

Kennaston Faces Dude Chick Tonight—Hollis Challenges Winner

MARINE GRAPPLER THINKS CRAB HOLD WILL PIN COWBOY

Taylor Meets Max Glover, a Newcomer—Tuffy Cleet and Tiger Taskoff Will Trade Meanie Tactics

Bob Kennaston, Gold Hill's contribution to the wrestling game, will be the first man in as many weeks to attempt to saddle Dude Chick, sensational Wyoming wrestler and ex-wrestler, on the main event bout at the Armory tonight. The two previous aspirants have left the ring like a drunken sailor after a merry-go-round ride, but Kennaston, confident in his own grueling reverse head lock, is sure that he won't be called upon to survive the Dude's latest spin.

Ken Hollis, one of all the dirty wrestlers who have appeared here, has wired Promoter Mack Lillard, asking for a crack at the winner of tonight's go. In case of a Kennaston win, Hollis will be meeting the ex-marine for the second time, and in the case of a Chick victory Hollis will be battling to smear the prestige the cow-hand has built up in this district, he told Lillard.

Frank Taylor, the soft-spoken but hard-hitting Ohio State grappler, who last week broke a floor joist with Tuffy Cleet, is meeting a newcomer in Detroit's Max Glover in the middle main event. Glover comes hailed as one of the roughest wrestlers in the business, although his advance announcements state that he is not dirty. He is supposed to resemble Pete Belcastro in his ring craft, and depends a great deal on drop-kicks and Sonnenbergs. These two weapons are also included in Taylor's repertoire, although he did not call them into use against Cleet last week.

The opening bout will be for the local championship of the hair-pulling and eye-gouging department, when Tuffy Cleet, New York fire eater, meets Tiger Taskoff, Bulgaria's meanest meanie. Each seems jealous of the other's reputation as a tough guy, and dressing room brawls between the two have been narrowly averted. Lillard has signed the two at their own request.

The opening bout will start promptly at 8:30, under the Australian system of six 10-minute rounds. The other two bouts will be for two out of three falls.

To Grapple Newcomer

Frank Taylor (above), Ohio State university wrestler, who whanged the mat so hard with Tuffy Cleet of New York last week that he snapped a 4 by 4 inch stringer under the ring, will attempt to inflict further damage to the Armory equipment tonight with Detroit's Max Glover as one of the fall. The bout will be the first here for Glover, who is hailed as one of the roughest grapplers in the game. His roughness will be used in obliterating some of Taylor's good looks, that young man being one of Ohio's hand-somest.

BOWLING

Grays Auto and the Rogue Valley Golfers, and the Brill Metal and Smoke House bowling teams vie on the Smoke House Bowl alleys tomorrow night in regular city league games.

Last week the Mail Tribune took a terrific thrashing at the hands of the Smoke House rollers, 3769 to 2259, while the Schuss Vintage five were taking almost as convincing a beating from the Golfers. On Friday night the Brill Metal squad went down before the Studebaker Champions three games to one, and Medco romped through straight games against the Abbey Motors outfit.

GUN CLUB RETAINS ALL OFFICERS AT ANNUAL ELECTION

Annual Report Shows Great Record for Past Year—Turkey Dinner Tops Off Day—Porter Team Wins

All of the officers of the Medford Gun club, including T. E. Daniels as president, George W. Porter as vice-president, and E. W. Pease as secretary and treasurer, were re-elected at the annual meeting and team shoot held yesterday.

Members of the board of directors to serve with the other three officers were named as William Young, W. W. Bates, Charles W. Lemery, E. R. Durno, Ron De Vore and Syd Newton. A fine turkey dinner was held during the day, and the entire program was pronounced one of the most successful in the history of the club.

The annual report, read at the meeting, shows one of the most imposing records ever made by the organization. The staging of the Oregon State Trapshooting tournament accounted for the blasting of 132,000 targets, in addition to the 87,000 destroyed by the club shooters during the year, for a grand total of 219,000 birds.

The team shoot was highly exciting, with Jack Porter's "Reds" squad edging out Eddie Durno's "Blues" by the slim squeak of three pigeons, 759 to 736.

Ring out the old ring in the new. Ray "Stretch" Ettinger, bean-pole center on the Tiger basketball team, sang his swan song of high school competition against Ashland Saturday night. He graduates at mid-year. Sam VanDyke, considered a natural basketball player, starts his year's playing this week, having been ineligible last semester.

John Dickinson, cotton-topped guard, may drop out of school this term to work, but will probably be back for football next semester. Which takes two regulars from Coach Bowman's already green squad. VanDyke will probably take over the pivot duties. Grow will possibly be moved to forward to team with Ray Lewis, and Baker, vest-pocket guard, shifted to forward for the first two Ashland games, will be moved back to guard.

With some height on the team, represented by Grow, to team should have more of a chance against Ashland in the last two games. Medford is not yet out of the running for southern Oregon honors, although practically so. Two wins over Ashland, and a clean slate against Grants Pass will leave them in a tie with the Grizzlies. A pipe dream, perhaps, but not an impossibility.

