

HEIR TO THRONE OF EGYPT HELD TO IRON REGIME

Crown Prince Farouk Virtually Prisoner in London Mansion Surrounded by Guards and Instructors

LONDON.—(UP)—In a gaunt and ancient mansion of London's Kensington Hill the 16-year-old heir to one of the oldest thrones in the world is living the life of a virtual prisoner, surrounded by guards and disciplinarians.

The youth, above six feet in height and powerfully built, is Crown Prince Farouk of Egypt, the "Prince Charming" of the Nile.

Any day he may be recalled to Cairo to become a reigning Pharaoh, for his father, the 70-year-old King Fuad, is in poor health and his condition has been aggravated by the political unrest and sporadic violence of recent months in Egypt.

European specialists were summoned recently to attend the ailing monarch who was forced to forego participation in the Bairan levee at Cairo, the greatest affair of the year, marking the end of the Ramadan feast.

Keeps Student Status. Although the attention of his native land and of Britain is turned upon him, this broad-shouldered youth has no opportunity to bask in publicity. Sent to England to study preparatory to entering the British Royal Military academy at Woolwich, Prince Farouk is constantly being reminded by his advisors that for the present he is only a student.

On constant watch over him is Sir Ahmed Hassanin Bey, famous as the discoverer of the lost oasis of Libya and controller of the boy prince.

Prince Farouk is full of energy and would like to see something of London's gay life, so a deputy controller watches over him as well. The deputy is Gen. Masry Tasha, one-time Turkish general and former head of the police school at Cairo.

The general is a hard taskmaster, according to members of the prince's entourage.

This student prince looks, acts and speaks like an English boy. This is due to a large extent, probably, to the fact that he has had an English governess since he was born. He speaks English without a trace of accent.

He is said to excel at polo and plans to play at Harehaleigh in practice matches and games this summer.

Prince Farouk will remain in England for three years — unless called back to Egypt meanwhile — and will be in strict incognito all that time. Not until he has passed out of Woolwich academy as a gunner will he be allowed a taste of London's bright lights.

He has had, thus far, only one social function — lunch at Buckingham palace.

Three Killed In Week In Industry. SALEM, Feb. 21.—(AP)—Three men were fatally injured in industrial accidents, the report of the accident commission the past week revealed. Others injured totaled 660. The fatalities were:

Peter Borg, Portland laborer, injured December 5; Andrew J. Harrison, Portland steel worker, injured at Bonnevile February 8; and William Berry, Port Orford edgerman, injured February 13.

but an Arabic tutor accompanies him lest he forget his native tongue.

Has Native Valets. Waiting upon him constantly are two dusky valets from the Nile. Only the butler and the cook of the 18-room house on Kingston Hill are English.

A policeman stands guard night and day at the end of the long drive that leads to the house in the depth of four acres of landscaped grounds. Within the grounds are plain-cliffed officers. No chances are taken with Britain's most distinguished young guest of the year.

The future pharaoh rises at 6:30 in the morning and goes for a brisk horseback ride, accompanied sometimes by Sir Ahmed, sometimes by the vigilant policeman-general.

At 8:30 he sits an English breakfast — tea, kippers and toast — and then his day begins.

Tutors recommended by the British government arrive. There is a French tutor who teaches the prince twice a week.

Study Includes Science. He is tutored daily in English, two tutors alternating. They teach him history, geography, mathematics, chemistry and physics as well.

Twice a week the young prince drives to the Woolwich academy, where a sergeant-instructor gives him an hour of gymnastics. Almost daily in the gardens of the large mansion he boxes, fences and plays tennis with two "warders" and is extremely fond of rugger.

He is said to excel at polo and plans to play at Harehaleigh in practice matches and games this summer.

YOUNG BOURBONS ELECT OFFICERS; COOTER IS GUEST

Jack Murray was formally elected president of the Young Democratic club of Jackson county at a meeting held last night at headquarters, 139 West Main street.

Others elected were Joe Winkler, Paul Luy and Marjorie Kelly, vice-presidents; Jack Marshall, secretary; and Jean Fabrick, treasurer.

As no opposition was offered to the slate presented by the nominating committee, all officers were elected by an unanimous ballot. Mr. Murray was unable to be present because of a throat ailment that has confined him to his home for several days.

The new officers, therefore, did not assume command last night but will take over their duties at the next meeting of the club on March 8.

John E. Cooter, speaker of the state house of representatives at the last regular session, was an unexpected guest at last night's meeting. Now employed by the farm labor replacement bureau, he arrived here from Salem yesterday on bureau business.

He told the club of the accomplishments of the New Deal and emphasized that it is necessary to keep the present administration in office for another four years to allow completion of its social and economic program.

POLIO SUFFERER TAKEN PORTLAND

Miss Hilda Williams of near Talent, one of the victims of poliomyelitis in the recent infantile paralysis scare here, was yesterday taken to the Shrine hospital in Portland for the most advanced treatment now known to science.

Miss Williams' legs are still paralyzed but doctors hold out hope that she will eventually recover completely. She is one of the very few who survived the attacks in this district. After a gallant fight for life, she has been recovering slowly since the disease first assailed her in the latter part of November, 1935.

The fund for infantile paralysis treatment at the Shrine hospital is partially supplied by money taken in at the annual balls held in honor of President Roosevelt's birthday.

FEE FOR CAPITOL ARCHITECTS SET

PORTLAND, Ore., Feb. 21.—(AP)—The Oregon capitol reconstruction commission voted to pay a six per cent architectural fee on the new $3,200,000 structure.

It was decided at yesterday's meeting here to hold $300,000 of the available funds in reserve for unforeseen expenses which might arise later.

FWA officials told the commission it must show speed or lose the grant of federal funds to aid in the construction.

The commission members said the program was going ahead as rapidly as possible and dates would be announced soon for the nation-wide contest to select an architect for the new statehouse.

If an out-of-state architect wins the job, he will receive four per cent and must associate himself with an Oregon architect who will receive two per cent.

Grants Pass Man Files For Senate. SALEM, Feb. 20.—(AP)—W. A. Johnson of Grants Pass filed with the secretary of state today his declaration of candidacy for state senator from Josephine county. Johnson, a Republican, served in the lower house of the legislature at the last session.

Ye Poet's Corner

A PICTURE
When in winter I am lonely,
And have nothing else to do,
Then I paint a picture,
Red, green, and blue,
And yet I have no brush or paper,
No paint of any hue.
For it is a mental picture
Of flowers, birds, and bees,
Of sparkling sunlit waters,
Of tall and stately trees.
Anyone can paint a beautiful picture,
With the greatest ease,
And I will show you how to,
All you have to do is think:
For it is a memory to you.
