of the northwest regional planning commission, was in conference today with C. J. Buck, United States regional forester in Portland. It was learned by telephone by Karl L. Janouch, supervisor of the Rogue River national forest.

Mr. Merzereau, who has always shown a disposition to have the roadside beauty of the timberland preserved, was quoted as saying he was writing to Jameson Parker of the state planning commission.

Offer Stands Ignored—Mr. Janouch said that on last August 13 the national forest service offered the Rogue River timber company $30,242 for about 1,079 acres of the tract, the piece sought extending 500 to 1,000 feet on either side of the highway and for the tract's full length of five miles along the roadway.

No reply has ever been received relative to the offer, Mr. Janouch stated.

In the summer of 1934 a conference regarding the tract was held in Medford, representatives being present from all southern Oregon counties. Various civic and trade organizations participated and the meeting went on record as favoring retention of the timberland as a state or national domain.

In Famous Role

Out of the fiery pages of Harold Bell Wright's blazing novel comes the picture all America is cheering! Read and loved by millions, "The Calling of Dan Matthews" reaches the screen as a dynamic saga of a one-man vice-squad, tipping the lid off a city of sin.

The brilliant pen of Harold Bell Wright created the character of this modern young crusader and Richard Arlen brings him to life in the picture version of this famous novel, which starts a three day run at the Rialto theatre today.

Dan Matthews is the fiction's favorite hero—a two-fisted foe of crime in new, more thrilling adventures. Appearing opposite Richard Arlen is Charlotte Wynters. Others in the cast are Douglas Dumbrille, Donald Cook and Mary Kornman.

Years were recorded with gains ranging from fractions to 2 or more points. The close was firm. Transfers approximated 2,700,000 shares.

TENGWALD STARTS PRACTICE OF LAW

Victor A. Tengwald, aspirant for the Republican nomination for district attorney of Jackson county, was today established in the general practice of law at 125 West Main street. His resignation as executive secretary of the Jackson county relief committee, with which he was associated since March 10, 1933, became effective yesterday. Miss Otis D. Brown, social supervisor for the committee, will act as executive secretary.

Mr. Tengwald will continue as United States commissioner, a position he has held since April 21, 1932. He served as Jackson county court secretary for two years under the late Judge Alex Sparrow. He was graduated from the Westminster law school in 1930 and was admitted to practice in the Oregon state and federal courts two years ago.

Trio of Stars in Craterian Hit

The star trio of Herbert Marshall, Jean Arthur and Leo Carrillo have the responsibility of making "If You Could Only Cook" playing tomorrow only at the Craterian theatre, a film treat that should satisfy any seeker of the light and the merrily entertaining comedy romance which has proved so popular during the past.

And be it said to their credit, their performances, together with those of Frieda Inescort and Lionel Stander among the featured players in the cast, have been such as to make the film an outstanding hit show.

The story has Marshall as the forward looking president of a famous motorcar company—intensely interested in the radically different streamlining but held back by a very conservative board of directors. In disgust he walks out and takes his troubles to a park bench. There he meets the attractive Jean Arthur, out of a job but ready for almost anything to keep a roof over her head.

The meeting results in the two applying for the jobs of cook and butler in the mansion of racketeer Leo Carrillo. Stander, Carrillo's henchman, sees no sense in the thing but the chief is intrigued by Miss Arthur's ability to make lobster taste like something else and with the acceptance of the two the fun begins.

"If You Could Only Cook" will also be shown tomorrow night only at the Holly theatre.
