

IT WAS THEIR EYES THAT WON

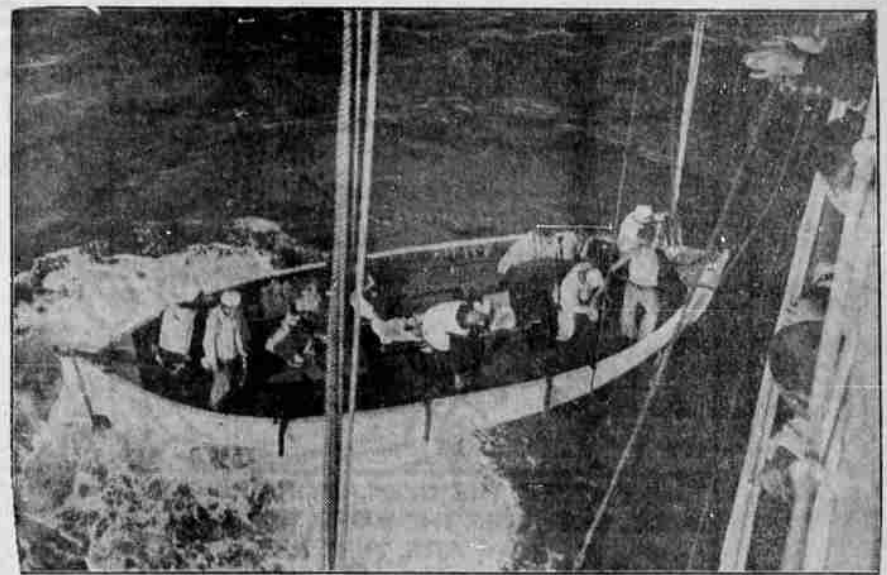

You guessed wrong. It was the eyes these four girls turned on the judges that won them prizes in New York. Left to right: Helen Bennett, brown-eyed division; Sally Warren, prettiest black eyes; Irma Wilson, best of the blues, and Eisle Edwards, whose blue eyes won the grand prize as the prettiest on Broadway. (Associated Press Photo)

BRAZILIAN REVOLUTIONISTS SEIZE NORTHERN CITY

This aerial picture shows Natal, capital of the state of Rio Grande do Norte, reported to be in the possession of the 21st battalion of chasseurs, who took up arms against the Brazilian government. It was announced loyal troops were being rushed to the north to suppress a revolt in four states. (Associated Press Photo)

FISHING BOAT BLOWS UP AT SEA; 11 HURT

When the 87-foot fishing boat Vasco da Gama exploded off the Lower California coast, its crew of 11 men, all injured and one seriously, took to sea in a small open boat. They were picked up by the British tanker El Mirlo and later transferred to the Antiqua, which took them to San Pedro, Calif., for treatment. This picture shows the transfer of the fishing boat's crew from the El Mirlo to the Antiqua. (Associated Press Photo)

CHORUS GIRLS WORKING FOR FEDERAL GOVERNMENT

Here are some of the chorus girls rehearsing in Los Angeles under the auspices of the federal theater project. The girls, all professionals, are paid up to $95 a month during rehearsals and it was planned to form units for booking on various circuits. Left to right: Doris Rogers, Mathilda Boss, Marie Danello, Junita Bock, Patricia Brooks, Fay Wright, Merehan Bach, Violet Velocoff and June Kirby. (Associated Press Photo)

GOING TO MEET FATHER FIRST TIME

Because New Bedford, Mass., decided it could no longer support eight-year-old John Perrais, the boy faced a 3000-mile journey alone to Hayward, Calif., and the father he has never seen. He is shown with Mrs. Jennie Perry, jobless aunt with whom he lived in Massachusetts. (Associated Press Photo)

FIRE SWEEPS POSTOFFICE BUILDING

A number of firemen were overcome battling a six-alarm fire in the new $2,000,000 postoffice building in Washington, D. C. The fire started in the general files in the general accounting office on the sixth floor. Considerable damage was done. (Associated Press Photo)

ITALIANS SEND SINEWS OF WAR TO FIGHTING TROOPS

While Europe's diplomats talked of peace, Mussolini poured supplies into the port of Massawa, Eritrea, for his invading legions in Ethiopia. Top, left: steamer discharges kegs of wine; right, wire for communications. Lower left: bags of wheat unloaded and right, a gun carriage loaded on a truck. (Associated Press Photos)

TRACTOR-AMBULANCE FOR MATANUSKA PIONEER

Heavy rains and muddy roads forced the pressing into service of a tractor and sled as an ambulance to take Mrs. John Hett, Matanuska colonist, to Palmer, Alaska, then by rail to Anchorage when she was stricken with appendicitis. Her husband is at her side as the tractor pulls the sled out of the colony. (Associated Press Photo)

Veteran Pivotman

Six-foot tall Wes Muller is playing his last year as center of the Stanford football team. The Glendale, Calif., youth is 23 years old and appeared in the Rose Bowl twice, the two years the Indians were the Pacific Coast Conference champions. (Associated Press Photo)

NEW OAKLAND SKIPPER SIGNS

Billy Meyer (left), new manager of the Oakland club of the Pacific Coast League, with Vincent Devincenzi, business manager of the club, as they affixed signatures to Meyer's contract to manage the Oaks next season. The deal was made at the baseball meeting in Dayton, O. (Associated Press Photo)

BEAUTY QUIZZED IN SLAYING

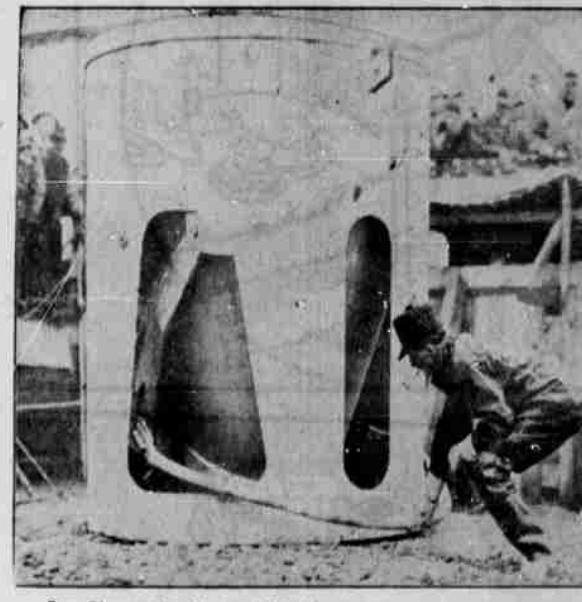

Mary Swops, 17 (right), estranged wife of Luther Philpot, was questioned in New City, N. Y., in the mysterious slaying of LeRoy Smith, 24 (left). He was found dead near her home. Two men were also questioned. (Associated Press Photos)

Bear Flankman

Twenty-one-year-old Bob Britting (above) is playing his last season with California as a left end while his brother, John, holds down the right end. The Beverley Hills, Calif., boy is six feet, one inch tall. (Associated Press Photo)

COULEE CONCRETE WORK STARTS

Gov. Clarence D. Martin of Washington tripped a four-yard bucket of concrete here to signalize the first upward progress of the giant Grand Coulee dam across the Columbia river. The completed project, with a 500-foot high dam, will irrigate 1,200,000 acres in central Washington. The picture shows the governor dumping the first bucket as workmen and a crowd looked on. (Associated Press Photo)

FROM AFRICA TO U. O.

Dr. C. G. S. de Villiers, dean of sciences at the University of Stellenbosch, South Africa, who is spending a month as visiting professor on the University of Oregon campus. His trip is financed by the Rockefeller Endowment for International Peace.