

COWBOY GRAPPLER DISABLES PECK BY MERRY-GO-ROUND

With one of the most terrific air-plans spins ever seen here, big Cowboy Dude Chick last night spun the rugged and game Frankie Peck into a pitiable condition in the main event on the Army wrestling card, after Peck had seemingly taken the advantage with vice-like headlocks. After nearly 45 minutes of battling, during which Peck took the first fall by reverse headlocks, Chick swung Peck up into his famed spin, and, after a dizzying journey through the ozone followed by a rebounding body slam, Referee Frisbie waved Chick's hand in token of victory.

The San Franciscoan tried gamely to wobble at his pins and finish the battle on his feet, but the effort was too great. Ten minutes later in the dressing room he was still weak and ill from the spin.

"Tiger" Taskoff's dirty work appeared to no one in the middle event against big Shinnuchi Shikuma, and Frisbie awarded the Japanese the first fall, catch-as-catch-can style, when Taskoff refused to break a strangle hold. The loss of that fall spelled defeat for the Bulgarian, for in the next round, with the jiu jitsu jackets, the son of Hippo tossed him around like an old hat, and, after a few usual good nature by Taskoff's dirty work, Shikuma several times swung wide haymakers, but took the second straight fall with a scissors-strangle. When, after the second bout, Shinnuchi walked to Taskoff's corner to shake hands, he received a resounding kick in the midriff for his pains, but seconds kept the battle from continuing.

"Tiger" Cleet, who confined his offensive efforts to making faces like a goldfish, a bit of slugging and biting, demonstrated where he got his name when he served as a flail for some of the most artistic mat dusting seen here in some time, with Frank Taylor doing the flailing, Taylor, a tall, dark Ohio State university graduate, whanged the resin so resoundingly with Cleet that he snapped a 4 by 4 inch stringer under the ring, by whirling him over in an arm-bar whip. The broken girder seemed to surprise Taylor not at all. After the match he explained that "something had to give." Taylor appeared an easy-going sort of man, losing the second round of the Australian system bout on a body slam, but in the next frame he finally became angered as repeated pokeings in the eye and getting up off the floor outside the ring, climbed in and hung three whistling left-hand uppercuts on Cleet's skull to take the fall. He repeated this virtuous performance in the last round, capping the performance by jerking Cleet back into the ring by way of the top rope, with a head scissor. He took the fall with a body press.

The Medford Blue Raiders, back from a week-end raid into Crescent City where they were dumped 34-28 by the Crescent All-Stars for their first loss of the season, redeemed their prestige last night at the expense of the Phoenix Tornados, 52-30.

BLUE RAIDERS WIN 52-30 IN PHOENIX

Starting slowly in the first half of the game played in the Phoenix high school gym, the Raiders led 19-18 at half time. Lloyd Hammack, Raider pivot man, hit his stride in the second half and ran up 15 points for a game total of 22.

Friday begins the crucial Medford-Ashland basketball struggle. While at first little hope was held here for a Medford win, the performance of the Tigers has erased some of that feeling. They are learning basketball fast, but even now are winning their games on sheer faith, and the willingness to carry the battle to the opponents. Coach Bowerman said yesterday: "They've got lots of fight now. If they keep it up we may win some more games. But the minute they start thinking they're basketball players, and start to get fancy we're licked."

The Medford Table Tennis club is not an actual club, instead of a tentative plan. Organization was completed at a meeting last night, officers elected, and plans made to start playing before the end of the week if possible. Membership is still open, those interested in signing for playing being welcome to join any time this week. It was decided at the meeting to start out in a small but substantial way, with two tables to start, rather than to splurge and take a chance on the venture's collapsing.

There was a miserable attendance at last night's wrestling show. Speculation is more or less rife as to why the attendance has fallen off of late. Promoter Mack Lillard is at a loss to explain, although he admitted that the three week lay-off at Christmas time didn't do the game any good at the box-office. It can hardly be because the talent isn't good enough, for the array of stars on that bill last night would have packed the house in Los Angeles.

The matches themselves were good, fast and exciting, and in the main event something happened that hasn't happened here in a long time—the wrestlers wrestled. That is rather a startling statement to make in this era of eye gouging, kicking, biting and slugging, and we realize that it is, at best, a statement. There wasn't a single foul blow the entire match. The action got rough more than once to be sure, but not dirty. Hundreds of people have told us that is the kind of wrestling they'd like to see. Next week will tell.

We must admit that we prefer the rough-house stuff. Not the eye-gouging, particularly, but the drop-kicks, somersaults and flying tackles, and maybe a few gropers tossed out of the ring as long as they're heaved out on the opposite side of the circle from us. But we did enjoy that main event last night, and we've never seen anyone get alamed quite so hard as Frank Taylor whanged Juffy Cleet the time he broke the joint under the ring floor, in the opener.

We had quite an argument with Swede Anderson last night, about the punting ability of Eddie Demmer, giant tackle on the Medford football team from 1925 to '27. Demmer was one of the greatest punters we ever saw. We admit that. He used to kick the ball so hard that it went almost flat as it roared away, but his kicks didn't spiral. He averaged 40 in the 60's for two years, but our contention is this: if he had ever learned to spiral his kicks he would have kicked them clear out of the ball park, and perhaps established world records for distance.

