one corner and then on the other. We know of no other game in which it is necessary to move so fast so often.

Ken Hollis is still head toughly in these parts, regardless of the efforts of "Toughly" Cleet last night. The way Hollis whammed the mat with Cleet, and the ease with which "Dude" Chick tossed "Tiger" Taskoff around, brings to mind the idea that there would be a real match—Chick against Hollis. Chick is rugged enough to withstand the battering Hollis would do to him, and is confident enough to draw a crowd no matter who might be wrestling. After watching Hollis pummel foes who are on the mat, for several weeks now, it would be refreshing to see him the victim of that "lariat spin" or that devastating shoulder butt.

The "Tiger," he of the bristly moustache, doesn't look his real age if you do not guess, you would already have two strikes on you. From an inside course, but not from Taskoff himself, was discovered how old he is. He hasn't reached his 40th birthday yet. In fact, he hasn't reached his 30th, or his 40th. The man is actually only 33 years old. The moustache and bald head make him look four years older than Roxy Ann, but those who have seen him out of the brush are startled by his young appearance.

The entire Japanese colony turned out to see Shinuchi Shikuma against Frankie Peck last night. Every time the big black belt champion would whirled Peck around in a hip lock like a sack of rice, the pleasured beam on the faces of the Japanese gave one the idea as to why Japan is called the land of the rising sun. They didn't look so happy about it when Peck finally won, but they were awfully good sports about it. We are told every Japanese in the valley who could possibly get there was represented at the ringside, and those who couldn't make it stayed home and listened to the radio. Were the rest of us ever in Japan we'd undoubtedly feel the same about some of our home talent.

WHITMAN WINS 42-25 IN TILT WITH PACIFIC

FOREST GROVE, Ore., Jan. 14.—(AP)—Whitman college, defending northwest conference champion, was out ahead of the 1935 pennant chase today with a 45 to 25 win over Pacific university.

OREGON HUMBLER IDAHO BASKETMEN BY 61-29 COUNT

EUGENE, Ore., Jan. 14.—(AP)—University of Oregon's dark-horse basketball team turned into a dashing runaway in its first coast conference, northern division frame of the season, and trampled University of Idaho under a terrific 61 to 29 score here last night.

Cosch Howard Hobson, and the numerous transfers who followed him here from Southern Oregon normal, gave the other coast schools plenty to worry about by their booming, fast-breaking offense.

The Weibos, Giants, headed by six-foot-six Ward Howell, were ahead only 24 to 18 at the half. But in the second canto their shots at the backboard beat a steady staccato and they kept the score busy registering 37 points while Idaho regained but 11.

Idaho started out strong and led 7 to 6 early in the game. Oregon moved ahead, but Wally Geraghty, the Vandals' all-conference guard, caged three goals in rapid succession to tie the score at 13-all.

Oregon then moved ahead, and at the start of the second half ran up 15 points before Idaho scored in fresh. Giants kept sending the terrific pace and rest his regulars for tonight's game here with the Vandals and for Friday's significant game with Oregon State, defending northern division champion.

The reserves had nearly as much success finding the hoop as did the regulars.

Howell scored 19 points to head the scoring, while Liebowitz followed with 16. Willie Jones, Oregon's high scorer last season, had to content with only six points. Twelve of Idaho's points were registered by the sharp shooting Geraghty.

Monumental moguls of eastern Republicanism have already privately picked a vice-presidential running mate for Governor Landon. He is Congressman James W. Wadsworth of New York, whose name will be heard more frequently hereafter.

The selection is still in the dream stage, but the dreaming is being done by persons who have been able to make some of their dreams come true in the past.

Wadsworth would probably be a good eastern balance wheel for any western Republican presidential candidate, but he is particularly well suited technically to the Landon situation. He is wet and conservative.

The lack of interest with which Governor Talmadge was greeted during his recent visit to Washington bespoke a new policy toward him. The new dealers did not even take the trouble to hate him.

All he was permitted to say was "Naw" when his name was called on a resolution lauding the new deal.

