

FORGERY SUSPECT WITH LONG RECORD IS PICKED UP HERE

Robert N. McKee, 32, twice an inmate of the Oregon state penitentiary was arrested Wednesday on a federal charge of impersonation of a federal forestry official. He waived preliminary hearing before United States Commissioner Victor A. Tengwald yesterday and was bound over to the federal grand jury in Portland on bail of $2,000.

McKee, who is a cripple and travels on crutches, is also wanted in this city, and others on the coast, on charges of forgery, police say. His case is under advisement by the federal bureau of investigation.

State police stated today that McKee had registered at a local lodging house giving his own name, and affixing U. S. F. S. after his name. Following U. S. F. S. in the forest service, he is alleged to have passed several spurious checks, at the hotel and elsewhere. Police were aware of his presence in town and kept a sharp look-out for him, they said, but after apprehending him at the stage depot when he went there to purchase a ticket to Ashland, discovered that he had been travelling about the city exclusively in taxis, thus eluding their vigilance.

Examples of his "draftsmanship," taken when he was arrested, are crude pencil drawings which draftsmen elsewhere show no traces of.

McKee's home is at Summer Lake near Bend, where his parents reside, and he once was a resident of Bend. In 1931 or '32 he was arrested here and returned to Bend to face charges of forgery, state police said today. He was later sent to the penitentiary on a fictitious check charge from Deschutes county.

McKee has failed to make bail. He will be taken north by Deputy U. S. Marshal Gene Narregran, or federal officials will call for him.

Safeway Official Assures Public Of Price Protection

If the AAA decision of the supreme court results in lower food costs the benefits of all such reductions will be immediately passed on to the consumer, L. A. Warren, president of Safeway Stores, Inc., one of the nation's foremost food distributors, announced at his Oakland, Cal., headquarters today.

"In line with Safeway's fundamental policy of retailing food to the public at the lowest possible price, we will naturally pass along to the consumer the full benefit of any savings resulting from the court's ruling," Warren declared.

"At the present time, it appears too early to make a definite prediction as to the possibilities or extent of an immediate reduction in food costs, pending a complete study of the situation and further national developments.

"But the public may rest assured that Safeway is ready to take equitable advantage on behalf of its consumers of any possible price reduction resulting from the court's ruling.

"It is to be hoped, of course, that this ruling will not have a deleterious effect on farm prices, for Safeway has consistently endeavored to pay the farmer the highest market prices and at the same time to aid him in the marketing of his products.

"Should future results of the court's ruling create lower retail prices, we will continue to give to agriculture, as always, the major portion of the consumer's dollar spent for farm products, inasmuch as multiple unit distribution makes possible the elimination of unnecessary expenses in between the producer and the consumer.

"In this connection we stand ready to augment our efforts to stabilize the marketing of specialty crops by waging more intensive 'farmer-consumer' campaigns than we have in the past.

"These campaigns have proved beneficial to both the farmer and consumer in that they make possible an increased consumption of agricultural products," Warren concluded.

Hotel Lexington, New York, uses apple brandy with baked fruit, frozen desserts, cream wafers and mousses. "I have found several dozen recipes to which a new tang and savor are given by the addition of a little apple brandy," says Miss Field. "In some cases the brandy is simply added as a new ingredient. In others I substitute it in whole or in part for the sherry or plain brandy already recommended in the recipes." Miss Field has also concocted what she calls "Apple Brandy Souffle," in which the yolks of two eggs, the whites of four, half a cup of powdered sugar, a few grains of salt and a tablespoon of apple brandy are cooked in a hot buttered omelet pan. Just before serving, Miss Field suggests pouring rum around the souffle and lighting it.

Sauces seasoned with apple brandy give delicious flavor to veal, veal kidneys, lamb, lamb kidneys, fillets of beef, and quail. A new type of fruit cup may be made by adding to each portion of prepared grapefruit a tablespoon of apple brandy and allowing to stand for an hour in a refrigerator. Another type of fruit cup is made with strawberries, pineapple and banana sliced in grapefruit, over which is poured a third of a cup of sherry and three tablespoons of apple brandy.

In fact, the housewife who keeps a bottle of apple brandy in her larder has available a whole new world of delightful and piquant flavors.
