B.P.O.E. Will Dance At Temple Tomorrow Honoring Washington

bed, and turned back north. However, the Los Angeles constabulary looked him over with only a casual glance, sniffed in disdain, and paid no further attention to him!

He is said to have hung around Hornbrook for some time, waiting to be picked up and hauled into the city jail, but still he was magnificently ignored. Finally, he decided, the rumor was right, that he had been misinformed as to the locale of the blockade, and wheeled and clattered on south to Yreka.

In that village he pulled to a halt and still no one bothered him. Abandoning his shabby car, he elected to force the issue, and started out to "go on" the streets of the little mining town.

A local police officer, who prefers to remain unknown, last week counted the bums infesting a side-door pullman as it coughed south out of Hill. There were 37 "bottle stiffs" dangling their worn shoes over the edge of the car-tops (riding rods is a thing of the past since freight cars don't have them any more).

Pointing out that the band is a civic asset and has donated time and service for many public occasions, Exalted Ruler E. W. Winkle and past Exalted Ruler H. N. Butler, declared at last evening's meeting that they were sure the people of Medford would co-operate in the effort to provide the trip for the musical organization.

Windup of the drive will be celebrated April 18 when a big Elks frolic and "days of '49" will be staged at the temple, with dancing and other diversions for the public.
