BREAD AND CAKES LIKE MOTHER MADE

Home Purity Bakery

Washington Cherry Cake

A fitting yet delicious cake for our first President's birthday—Same layer as in the famous Roses in Snow Cake—rich with cherries—Tomorrow.

2 Sizes 25c - 49c

Washington Pastries

A fine individual French pastry, suitably decorated.

Tomorrow 2 for 15c

CHERRY PIE

When Parson Weems put the cherry tree story in Washington's biography he little realized he was originating an annual cherry pie day—Tomorrow is the day and we have the pies.

Tomorrow ea. 25c

Cherry Butterflies

We annually cook up a lot of stuff George never heard of but our custom is a fine reminder to the young folks.

Tomorrow 2 for 5c

Honey Brazil Pan Rolls

Too bad there wasn't a modern bakery near George's house so he and Martha could have enjoyed some of these rolls—George probably would have said—"What, No Cherries."

Tomorrow per pan 10c

BUTTER HORNS

Here is another one that would have surprised George—Accustomed as he was to bakery goods made in crude colonial ovens he probably would have thought they were cake.

Each . . . 5c

Home Purity Bread

Now here is where George might feel at home—you know—he never tasted any but home style bread. We sometimes wonder if the good bread of pioneer days accounted for the ruggedness of the early pioneer.

Anyway—if George were here we have a pretty good idea where he would buy his bread.

An extra jar in the pantry takes care of an emergency and you don't have to worry about the quality.

IF GEORGE WASHINGTON Could See Us NOW!

WHILE our first impulse is to try to pay fitting tribute to the Father of our country, we cannot but wonder what he would say could he see a modern store and visit an average American home.

In George's time the home and the factory were one. Hardly anything was sold ready for use. While the woman spun and made the clothes for the family, the men toiled in the field and forest for food. All food processing was done at home. It was hard work—so hard that home life as we know it was impossible.

Today George would find the modern store able to supply every home need. In the home—where stood the loom we now find the piano—what was once the home work-shop is now the living room with its books—music—the meeting place of the family, the heart of American Home life.

Amazed as we are at the accomplishments of our colonial forefathers—our progress in the land of opportunity they gave us might be more amazing to them.

Things most commonplace to use would doubtless be most remarkable to them.—Had our appreciation of the many ordinary things of life not been dulled by everyday association we might show a higher degree of appreciation of our own U. S. A.

Super Meat Markets

If Washington could see an ultra sanitary market

Quite a difference in meats now and then—because of lack of refrigeration, cured meats were the main stay of the diet—Fresh meats except poultry and game were a rare treat indeed.

If their fresh meat was considered so much of a treat what would they think of a tender juicy steak or roast from our fancy steers.—Holding meat until at its best wasn't possible without modern refrigeration so they had to eat it fresh.

Modern foods—so commonplace to us represents one of the greatest achievements of science.

Swift's Premium Hams, lb. 29c
Part or whole ham—the boys will partially slice the part you buy.

Swift's Premium Sliced Bacon, lb. 39c
That famous mild cure has made Premium the favorite.

Eastern Bacon lb. 27c
Although not quite so mild as our sliced bacon—it's a good bacon.

Steer Beef Roasts lb. 12 1/2c
Beef of this fine flavor and tenderness was unknown in Washington's day.

Steer Swiss Steaks lb. 20c
They may have had them in Washington's day but we bet they couldn't cut them with a fork.

Steer Beef Short Ribs, lb. 12c
Some of the folks who bought them last week asked us to offer them again.

Ham and Veal Loaf lb. 18c
So popular for meat loaf that we grind hundreds of pounds weekly.

Hamburger 2 lbs. 25c
We should call this ground steer beef for that is what it is.

Boston Leg of Lamb lb. 25c
Bones out—rolled and tied to insure perfect roasting.

Fancy Leg of Lamb lb. 25c
A delicious Sunday roast.

Farm Style Sausage lb. 20c
Ground from good cuts of pork and seasoned farm style.

Little Pig Link Sausage, lb. 25c
Give a man some of these with hot cakes and hear what he says.