With the exception of Ashland, the southern Oregon teams seem on about equal terms. Medford took Klamath Falls twice, and the Pelicans hurled Grants Pass. On Friday the Tigers and the Cavemen settle that part of the dispute here with hostilities resumed in the Climate City the following night.

We're still in a quandary as to whether Gold Hill's ex-marine wrestler, Bob Kennaston, is popular with Medford audiences, or whether he's not. Speak to one fan in glowing terms of the Gold Hill pride and you get a withering look that would sour condensed milk right through the can, and pan him to the next fan and you get threats of punches in the nose.

Perhaps we'd better stick to our real opinion of the man. We think he has a really dangerous hold in the "Gold Hill" crab, or reverse headlock, a splendid physique, albeit it is faintly reminiscent of a gorilla's, a fine sense of showmanship, and not much else. He lacks ring experience, but with his determination bids fair to become one of the best grapplers on the circuit when he finishes his California barnstorming tour. His crab hold and his ability to absorb punishment gives him a good chance to defeat Dude Chick tonight.

The popularity of Joe Louis has had the inevitable result. Our southern informant, who grows the backwoods from Louisiana to Florida and ranges north into the Virginias, tells us that every other peckanunny being ussers into us world now bears the title of Joe Louis Jones, or Joe Louis Brown. A few are still being crowned Babe Ruth, Brown, and here and there a Wallace Peacock Jones, but the Chocolate Chopper is tops.

Two tables are now in play at the Medford Table Tennis club's temporary home in the Norman Golf-Union Oil service station at Riverside avenue and Jackson boulevard. We took a fancy shucklacking at the hands of Bob Gall the other day, and are going to avoid him until we improve several hundred per cent.

Medford Bowlers Trim Grants Pass All-Stars

In a special inter-city bowling match with a group of all-stars from the Grants Pass city league, a picked team from the Medford city league Sunday walloped the Climate City squad 4983 to 4105. The Medford ladies went down before the feminine stars of Grants Pass, 1678 to 1440.

Membership in the club is still open. The Krag army rifle which used to sell for almost nothing, is no longer available, according to "Sonny" Gleason, secretary of the Medford National Rifle club. They were easily procured up until three years ago, but the supply is now exhausted. It is possible, however, to pick up other army guns from salvage houses, some of them with still good action, although the wooden parts may be damaged, Gleason said.

LIONS TRAMPLE PACKERS, 10-3

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 27.—(AP)—The ponderous Green Bay Packers, smarting under a 16 to 3 defeat, are convinced the Detroit Lions are the kings of national professional football. The Lions, losers to the Wisconsin pros in two out of three games during the regular season, removed all doubt of their championship talents in 60 minutes of gridiron warfare before 22,000 spectators at Gilmore stadium yesterday.

Ace Gutowsky, 195 pounds of speed-charged fullback, ripped through left tackle and dashed 84 yards for a touchdown, leaving a trail of fallen packers in his wake. Captain "Dutch" Clark kicked for the extra point. This was in the third quarter. In the last period Clark, his own running attack pretty well smothered by a battering packer defense, polished off his toe on the 20 yard stripe and booted another dropkick for 3 points. The packers, outscored but never outplayed, made their 3 points in the second quarter.

TWO LOSE LIVES IN ASCOT CRASH

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 27.—(AP)—W. E. (Spider) Matlock, mechanic riding with Al Gordon in a racing automobile which crashed at Ascot speedway yesterday, joined the veteran pilot in death today.

Matlock, stunt artist, succumbed to internal injuries while his wife and ten year old boy kept an all night vigil outside his room. Gordon, his skull fractured, chest crushed, died in a hospital a short time after the accident.

The rest of the starting field at Ascot raced through to the finish. Rex Mays, Riverside, Calif., won. Louie Meyer, Huntington Park, Calif., whose brother Eddie gave Al Gordon his first speed run a dozen years ago, was second. Floyd Roberts, Los Angeles was third.

BAKKE IS WINNER MT. HOOD CLASSIC IN STRONG BREEZE

GOVERNMENT CAMP, Ore., Jan. 27.—(AP)—Hermond Bakke of the Leavenworth, Wash., ski club won the class A ski jump here Sunday in the Cascade Ski club's tournament which opened the Pacific northwest's winter sports season.

A strong wind which made jumping hazardous cut down the distances. Bakke leaped 130 feet and 141 feet, compared with his 202-foot leap which won him the class A championship last year in the Mount Hood classic.

Hjalmer Hvam of the Cascade Ski club won second place today with jumps of 131 feet and 134. Halge Sather of the Leavenworth club was third with 132 and 138 foot leaps. Arndt Ostad of the Spokane Ski club was fourth with 124 and 121-foot jumps.

Class B honors went to Leif Flak of the Seattle Ski club who jumped 87 and 93 feet. Ole Amoth of the Bend Skyliners was second with leaps of 95 and 82 feet. Third place went to William Brown of the Cascade Ski club with 82 and 92 feet efforts.

Spills were numerous as the piercing wind harassed the jumpers from a side angle. Despite the raw weather, 7500 persons flocked to the mountainside and waded through snow three feet deep to watch the spectacular aerial antics.
