

GOVERNOR AGREES WITH HOOVER ON RELIEF PROBLEM

Should Be Cared for by Counties and Cities, Not State and National Government, Martin's View

SALEM, Ore., Jan. 15.—(UP)—Charles H. Martin, Oregon's new deal governor, said yesterday he agreed with ex-President Herbert Hoover that relief is a problem for counties and cities, not state and national governments, to administer.

He instructed Elmer R. Goudy, administrator for the state relief committee, to go to Roseburg and close the Roosevelt transient camp there immediately, over the protests of American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars.

"I may be referred to as a 'Hoover Democrat'," the governor said, "but I agree with the ex-president that relief is a local problem. County courts can keep a closer check on people on relief and weed out the chiselers."

Martin disagreed with Goudy in contending that $10 a month is enough to support a person on relief. He urged that persons be removed immediately from relief rolls when they refuse work or use relief funds to buy liquor.

"Any one who has a liquor license has no place on relief," Martin told Goudy.

"When people lose their pride, a nation goes to pieces," the governor added, declaring that the federal government never again should appropriate $4,800,000,000 for relief.

The governor questioned the name "transient camp," asserting: "tramp camps would be a better name. Those men should be kept moving out of our state the same as criminals."

State money cannot be used to maintain the Roseburg transient camp, Goudy said, and the federal government has shut off funds for this type of relief, necessitating closing the shelter.

Mr. Grey, employed by the city to work out feasible methods of paying accumulated assessments, has brought in more than $25,000. It was stated by Mayor George W. Porter, who presided.

Mr. Grey explained that property owners had been divided into three classifications: Those whose unpaid assessments dated back as far as 1910; those in arrears for ten or twelve years; and those who got behind six or seven years ago.

Method Described
The oldest unpaid assessments were taken up first and now the more recent delinquencies are being considered, Mr. Grey said. In each case an effort is made for a personal contact so that the property owner may go over the matter to determine what method of payment is most practical and possible, he related. It was emphasized that the city is endeavoring sincerely to aid owners hold their property and that foreclosure is resorted to only when the owner shows no disposition to protect his holdings.

Robert A. Duff, water superintendent, brought up the question of pension for municipal employees and a lengthy discussion ensued. C. O. Furness, Medford councilman, suggested that definite action be deferred until the effectiveness of pension and unemployment insurance legislation affecting private industry could be determined.

Other Matters Discussed
Various other municipal problems were considered. At the end of the session Mayor T. B. Wiley of Ashland asserted that the meeting had proved to be of great value and he moved that Mayor Porter be thanked for his courtesy and efficiency in conducting the conference. The motion was carried unanimously, whereupon Mayor Porter said the banks were due the league and its officials who came to Medford and worked industriously in making the meeting a success.

Besides visiting delegates who registered at the luncheon, the following attended the business session: E. P. Moore, councilman, and W. H. Ferguson, recorder, of Gold Hill; Mrs. Inez Hayes, recorder, and John E. Roberts and C. T. Pipes, councilmen, of Phoenix; and William M. Briggs of Ashland.

JEFFERSON, Ore., Jan. 15.—(UP)—Jefferson voters approved, 141 to 80, the $9,000 bond issue to match $7,000 in federal funds to finance a new water system for the city.

DADDIES PROMISED FINE EVENING BY WASHINGTON P.T.A.

"Daddy's Night Out" is to be observed by the Washington school Parent-Teacher association, Friday, at the annual daddy's night dinner at 6:30 p. m. in the school auditorium.

An excellent program has been arranged by Mrs. J. C. Tucker, program chairman, including vocal solos, readings, recreational games and activities and community singing.

Every detail of the meat pie dinner is being taken care of by capable chairmen. Of particular interest is the fact that a San Francisco florist is sending flowers for the tables. This florist, a friend of the Washington P.T.A. president, Mrs. A. E. Brockway, is sending the flowers as a special contribution for her successful year as president, combined with the desire to make daddy's night a memorable and happy occasion.

A further gesture of friendship is being extended the Washington Parent-Teacher association by the Jackson school unit. Fifteen ladies from that school will serve the dinner, enabling all the ladies of the Washington unit to enjoy for the first time all the daddy's night festivities.

Fathers and mothers of children attending Washington school are cordially invited and expected to be present. Past presidents of the Washington school P.T.A. are given a special invitation and are asked to report to Mrs. Stubbfield if they can attend.

FREE METHODISTS TO OPEN SPECIAL MEETS

Tonight the sermon subject will be "Preparing the Way for His Coming." Thursday, "The Christian's Cross" and Friday, "The Christian's Responsibility." The public is cordially invited to all these services.

