

2 SCOUT TROOPS IN LOCAL REGION WIN RECOGNITION

The troops of Crater Lake area council have achieved recognition for upholding the "tradition for Scout trained citizenry." Troops 8 and 16 of the Medford district.

To obtain this gold seal for the "tradition of Scout trained citizenry" (1) the troop must have won the ten year program award during the jubilee year or (2) been instrumental in organizing a jubilee troop during the jubilee year. (3) Have organized its adult graduates (if the troop be old enough to have such) into a troop alumni or an Old Scouts association as a means of carrying on the traditions of scouting into days of voting citizenship.

"Any registered Scout troop in the Crater Lake area council which qualifies for the gold seal should make application at once through Scout headquarters," said Larry Schade, council president.

Troop 8 is sponsored by the Washington School P. T. A., with Mrs. A. E. Brockway, president, and under the scoutmaster's leadership of Jack Heyland, with Lois E. Hamilton, assistant scoutmaster, and the following troop committee, who have cooperated, directing the troop's program during the past year: L. D. Jones, chairman, C. O. Wheelock, Stanley Jones and Harry Ward. The 1935 troop roster recorded the following Scouts, who helped the troop make this achievement: Chris Barker, Furman Blylock, Tom Boothby, Edgar Cleven, William Cool, Robert Covartone, Hugh Ferguson, Chet Ferguson, George Gillings, Jack Hamilton, Jack Heyland, Jr., Roy Huson, Burton Isaacs, Robert Jones, Stanley Jones, Jr., Gerald Keezee, Donald Lawrence, Jr., Morris Leonard, Bill Marshall, Ted Marshall, Leonard Moulton, Cecil Reich, Larry Schade, Jr., Harold Elight, Bob Walker, Ed Wheelock, Thomas Wright, and Donald Younger.

This troop is now re-registering for 1936 and meets every Tuesday night in the Washington school gymnasium at 7:30. "Now is the time for all new Scouts to join," according to Scoutmaster Heyland.

Troop 16 is sponsored by the Medford Active Club, Jack N. Butler, president, and is under scoutmaster's leadership of Harold L. Larsen, with Irwin Doly as assistant scoutmaster, and the following troop committee, who have assisted in directing the troop's program during the past year: Earl A. Sims, chairman, Dr. S. E. Phillips, Dr. D. H. Findley, John Niedermeyer and Kenneth Anderson. Troop 16's roster for 1935-1936 consists of: Raymond Chapman, William Crawford, Donald Groscher, Swerill Doty, Wendling Hiley, Roland Hogue, Wilbur Johnston, Eugene Lewman, Kenneth Lewman, Raymond Miller, Richard Nelson, Martin Northcraft, Slyde Perdue, Willis Pratt, Newton Smith,

MAHONEY STRIKES AT RICH IN TALK TO TOWNSENDITES

Reiterating his earlier assertions that "you can't eat the constitution," Willis Mahoney, mayor of Klamath Falls, last night thumped his own willingness to eat Townsend club bread, and to take off his coat and "stump the state for whoever the Townsend committee endorse" before an open meeting in the K. P. hall. The hall was jammed, many finding only standing room.

"I like being heckled," Mr. Mahoney started out, and assured his audience that nothing pleased him more than having his statements contradicted but that he preferred their being contradicted at the time, not the next day. No one contradicted Mr. Mahoney.

The Klamath mayor's address was divided into three parts: "Conditions in America Today," "What It Is Possible to Do," and "The Townsend Plan as a Remedy."

In the first part of the speech Mahoney treated the monetary interests in this country very roughly, taking particular issue with Andrew Mellon for his control of aluminum, pointing out that five per cent of the people in the country control 85 per cent of the wealth.

In reference to the American Telephone and Telegraph company, which he described as a monopoly, Mahoney assured his hearers that he "not even with those guys" a few weeks ago when he vetoed their franchise in Klamath Falls. He did not mention the fact that the Klamath city council passed the measure over his veto at their next meeting.

In taking a verbal punch at the high salaried men of the nation, Mahoney stated that 15,000 people at the top of the wage scale got many millions of dollars more than did the 1,500,000 at the bottom, a condition which, added to the fact that 13,000,000 people are walking the streets penniless, he predicted would lead to revolution unless the Townsend plan were enacted into law to take up the slack.

Reviewing the Townsend plan, the Klamath executive foresaw the plan not only financing itself and leaving a million dollars or more at the end of the first year as a running balance, but also paying off the national debt in a short time.

The assembly cheered Mahoney wildly at times, particularly when he mentioned the futility of attempting to devour the constitution, his assertion that the Townsend plan was greater than any man and the only solution of the country's woes, and his ringing denunciation of Wall street.

Mahoney closed his section of the meeting with a "God Bless You," before dashing to fill an engagement in Roseburg.

The rest of the meeting was taken over by L. R. Johnson, state Townsend speaker, who spoke on the various phases of Townsend legislation.

BORAH SUPPORTS ROOSEVELT PLAN FOR NEW TAXES

WASHINGTON, March 4.—(AP)—A house ways and means subcommittee and treasury financial experts today canvassed possibilities of meeting President Roosevelt's day-old tax suggestions with a levy averaging 33 1/3 per cent on undistributed corporate surpluses.

As discussed behind closed doors, no portion of the surpluses would be exempt. President Roosevelt yesterday drew a distinction between surplus and reserves set up to cover depreciation and working capital.

Chairman Samuel B. Hill (D., Wash.) said after the committee meeting, however, it was the "general understanding that banks and fiduciary corporations such as life insurance companies would be exempt."

He added that "it is contended" such a program would not prevent corporations building up reserves.

The committee began its preliminary survey of the sweeping tax proposals, by which Mr. Roosevelt seeks to raise $620,000,000 annually for farm subsidiaries and the "soldiers' bonus, as congress divided into bitterly warring camps over the revenue requests.

FAD FOR DIETING IS POOH POOHED BY NOTED PHYSICIAN

"So he cuts out that food," said the doctor. "If he keeps depriving himself of that food, he may lead himself into serious injury. When you think a food doesn't agree with you, don't blame that food. In most cases it is something far different or a combination of a good many more things."

If one is constipated, he should only increase his vegetable and fruit fare instead of eliminating all other foods. Water is important, too, and six glasses a day will do depending upon whether the meals include much other liquids.

Lastly, said the doctor, special diet is really intended only for special cases and not the average person. The sufferer from diabetes and ulcers must live on diets but for Tom, Dick and Harry:

"Eat a general mixed meal and leave your food worries behind."
