Rialto Thriller

"The Lone Wolf Returns," which will play at the Rialto theater today and Wednesday, brings back to the screen the long missing adventures of the hectic and famous fiction character known as the Lone Wolf. The part of the Lone Wolf, created by Louis Vance as one of the most daring of all adventurers, is played by the well-known actor, Melvyn Douglas. Advance reports say that Douglas brings his part back with all the old furore and lust that was given it in years past, when the Lone Wolf reigned as top action man in films.

In this most recent version of "The Lone Wolf Returns," the Lone Wolf actually returns, not only to the screen, but to take up the old crave for adventure that is really adventure. This time he comes back to rob one of his old acquaintances of her jewels. He finds it rather difficult, inasmuch as he feels himself falling in love with her and under ordinary circumstances one cannot steal from the girl he loves, so he winds up the story by taking the girl instead.

Others in the cast with Melvyn Douglas are Gail Patrick, Arthur Hohl and Tala Birell.

Civil War Drama Coming Wednesday

The first important Southern picture to come out of Hollywood in recent years will be at the Craterian theater tomorrow only, where Margaret Sullavan will be shown in "So Red the Rose." Stark Young's epic story of the old Confederacy.

Miss Sullavan plays the part of Valiette Bedford, a gracious though headstrong Southern belle who is caught up by the need of her people when the war breaks out. But the man she loves, and to whom she is pledged, has different ideas on the subject. Unable to arouse in himself the fire of patriotism, his actions precipitate a break between the two—a break that is mended finally when he finds himself no longer able to resist the call of the South to arms.

Although the romance of the two forms the basic background of the picture, there are nevertheless many thrilling scenes of the war, which plays such an important part in the story.

Walter Connolly and Janet Beecher head the supporting cast, with Randolph Scott playing the part of Duncan, the man in love with Vallette.

COUNTY GRAND JURY RESUMES SESSIONS

The grand jury, George L. Treichler, Central Point, foreman, resumed sessions today and it is expected it will be the end of the week before they finish the work in hand. The grand jury was continued yesterday by Judge H. D. Norton to complete their work before the drawing of a new grand jury for the February term of court, which started Monday.

The grand jury is considering eight or ten criminal matters and two investigations — the death of George Hall, Elk creek rancher, last November under baffling circumstances, and the suicide of Myles Randall by poison in a county jail cell.

PRESENT CANDIDA IN C. P. THURSDAY

The eighth performance of Eugene O'Neil's "Candida" will be presented by Southern Oregon Normal school players Thursday evening at the Central Point Grange hall at 8 o'clock. The play, under the direction of Angus L. Bowmer, has proved very popular with southern Oregon audiences. Thursday's performance being the first time it has been presented in the Medford vicinity.

Heading the cast will be Miss Marjorie McNair of Ashland, who has alternated with Miss Helen Edmiston of Medford in portraying the title role. Others of the cast are: Wayne Smith, as Rev. James Mavor Morrell; Ford Hummell, as Eugene Marchbanks; Roberta Nourse, as Miss Proserpine Garnett; Ivan Nye, as Alexander Mill; and John Harr, as Mr. Burgess.

The informal style of presentation, with the audience seated on all four sides of the playes, dispenses with a stage and most stage conventions, the innovation seeming to be much approved by local audiences.

This presentation is open to the public.