One newsman bet him a quart that he would not have a delegate to the next convention; another a hat that he would not have his home state delegation. They made safe bets.

Talmadge's delegation will not be seated at the convention, no matter how it is selected. The convention rules committee will see to that.

PHOENIX, Jan. 14.—(Sp)—The Phoenix basketballers will clash with Butte Falls in a return game here at 7:15 tonight.

The locals were defeated by three points in their last game with Butte Falls.

Phoenix has defeated the last four teams against whom they played. The game last Friday with Jacksonville went to Phoenix by a score of 19 to 13.

A good preliminary will be furnished by Phoenix grades vs. Wagner Creek.

Probable lineup for tonight's game is: Hill and Goodpasture, forwards; Newlin, center; Furry and Hensler, guards.

Victory For Louis Seen "In The Bag"

CHICAGO, Jan. 14.—(AP)—The outcome, a quick, crushing triumph for Joe Louis over Charley Retzlaff, seems as certain as tomorrow, but the indications are that $75,000 worth of spectators will be enough interested in seeing it done to go to the Chicago stadium Friday night.

Chicago fight fans have not had an opportunity to watch the Brown Bomber blast an opponent out of action since last August when King Lewis acted as the party of the second part.

Seattle Skaters Defeat Vancouver

VANCOUVER, B. C., Jan. 14.—(AP)—The rampaging Seattle Seawhaws hooked their sticks more solidly on the third rung of the Northwestern Hockey league ladder today at the expense of the leading Vancouver Lions.

Benny McLean, dashing Hawk center, sparked his team to a 4 to 0 victory over the Lions here last night while the Edmonton Eskimos thumped the Calgary Tigers.

into the basement, 3 to 2, at Edmonton.

Considerable buck-passing occurred backstage, however, before the names were made available for publication. Speaker Byrnes and Chairman Doughton pushed newsmen back and forth for two days before Byrnes jockeyed Doughton into announcing that the list was a public document. The executive branch of the government ducked responsibility entirely. Publication was considered excellent politics.

CONGRESSMEN ASSESS THAT WASHINGTON POLICE AND JUDGES ARE PREJUDICED AGAINST THEM. THE PENDING BILL PERMITTING CONGRESSMEN TO BE TRIED IN THEIR OWN DISTRICTS FOR WASHINGTON OFFENSES IS VERY LIKELY TO PASS THE HOUSE (BUT NOT THE SENATE).

The Republican national committee has signed up an outstanding university economist who will apparently function as something of a brain trust to offset new deal economics.

If Mr. Roosevelt gets a chance to appoint anyone to the supreme court, it will not be any of those whose names you have heard, but probably Senator Wagner of New York.

The only addition to the White House force provided in the 1937 budget is an automobile washer at a salary of $1,320 per year.

Some Democrats cannot get over the fact that outside the entrance to the Jackson day dinner was a large picture of Chief Justice Hughes. It was placed in the hotel lobby by a firm of local photographers.

Also the ladies are still murmuring because the $50-a-plate fee caused most Democratic officials to leave their wives at home.

OREGON NORMAL TRIMS WILLAMETTE 32 TO 21

SALEM, Jan. 14.—(AP)—The Oregon Normal school Wolves trounced the Willamette university basketball hoop squad 32 to 21 here last night. Big Jack Butterworth, Normal center, pushed 14 points through the hoop to take high scoring honors.

LIFE OF POVERTY IS THING OF PAST FOR LONE WOMAN

ging camps in Oregon when she decided to make her home at Canyonville, an historic Oregon town, located in southern Douglas county.

Jobs were hard to find, particularly for a single woman, who had long before discarded feminine gars and went about dressed in rough male clothing.

But Jack Plotner had been up against hard luck before and won out. She started a woodlot, sawing, splitting and delivering. She worked at anything that would bring in a dollar. She picked prunes, helped in the hay harvest, worked in stores and begged odd jobs.

At times she admits, the larder was pretty low and the belt pulled up tighter, but her calloused, blistered hands continued to slug away at Old Man Trouble.