True, that much distance isn't necessary. He still outkicked everyone he met. Why he used to kick the men trying to block his punts almost as far as his adversary was putting the toe hide. But, boy, what a sight it would be to see a man like Swede get off a perfect spiral for 100 yards.

Calgary Puckmen Defeat Vancouver

CALGARY, Alta., Jan. 21.—(AP)—Vancouver Lions and Portland Buckaroos, alternates at first place in the northwestern hockey league, shared the hot spot today because the lowly Calgary Cagers came to life and whipped the Lions, 4 to 1, on the prairies. The unexpected Calgary triumph at Calgary last night knocked Vancouver from undisputed first into a tie with the Bucks at 20 points each in the standings column.

WIFFY COX SPOTS MEHLHORN A HOLE AND WINS PLAYOFF

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 21.—(AP)—Wiffy Cox proved today a seven on a par-four hole should never discourage a golfer.

Cox had such a hole yesterday and still beat Wild Bill Melhorn of Louisville, Ky., in a play-off for $750 first money in the Sacramento open golf tournament but he had to shoot an eagle three to do it.

The Bethesda, Md., professional, suffered a seven on the 431-yard fourth hole after hooking his second into a hedge. He came back on the 545-yard thirteenth to hole a 75-yard approach for his eagle.

Melhorn, tied with Cox at 286 strokes at the end of 72 holes Sunday, struggled along almost even with the former gob to that point and although he tried gallantly thereafter, doing his best to sink an ace at the short eighteenth, he never caught up.

The play-off ended with Cox shooting a 754, two over par, against 77 for Melhorn, whose putter frequently failed him.

Cox made victory doubly sure by holing a 25-foot putt for a deuce on the par three eighteenth, where Melhorn refused to set off until the referee stood at the flag to pull it should he shot even out-do Cox's great approach at the 18th.

Wild Bill hit his tee shot on the 145-yard hole within 12 feet of the pin but could not sink his first putt.

REDDEN TO HEAD NEW TENNIS CLUB

John Redden of Medford was unanimously elected president of the newly formed Medford Table Tennis club at a meeting of that group at the Smoke House Bowl last night. Norman Gall was unanimously elected secretary and treasurer.

Plans were drawn up for the construction, immediately, of two tennis tables so that active play can begin at once. It was decided at the meeting to start an inter-club ladder tournament as soon as possible.

Gall, who is leasing the Union Oil service station at the corner of Riverside avenue and Jackson boulevard for club play until arrangements can be made for a permanent club room. This offer was accepted, and the next meeting of the club will be held there. President Redden pointed out that membership in the club is still open, those desiring to join being asked to call Gall at 1824.

BIG DAY PLANNED SUNDAY AT TRAPS

Members of the Medford Gun club are anticipating one of the biggest days of the new year Sunday, January 26, when they hold their annual meeting and election of directors. A team shoot, with only members of the club eligible, will get under way at 12 o'clock, after which a fine dinner will be served by Jimmie Valentine at the club house. The dinner is expected to start at 3 o'clock.

The captains of the two competing teams will be Jack Porter at the head of the Red forces and Dr. Eddie Durno marshaling the Blue squad. The two captains will square off at high noon and select, by alternate choice, the members of their teams.

The shoot is open to every member of the club, every man on the grounds being expected to enter the 80-target bombardment. Targets will be trapped at the usual fee, and there is to be no extra entrance fee. Secretary Ed Pease said today. A handsome trophy will go to each member of the winning team.

BOWLING

Team No. 4 got away to a crashing start in the new Elks bowling tournament last night, when that squad, under Capt. Hanson Webster, drubbed Team No. 3 under Capt. E. V. Brayton, 4-0. Teams 2 and 6 will range tomorrow night. Members of Team 2 are Jim Murray, captain, and Hankin, V. Strang, Beemey, W. Smith and R. Duff. Joe Burroughs captains Team 6, with C. Holmes, Sherwood, M. Hall, Bowman and Seaman rolling with him.

GRID COACHES FOR MINOR TINKERING

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Jan. 21.—(AP)—The rules committee of the American Football Coaches' association decided today to meet in Pittsburgh February 1 with apparently little possibility many important changes will be up for consideration.

Dr. John B. "Jock" Sutherland of Pitt will be acting chairman in place of Lou Little of Columbia, who is ill in New York.

Football officials here were of the opinion the proposals for moving the goal posts back from the end zone to the goal line and elimination of the "allow whistle" will be about all the major questions to get official attention from the coaches' committee.

Firpo, Garrison Battle Tonight

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 21.—(AP)—Young Firpo, the rampaging wild bull of the Idaho pampas, will be headed into a rope-enclosed rein arena here tonight to explode his fighting fury at Nash Garrison, Mexican heavy-weight chin buster of California.

Garrison, a gambling puncher who aims knockout punches with either fist, has more than 20 knockouts to his credit. His daring attack, leaves him unprotected at times, however, and he has lost several fights by the knockout route.