FIRST SHOWING OF SCHOOL OPERETTA WILL BE JAN. 25TH

With a great clashing of swords and lusty, sea-faring music, students of the senior high school will present "The Pirates of Penzance," a Gilbert and Sullivan opera, in a matinee showing, January 25, and evening performances January 27 and 28. Approximately 100 youthful singers will participate, under the direction of Esther Church Leske, Miss Floy Young and Wilson Wait, music supervisors.

Music Masters Gilbert and Sullivan have in this one of their most popular and successful operas, and the story of the orphan boy who, through a misunderstanding, is apprenticed to the pirates of Penzance, who were noted for never harming orphans, because they themselves were orphans, is familiar to everyone.

The cast: Richard, a pirate chief—Harvey Field, Jr. Samuel, his lieutenant—Dale Sims Frederic, the pirate apprentice—Jack Dennison

Major-General Stanley, of the British army—Marvin Burke Edward, a sergeant of police—Delmer Wright Mabel, General Stanley's youngest daughter—Mary Ann Gates Kate and Edith, General Stanley's daughters—Doris Ellenburg, Marquerite Luman Ruth, a practical maid-of-all work—Elinore Poffenbarger Betty Paske.

Up until his twenty-first birthday, Ruth is the only girl Frederic has ever seen, so that when she asks him to marry her, he consents, but subsequently meets and falls in love with Mabel, which leads to a number of complications. He is supposedly free to leave the pirates on his twenty-first birthday, but when someone points out that his birthday is February 29, and that he has had but five, he feels bound to continue his apprenticeship, which will permanently disrupt his romance. This difficulty is not solved until the pirates (who, it seems, were really English noblemen all the time) promise in a body to reform, which automatically frees Frederic to marry Mabel.

Daily rehearsals for the presentation are now in order at the high school, and indications are that "Pirates of Penzance" will, as have past productions of the students, more than equal the expectations of parents and townsmen.

342 MEDFORDITES IN MINING SCHOOL

GRANTS PASS, Jan. 15.—(AP)—With over 1150 enrolled, the mines division school of the state board for vocational education has halted registration.

Locally, 303 have enrolled. At Medford, 342 had enrolled for branch classes four days before, and final figures were not available.

Actual classes will be only a fraction of those enrolled. It was reported, since many miners seek information only about their own operations. "Drifters" are expected to drop out shortly after classes begin. However, because of the large number enrolled, Karl Laderwig, superintendent, sent word to the Medford group that they need not appear here.

VALES GIVEN PREVIEW SAN DIEGO EXPOSITION

SAN DIEGO, Jan. 15.—Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Vale of Medford were given a preview of the 1936 California Pacific International exposition today by officials of the world's fair, which opens February 12, and will continue until September 9, 1936.

Admitted through the gates by special permit they visited the 100 ornate palaces in beautiful 1400-acre Balboa park and watched scores of workmen preparing new displays and erecting new structures.

EAGLES TO HOLD BIG EVENT HERE

A regional initiation ceremony will be held in the armory here on February 4 by the Fraternal Order of Eagles, this being the second time in two years that Medford has been chosen for the event. It was announced today by A. H. Banwell, president of the localerie.

George Nordlin of Kansas City, grand worthy president of the fraternity, will be here for the ceremony, Mr. Banwell said. Harry Moore is in charge of arrangements.

Eagles will be present from Roseburg, Grants Pass, Ashland, Klamath Falls and Lakeview. It is expected that a large class will be initiated.

KILL INCOME TAX IN WASHINGTON

OLYMPIA, Wash., Jan. 15.—(AP)—The 1935 personal net income tax law is unconstitutional, the state supreme court declared today.

The invalidation of the state law means the loss of more than $1,600,000 annually in revenue during 1936, the state tax commission said.

The supreme court sustained a Thurston county court ruling in which Judge D. P. Wright declared the law "wholly unconstitutional." The high court decision was five to four.

20-30 CLUB TO HOLD DISTRICT CONVENTION

GRANTS PASS, Jan. 15.—(Sp.)—Expecting to entertain representatives from nearly every 20-30 club in the southern Oregon district, the committee in charge of the district convention that will be held here Saturday night and Sunday morning has announced all plans are nearly completed. The convention will begin with a dinner-dance at the Hotel del Rogue at 7:30 p. m., Saturday.

Willard Arant is chairman of the affair. He also has been named secretary-treasurer of the club, as announced by Eiden Bedford, president, at Monday night's meeting. He succeeds J. S. Wolke, who resigned the position last week before the board of directors.