Then late in December, as if to prove the old adage, "It's darkest just before dawn," she received a check for $300 and notice that she had fallen heir to some valuable stocks and bonds, a 160-acre farm in Indiana, two houses and lots in Peru, Indiana, and other assets, assuring her of a comfortable income for the balance of her years.

"It was a tremendous relief," she said, in commenting upon her feelings when a fortune fell in her lap. "It's no fun to have to live from hand to mouth. It's depressing and sometimes discouraging.

"At first I enjoyed every waking moment and dreamed of my good fortune at night, but now I've suffered a let-down.

"I've always been busy and now with nothing to do I'm beginning to get restless. I must find something to do to keep me busy, or I'll go nuts."

She has purchased an automobile, and already has 1700 miles on the speedometer, although the car is less than a month old.

As soon as spring comes one of her first purchases will be a good fly rod, for she is enthusiastic about fishing. "I'm going to try and find something congenial and useful to occupy myself with," she says. "I'm going to live within my means, and stretch the good fortune so it will include the rest of the days of my life. My wants are few and easily cared for—a bit to eat and wear, plenty of cigarettes and an occasional glass of beer. I know the value of money—having been so long without it—and you may rest assured that I won't throw my inheritance away."

BONUS BILL HAS SENATE FINANCE COMMITTEE OKEH

$5,800,000,000 of refunding operations.

Couzens said Morgenthau estimated this would bring the public debt to $35,500,000,000 by the end of next fiscal year.

Chairman Harrison (D., Miss.) announced the vote and said he would try to get senate consideration on Thursday. Those voting for the favorable report were: Democrats—George, Walsh, Barkley, Gore, Cootign, Bailey, Clark, Lonergan, Black, Guffey and Harrison; Republicans—Keyes, Hastings and Capper; Progressive—LaFollette.

Replaces House Bill

By a vote of 18 to 0, the committee substituted the senate bill for that passed last Friday by the house which provided for full cash payment of the certificates, but specified no method of payment.

Secretary Morgenthau, Daniel W. Bell, acting budget director, and officers of the three veterans' organizations which are united behind the senate bill appeared before the committee in executive session before the final vote was taken.

"I'm sorry, you'll have to see Harrison," Morgenthau told reporters after the meeting.

Harrison refused to divulge Morgenthau's testimony.

Asked whether the treasury secretary had told the committee new taxes would be needed to raise the money for redeeming bonus certificates, Harrison refused to say. But he reiterated his own opinion that no new taxes would be necessary.

No Changes Made

The bill was approved without change, Harrison said.

Senators not present when the final vote was taken were: King, Byrd, and Connally, Democrats, and Metcalf, Republican.

The eventual cost to the government is estimated at $2,491,000,000 but backers of the bill say the immediate expense would be only $1,600,000,000.

It may come up in the senate Thursday, the next meeting day. Harrison announced that Democratic leader Robinson of Arkansas, favored the bill. Briefly, the measure would:

Pay the full face (1945 maturity) value of the adjusted service certificates, minus money borrowed on the certificates and unpaid interest accrued prior to October 1, 1931,

Crash Injury Fatal

SAFE... FAST... WARM winter way to CALIFORNIA

THE SAFEST HIGHWAY in the world is the road of steel rails.

This is something to think about—especially in winter when other highways are so often slippery and dangerous.

Swiftly, steadily, the train clips off the miles, even while you sleep, while you eat.

Cozy steam-heated coaches. Snug, soft, wool-blanketed berths. After all, these comforts do count. And they cost so little every traveler can afford to go this way. For example, look at these low fares:

One way Roundtrip
San Francisco $ 8.42 $16.00
Los Angeles - - $16.15 $28.70

These fares are good in coaches and chair-cars on all our trains, also in improved Tourist Pullmans, plus small berth charge.

5c and 10c tray service in these cars: coffee or milk 5c, sandwiches 10c, doughnuts 10c, fruit 5c, ice cream 10c, etc. Low-cost meals in diners also.
