FROST PREDICTED TONIGHT IN WAKE OF CLEARING SKY

By the Associated Press. Flurries of fine snow fell over western Oregon today, while half an inch to an inch of snow was deposited in eastern Oregon. Most of the snow melted rapidly.

Central Oregon experienced clear, cold weather. The minimum temperature at Bend early today was 16 degrees. A biting wind blew at Klamath Falls.

An inch of snow fell at Baker during the night, and half an inch at La Grande melted soon.

Snow, sun, rain, hail and mist alternated at Grants Pass. The snowfall was scant.

An inch of fresh snow was reported on the summits of the Green Springs and Siskiyou highways. None fell on the Seston mountain and Oregon Caves highways.

Rialto Stars

What is tragic today is funny tomorrow, and the gripping, breathless melodrama of the Gay Nineties is a universal laugh in the Turbulent Thirties. This change is a vital highlight in "Chatterbox," Ann Shirley's new starring vehicle playing at the Rialto theatre today and Thursday.

Portraying an unsophisticated and stage-struck youngster from the Vermont hinterland, she gets the leading role in a revival of an old-fashioned tear-jerker, believing that she is another Bernhardt playing a dramatic masterpiece.

With its picturesque settings of New England farms and Greenwich Village theatres, "Chatterbox" is the first screenplay specially written to suit Ann Shirley's unique talents.

Phillips Holmes, Erik Rhodes, Edward and Margaret Hamilton are with Miss Shirley in this comedy romance.

Wallace Beery Has Craterian Lead

With a cast which should make choice screen entertainment from almost any story, "Ah, Wilderness," the comedy of American family life back in the early 1900s comes to the Craterian theatre tomorrow.

Wallace Beery, Lionel Barrymore, Aline MacMahon, Eric Linden, Cecelia Parker, Mickey Rooney, Charles Grapewin, Frank Albertson, Spring Byington and many others will be seen in the featured roles.

Acclaimed on the stage, where it was played both by George M. Cohan and the late Will Rogers, the film version of "Ah Wilderness" adds the lavish scope of the screen to its production. Hailed as a typical drama of family life—as true today as yesterday—it has for its background the New England town of Grafton, Mass.

Beery plays the ineffective, alcoholic but lovable Uncle Sid, running the gamut from comedy to poignant tragedy with Aline MacMahon, who plays the spinster aunt who loves but cannot marry him.

Lionel Barrymore is the father of Eric Linden, and in his scene with the boy where he tells him that which every father must tell his son, he has been given a dramatic moment that rivals his now famous scene in "The Free Soul."

Young Linden and Cecelia Parker are the boy and girl lovers; Helen Flint is the "other girl" who teaches the boy a new meaning to life; Spring Byington is the mother, and the others also featured add to the interest.