Fellowship Hour Topics Announced

At the first fellowship hour at the First Presbyterian church at 7:30 Thursday evening, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Littrell will tell of their impressions of Central America and Colombia gained on their recent trip through the Panama canal.

Miss Don Owens will also give a short talk on "Life in the Canal Zone from a high school girl's viewpoint." These talks are supplementary to the study on "that other America." A cordial invitation is extended all interested.

GUARD UNIT NEARS FULL ROSTER AS 58 ATTEND DRILL

The reorganization campaign of Company A, 186th Infantry, showed the attainment of additional results last night when 58 men appeared for the regular weekly drill at the armory.

The company was only two members shy of reaching its goal; a full active membership of 60 men and three officers. That the goal will be attained shortly was evidenced by the fact that applications were received last night from three more recruits, Capt. Carl Y. Tengwald, commanding officer said today.

To provide for only active members, however, five additional members who have been unable to attend drill regularly were transferred to the inactive list, the captain said. Those so transferred were Richard H. Baize, Eugene L. Blackford, Donald W. Applegate, Harold W. Hugger and Harold G. Mann.

Recruits accepted for membership last night were Paul W. Hughes, Charles E. Overmyer, Warren P. Law, Earl B. Small, Donald B. Philp, John E. Schlinz and Robert W. Palmer. "We are more than gratified with the results of our reorganization campaign," Capt. Tengwald said.

"When it is completed we expect to have the most active full-strength company in the state. We are making out a reserve list of applicants; so those who contemplate joining the company are advised to register immediately."

Applications may be filed with Capt. Tengwald at 125 West Main street or Sgt. George F. Lindley at the armory.

Comment on the Day's News

By FRANK JENKINS
HEADED for Portland, and a miracle is in the process of occurring—a strong tail wind. Ninety-nine times out of a hundred, it's a head wind. Ripley ought to hear of this.

UP along Klamath Lake, which is frozen in spots and open in other spots. One of these open spots, several acres in extent, is literally crowded with mallard ducks.

Far be it from this writer to criticize, but if he had at his command transportation as cheap and as swift as a mallard duck, he'd be heading for the Silver Strand, down below San Diego, instead of paddling around up here in icy water.

But these ducks are a pretty sight, even if they are a little "teched in the head."

A LITTLE farther on, up The Dalles-California highway, the Paulina mountains lift their heads off to the east. In one of them is Paulina crater, and in Paulina crater is Paulina lake.

Old Chief Paulina certainly scattered his name around over this country.

OLD Chief Paulina, according to all surviving accounts, was a bad Indian—from the standpoint, that is, of the whites.

But that isn't all. Not only was he a bad Indian but he was a crafty Indian as well. In those hectic earlier days, they didn't seem to pay much attention to dumb Indians, for a dumb Indian was apt to be soon a dead Indian. Dumb Indians could be put on a spot without a great deal of difficulty if the situation seemed to call for such tactics.

But a crafty old rascal like Paulina was different. Every time they got him out on a limb and prepared to saw it off behind him, he showed up somewhere else with about seven kinds of new devilment up his sleeve.

If half the stories about him are true, Paulina certainly got in the white men's hair, in the days when this now peaceful country was wild and woolly, and it isn't to be wondered at that his name is scattered around quite a bit.

(Of course there are always two sides to every controversy. Paulina, one must remember, was an Indian, and the white men were taking the Indian's country away from him. If somebody else should come in now and start to take this country away from us, the chances are we would get mean and ornery about it. People with any spunk at all always have been that way about such things, and probably always will be.)

IT took a long time and a lot of scheming to do it, but they finally got old Paulina.

Howard Maupin, after whom the little town of Maupin—where the highway crosses the Dechutes canyon away up toward the Wapinitia cut-off—was named, got the old boy square in the sights of his Sharp's buffalo gun one day and liquidated him. After that, life was quite a bit simpler for the whites around these parts.

Colonel William A. Thompson—who, by the way, was the founder of what is now the Roseburg News-Review—tells the story interestingly in his book on the early days of this fascinating country. Colonel Thompson died in Alturas only a little more than a year ago.

OLD Chief Paulina is gone, but he isn't forgotten, and won't be as long as the Geographic Board follows the rule of reason and leaves the original names on a lot of points of interest scattered over this east of the mountains country.

Whether he was a bad hombre or a great patriot depends wholly upon the point of view. In England, you know, a great many people still look upon George Washington as a wicked rebel.
