From Camp Hand—Lieut. Walter J. Bubolz and W. W. Belcher, educational adviser, of Camp Hand conferred yesterday with officers at CCC headquarters here.

Receives Aid—C. A. Richardson, caretaker of the lodge in Crater lake national park, was to be taken by rangers today to government camp whence he was to be brought to Medford for medical treatment and rest. He is suffering from a sprained ankle, sustained a few days ago when he slipped on the snow.

Confers Here—John R. Sargent, U. S. bureau of public roads, under whose supervision roads in Crater lake national park were constructed, left this morning for Klamath Falls after conferring here with David H. Canfield, park superintendent, and J. Carlisle Crouch, chief ranger. Mr. Sargent makes his headquarters in Portland.

To Address Activities—David H. Canfield, superintendent of Crater lake national park, will be the principal speaker at the weekly dinner-meeting of the Ashland Active club in the Ashland hotel at 6:15 tomorrow evening. While the exact subject of the talk has not been decided, it is expected to be on some phase of national park administration.

Attend Conference—Robert Aufferde, project superintendent at Camp Applegate, and J. A. Walsh, project superintendent at Camp South Fork, today attended a conference of Rogue river national forest personnel in federal city. The conference, which opened yesterday, is mapping out a program of forest fire prevention and suppression for the summer season.

SPEED IS SOUGHT IN FLOOD RELIEF

An urgent plea for immediate contributions to the Jackson county Red Cross fund for the rehabilitation of flood victims was issued today by George T. Frey, local chairman. The county's quota has been set by national headquarters at $450.

"The response thus far has been generous but we are eager to complete the quota so that Jackson county may be among the first to forward its allotment," Mr. Frey said. "We have now received slightly more than $100. Contributions have ranged from $1 to $10 from adults. Children have been coming in with 25-cent pieces."

"I'll kill the man who kills my dog." How many times have you heard this said; yet how many times do you honestly believe it could happen? In "The Voice of Bugle Ann," playing tomorrow only at the Craterian theater—also tomorrow night only at the Holly theater, Lionel Barrymore—as Spring Davis—voices this threat, and when his prize foxhound is killed he carries out the threat and commits murder. From this stirring background has come one of the most gripping of screen dramas.

"Bugle Ann" is the dog's name, derived from the deep bay so much like a bugle. She is the old man's pride and joy, and upon her he lavishes the affection and care he might feel for a daughter. She is the only dog in Missouri with that prize bugle voice and, having raised her from the runt of the litter, Spring Davis feels justly proud of his pup. When his dog is killed by the meanness of his
