Eldred Charley was obligated in the first and second degrees, by County Deputy Nealon, and declared a member of Lake Creek Grange.

It was announced that the county club leader expects to hold a meeting to discuss club work soon, exact date to be announced later.

Claus Charley gave an interesting legislative committee report, touching on the bills to be voted on at the special election.

Lecturer Mable Brown announced that the home economics committee is planning a play, to be given at some future date.

The following program was presented by the lecturer: Assembly song; clever ogininal poem, by George Brown; music appreciation, vocal selections, by Mable Brown, Myrtle Charley, Irene Charley, Floyd Charley, Wallace Ragsdale, with Helen Brown at the piano, and biography of the composer, Stephen Foster, by Elyn Charley; talk on the railroad situation as compared with the farm situation of today, by Reed Charley; address by Emmett Nealon on measures to be voted on at the coming election and various other items of interest; vocal solo by Floyd Charley, accompanied by Helen Brown; games and old-fashioned dances directed by Emma Measal; talk by John Holtz, announcing plans for a carnival by Sams Valley Grange, to help raise funds for a new hall; brief remarks by both Mrs. Nealon and Mrs. Holtz.

TEDDY JUNIOR FOR FARMER CONTROL OWN MARKETING

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 15.—(AP)—A proposal that America's farmers control their own marketing instead of being "subject to the orders of the government" was advanced today by Theodore Roosevelt, Jr.

The son of the former Republican president told the Oklahoma Young Republicans' convention here last night "enabling laws should be passed federally and in the state providing machinery by which farmers can organize in groups according to what they produce."

Laws to make effective the decisions of "an agreed upon large percentage of the farmers" should be included, he suggested, "whereby the organized movement would be able to check the selling of produce in such disorderly fashion as to break the whole market."

The government should lend its aid in simplifying distribution and eliminating the spread resulting from uneconomical transportation and a multitude of middlemen," he said.

Colonel Roosevelt described Secretary Wallace, sponsor of the invalidated AAA, as "a sincere man" but "an unbalanced fanatic," and was applauded when he referred to President Roosevelt as "my fifth cousin about to be removed."

CASCADE WONDERLAND TO OPEN NEW OFFICES IN REDDING FEB. 1ST

REDDING, Cal., Jan. 15.—(Spl.)—Establishment of new offices for the Shasta-Cascade Wonderland association was announced from Redding headquarters this week by T. L. Stanley, general manager, who has just resigned from the position of secretary-manager of the Redding chamber of commerce, where he has held both positions for the past five years.

This move was recommended by the regional council for the organization last August and approved by the board of directors in session at Red Bluff in October. The new offices are expected to open February 1.

The new quarters will provide a general office, meeting room, private offices and work rooms for the Wonderland new service, membership department and other work of the association of nine counties.

Shortly following the opening of the new offices, Stanley will make a tour of the Wonderland, spending several days in each county, meeting with officials, and reporting and checking on work under way.

DISMISS ISRAEL SUIT FOR LIBEL

SALEM, Jan. 15.—(AP)—The state supreme court Tuesday dismissed the $75,000 alleged libel case against the new Telegram Publishing company, in an opinion written by Chief Justice J. U. Campbell.

The original suit was brought by Mark M. Israel as an outgrowth of the investigation of the W. Frank Akin murder case. Akin was killed while acting as special investigator for the port of Portland.

The Multnomah circuit court held with the defendant publishing company, but upon petition Judge Hall S. Lusk granted a new trial. Today's supreme court opinion was on Judge Lusk's order granting a new trial. The later order was reversed and the circuit court's original opinion for the defendant reinstated, thereby dismissing the suit.