Weisgerber's Bid Result Of Error

SALEM, Jan. 21.—(AP)—An error resulted in an offer to Dick Weisgerber, 213-pound star Willamette fullback, to turn professional, Coach "Spec" Keene was informed.

A letter from J. R. Ludlow Wray, president of the Philadelphia national football club, said the Philadelphia organization thought that Weisgerber was a senior and therefore eligible for professional offers. Weisgerber is a sophomore.

Headlocks Humble Meanie Wrestler

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 21.—(AP)—Jack Hagen, Chicago middleweight, clamped a merciless vice of bone and drawn on the cranium of Jack Lipscomb, the Indiana bully, and gained two of three falls in their wrestling match here last night.

Kicks followed by a Boston crab hold brought Lipscomb the first fall, but he willed under an upright head, lock and reverse chin locks.

figures is the great gain in the volume of unfilled orders and the substantial reduction in the amount of inventory carried over the end of the year," he pointed out. "The booking of orders has continued with great strength since the start of the year, and everything points to a continuance of this strength and it must result in an increase in price for the products of our principal industry."

The construction business is unquestionably due for further gains in 1936, transportation should be better and payroll higher, Mr. MacNaughton said. The stock market will show continued gains, he said, adding, however, that the stocks and bonds so effected will be selective.

Optimism Questioned.
Stressing that one-fifth of the workers are still unemployed, that about one-fifth of the population is still dependent upon public funds and that business activity is due in large measure to government spending, Mr. MacNaughton questioned the prevalent optimism and declared that genuine prosperity is dependent upon a return to the policies which have made the nation prosperous in the past.

Such policies, he asserted, involve maintenance of constitutional guarantees and freedom of enterprise. "The removal of the threat of governmental planning which seeks to balance production and consumption by centralizing decisions in the hands of a few bureaucrats. No small group of men can possess the wisdom and discernment to plan, direct and stimulate successfully the activities of all the people."

Mr. MacNaughton said that "the depression has lasted for six years. For three years we were on the down grade and for the last three years we have been slowly and painfully digging our way out."

Entrance of the two large banks of Portland into the Medford field has brought added financial strength and stability to the Rogue valley, Mr. MacNaughton declared. "This community, in fact, has annexed Portland and all the rest of the state," he added.

Preceding Mr. MacNaughton's address the students of the Medford high school, who will be featured in the light opera "Pirates of Penzance" next Saturday, Monday and Tuesday, presented a brief musical program. Elaine Poffenberger entertained with a solo while Mary Ann Gates and Jack Denison gave a duet from the opera. Both numbers were accompanied on the piano by Chloe Ellensburg.

BUTTE FALLS CAGEMEN DEFEAT SAMS VALLEY

BUTTE FALLS, Jan. 21.—(Sp.)—Coming from behind in the first secondary school conference game here, the Butte Falls high school Friday night grabbed a narrow last-minute lead from the Sams Valley five, winning 32-29. Sams Valley led through all of the first half and much of the second. The Sams Valley girls fared better, and romped home 33-14 in front of the Butte Falls girls.

JUNIOR HIGH CAGERS PLAY JACKSONVILLE

Coach Russell Achison announced today that he will throw his Junior high school Bulldogs against the Jacksonville high school basketball team on the Junior high school floor at 8 o'clock tonight. The Bulldog team has been progressing rapidly, and is expected to press the older Jacksonville outfit hard.

The preliminary, starting one hour earlier, will feature Ray Henderson's 7th and 8th grade five against the varsity quint from St. Mary's high school, here. The usual small admission charge will be made.

Waner Suffering From Pneumonia

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Jan. 21.—(AP)—Lloyd Waner, outfielder for the Pittsburgh Pirates, was seriously ill with pneumonia today, but his physician reported there was no immediate cause for alarm.

The physician, Dr. Leonard C. Willis, described his condition as satisfactory, "considering the nature of the illness," and said the crisis was due today or tonight. Previously Waner's condition had been described as "critical."

Women Golfers Are Represented

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 21.—(AP)—Paul P. Parsons of Portland, Pacific northwest representative of the United States Golf association, said today women golfers of the northwest will have representation on the women's committee of the U. S. G. A.

Mrs. E. F. Histine of Seattle will be appointed the Pacific northwest's first woman representative, for a period of three years, Parsons said.

YOU CAN'T DO BETTER THAN A PONTIAC

IN California's famous Gilmore-Yosemite Economy Run, Pontiac demonstrated once more that no car of comparable size, price or weight gives equal gas mileage. Averaging 23.9 miles per gallon over the 352 mile trip, encountering rain and headwinds, the Pontiac Economy Six won first place in its price class defeating all other entrants.

This officially supervised test lends authority to the many testimonials of Pontiac owners reporting from 18 to 24 miles per gallon of gas—and confirms the victory scored by Pontiac cars in various cities where Pontiac dealers entered "open challenge" competitions.

To big savings on gasoline Pontiac adds even greater comparative oil economy, surpassing by a large margin the oil efficiency of many smaller, lighter cars.

So when considering cars in Pontiac's price class remember that for gas and oil economy—as well as everything else—you can't do better than a Pontiac!
